Newspapers.

15.

In cases of Bills respecting any Burial Ground, Cemetery or Gas Works, the Notices shall set forth and specify the limits within which such Burial Ground, Cemetery or Gas Works are intended to be erected or made.

16.

In all cases where it is proposed to divert into any intended Cut, Canal, Reservoir, Aqueduct or Navigation, or into any intended variation, extension or enlargement thereof respectively, any Water from any existing Cut, Canal, Reservoir, Aqueduct or Navigation, whether directly or derivatively, and whether under any agreement with the Proprietors thereof or otherwise, the Notices shall contain the name of every such existing Cut, Canal, Reservoir, Aqueduct or Navigation, the Waters supplying which will either directly or derivatively flow or proceed into any such intended Cut, Canal, Reservoir, Aqueduct or Navigation, or into any intended variation, extension or enlargement thereof.

17.

In cases of Bills for confirming or prolonging the terms of Letters Patent, each Notice shall have prefixed to it in Capital Letters the name by which the Invention is usually distinguished, and shall contain a distinct description of the Invention for which such Letters Patent have been obtained, and also an account of the Term of their Duration.

18.

In the months of October and November, or either of them, immediately preceding the Application for a Bill, such Notices shall be published once in the London, Edinburgh or Dublin Gazette, as the case may be, and in Three successive Weeks in some one and the same Newspaper of the County in which the City, County of a City, Town, County of a Town, or Lands to which such Bill relates shall be situate; or if there be no Newspaper published therein, then in the Newspaper of some County adjoining or near thereto; and if such Bill relate specially to any particular City, County of a City, Town or County of a Town, in which any Newspaper is published such Notices shall be published in Three successive Weeks, in one and the same Newspaper published therein; or if such Bill do not relate to any particular City, County of a City, Town, County of a Town or Lands, such Notices shall be published once in the London, Edinburgh or Dublin Gazette only, as the case may be; and if such Bill relate to Lands situate in more than one County, such Notices shall be inserted once in each of Three successive Weeks, in some Newspaper or Newspapers which shall be published in London at least Six Days in the Week, or in Edinburgh or Dublin at least Two Days in the Week, as the case may be, and in a Newspaper of the County in which the principal Office of the Company or Companies or other parties who are the Promoters of any such Bill, shall be situate, and in a Newspaper of every County in which any new Works are proposed to be constructed, or in which any lands are situate in respect of which any new or further powers for the completion of Works already authorized are intended to be applied for.

2. Notices and Applications to Owners, Lessees and Occupiers of Lands and Houses.

Standing Orders,
compliance
with which is to be proved before Examiners.

19.

On or before the 15th day of December immediately preceding the application for a Bill by which any Lands or Houses are intended to be taken, or an extension of the time granted by any former Act for that purpose is sought, application in writing shall be made to the Owners or reputed Owners, Lessees or reputed Lessees, and Occupiers of all lands and houses so intended to be taken, or which may be taken as being within the limits of deviation defined upon the Plan; and in cases of Bills included in the second class, such application shall be, as nearly as may be, in the form set forth in the Appendix marked (A.)

Application to Owners, &c. on or before 15th December.

20.

Such application shall be made by delivering the same personally to every such party, or by leaving the same at his usual place of abode, or, in his absence from the United Kingdom, with his agent, on or before the 15th day of December, or by forwarding the same by post in a registered letter, addressed with a sufficient direction to his usual place of abode, and posted on or before the 12th day of December, at the chief Post Office in London, Manchester, Liverpool, Birmingham, Leeds, Newcastle-upon-Tyne, Norwich, Lincoln, Shrewsbury, Bristol, Exeter, Edinburgh, Glasgow, Aberdeen, Inverness, Dublin, Belfast, Cork or Athlone, at such hours and according to such regulations as the Postmaster General shall from time to time appoint, for the posting and registration of such letters.

How Application to be made.

21.

In all cases the written acknowledgment of the party applied to shall, in the absence of other proof, be sufficient evidence of an application having been made, or notice given; and in case of an application or notice having been forwarded by post, in a registered letter, the production of the Post Office receipt for such letter, duly stamped, in such form as the Postmaster General shall have appointed, shall be sufficient evidence of the due delivery of such letter; Provided it shall appear that the same was properly and sufficiently directed, and that the same was not returned by the Post Office as undelivered.

Written acknowledgment of Party applied to,
and, in case of Application or Notice by post, Post Office Receipt,

As respects all Bills for the incorporation of Joint Stock Companies, or proposed Companies for carrying on any Trade or Business, or for conferring upon such Companies the power of suing and being sued, there shall be deposited in the Private Bill Office, on or before 31st December, a copy of the Deed or Agreement of Partnership (if any) under which the Company or proposed Company is acting, and in all cases a Declaration stating the following matters:—

1st.—The present and proposed amount of the Capital of the Company.

2d.—The number of Shares, and the amount of each Share.

3d.—The number of Shares subscribed for.

4th.—The amount of Subscriptions paid up.

5th.—The names, residences and descriptions of the Shareholders or Subscribers (so far as the same can be made out), and of the actual or provisional Directors, Treasurers, Secretaries or other officer, if any.

And such documents shall be verified by the signature of some authorized officer of the Company or proposed Company (if any), and by some responsible party promoting the Bill; and copies of such Declarations shall be printed at the expense of the Promoters of the Bill, and delivered at the Vote Office for the use of the Members of the House, and at the Private Bill Office for the use of any Agent who may apply for the same.

Copies of Estimate, Declaration,
&c., to be printed, and delivered in Vote Office and Private Bill Office.

On or before 31st December, copies of the Estimate of Expense of the Undertaking; and where a Declaration alone, or Declaration and Estimate of the probable amount of Rates and Duties, are required, copies of such Declaration, or of such Declaration and Estimate, shall be printed at the expense of the Promoters of the Bill, and delivered at the Vote Office for the use of the Members of The House, and at the Private Bill Office for the use of any Agent who may apply for the same.

Deposit not valid on Sunday, &c.

43.

No Deposit shall be deemed valid if made on a Sunday or Christmas Day, or before Eight o'clock in the forenoon, or after Eight o'clock in the afternoon of any day.

4. Form in which Plans, Books of Reference, Sections and Cross-Sections shall be prepared.

Plans.

Every Plan required to be deposited shall be drawn to a scale of not less than Four inches to a Mile, and in the case of Bills of the First Class, shall describe the lands intended to be taken, and in the case of Bills of the Second Class, shall describe the line or situation of the whole of the Work (no alternative line or Work being in any case permitted), and the lands in or through which it is to be made, maintained, varied, extended or enlarged, or through which every communication to or from the Work shall be made; and where it is the intention of the Parties to apply for powers to make any lateral deviation from the line of the proposed Work, the limits of such deviation shall be defined upon the Plan, and all Lands included within such limits shall be marked thereon; and unless the whole of such Plan shall be upon a scale of not less than a quarter of an inch to every 100 feet, an enlarged Plan shall be added of any Building, Yard, Court-Yard or Land within the curtilage of any Building, or of any Ground cultivated as a Garden, either in the line of the proposed Work, or included within the limits of the said deviation, upon a scale of not less than a quarter of an inch to every 100 feet. (See Fig. 3.)

Description of Plans.

Lands within Deviation to be on Plan.

Buildings, &c. on enlarged Scale.

45.

In all cases where it is proposed to make, vary, extend or enlarge any Cut, Canal, Reservoir, Aqueduct or Navigation, the Plan shall describe the Brooks and Streams to be directly diverted into such intended Cut, Canal, Reservoir, Aqueduct or Navigation, or into any variation, extension or enlargement thereof respectively, for supplying the same with Water.

Plan to describe Brooks, &c. to be diverted.

46.

In all cases where it is proposed to make, vary, extend, or enlarge any Railway, the Plan shall exhibit thereon the distances in miles and furlongs, from one of the termini; and a memorandum of the radius of every curve not exceeding One Mile in length shall be noted on the Plan in furlongs and chains; and where tunnelling as a substitute for open cutting is intended, such tunnelling shall be marked by a dotted line on the Plan.

Distances to be marked in Miles and Furlongs, and memorandum of Curves and Tunnelling.

Standing Orders,
compliance
with which is to be proved before
Examiners.

Diversion and widening or narrowing of Roads, &c. to

47.

If it be intended to divert, widen or narrow any Turnpike Road, Public Carriage Road, Navigable River, Canal or Railway, the course of such diversion, and the extent of such widening or narrowing, shall be marked upon the Plan.

48.

Book of Reference.

Contents of Book of Reference.

The Book of Reference to every such Plan shall contain the names of the Owners or Reputed Owners, Lessees or Reputed Lessees, and Occupiers of all Lands and Houses in the Line of the proposed Work, or within the limits of deviation as defined upon the Plan, and shall describe such Lands and Houses respectively.

Sections.

49.

Section to be drawn to a scale of not less than one inch to every 100 feet.

The Section shall be drawn to the same horizontal scale as the Plan, and to a vertical scale of not less than one inch to every 100 feet, and shall show the surface of the ground marked on the Plan, the intended level of the proposed Work, the height of every Embankment and the depth of every Cutting, and a datum horizontal line, which shall be the same throughout the whole length of the Work, or any Branch thereof respectively, and shall be referred to some fixed point (stated in writing on the section), near some portion of such Work, and in the case of a Canal, Cut, Navigation, Turnpike or other Carriage-road or Railway, near either of the Termini. (See line D. D., Fig. 2.) 50.

Section to specify level of both banks.

In cases of Bills for improving the Navigation of any River, there shall be a Section which shall specify the Levels of both Banks of such River; and where any alteration is intended to be made therein, it shall describe the same by Feet and Inches, or decimal parts of a foot.

51.

Line of Railway on Section to correspond with upper surface of Rails.

In every Section of a Railway, the Line of the Railway marked thereon shall correspond with the upper surface of the rails. (See line S. S. Fig. 2.) 52.

Vertical measures to be marked at change of gradient.

Distances on the Datum Line shall be marked in miles and furlongs, to correspond with those on the Plan; a vertical measure from the Datum Line to the Line of the Railway shall be marked in feet and inches, or decimal parts of a foot, at each change of the gradient or inclination; and the proportion or rate of inclination between each such change shall also be marked.

53. Wherever

53.

Wherever the line of the Railway is intended to cross any turnpike-road, public carriage-road, navigable River, Canal or Railway, the height of the Railway over or depth under the surface thereof, and the height and span of every Arch of all Bridges and Viaducts, by which the Railway will be carried over the same, shall be marked in figures at every crossing thereof; and where the Railway will be carried across any such turnpike-road, public carriage-road or Railway, on the level thereof, such crossing shall be so described on the Section; and it shall also be stated if such level will be unaltered.

Standing Orders,
compliance
with which is to be proved before Examiners.

Height of Railway over, or depth under surface of Roads, &c.
to be marked,
and Bridges and Level Crossings.

54.

If any alteration be intended in the water level of any Canal, or in the level or rate of inclination of any turnpike-road, public carriage-road, or Railway, which will be crossed by the line of Railway, then the same shall be stated on the said Section, and each alteration shall be numbered; and Cross Sections, in reference to the said numbers, on a horizontal scale of not less than one inch to every 330 feet, and on a vertical scale of not less than one inch to every 40 feet, shall be added, which shall show the present surface of such Canal, Road or Railway, and the intended surface thereof when altered; and the greatest of the present and intended rates of inclination of such Road or Railway shall also be marked in figures thereon; and where any public carriage-road is crossed on the level, a Cross Section of such road shall also be added; and all such Cross Sections shall extend for 200 yards on each side of the centre line of the Railway. (See Fig. 4.)

Cross Sections of Canals, Roads, &c. crossed by the Railway
when level or rate of inclination altered.

55.

Wherever the extreme height of any embankment, or the extreme depth of any cutting shall exceed Five Feet, the extreme height over or depth under the surface of the ground shall be marked in figures upon the Section; and if any Bridge or Viaduct of more than three arches shall intervene in any Embankment, or if any Tunnel shall intervene in any Cutting, the extreme height or depth shall be marked in figures on each of the parts into which such Embankment or Cutting shall be divided by such Bridge, Viaduct or Tunnel.

Embankments and Cuttings.

56.

Where tunnelling, as a substitute for open cutting, or a viaduct as a substitute for solid embankment, is intended, the same shall be marked on the Section.

Tunnelling
and Viaduct
to be marked.

5. Estimates and Deposit of Money, and Declarations in certain cases.

57.

An Estimate of the Expense of the Undertaking under each Bill of the Second Class shall be made and signed by the person making the same. (See as to depositing Estimate in Private Bill Office, No. 40.)

Estimate in Bills of the Second Class.

Standing Orders,
compliance
with which is to be proved before Examiners.

Eight per cent. and Four per cent. of Estimate to

58.

In the case of a Railway Bill a sum not less than 8 per cent. on the amount of the Estimate of expense, and in the case of all other Bills a sum not less than 4 per cent. on the amount of such Estimate shall, previously to the 15th day of January, be deposited with the Court of Chancery in England, if the Work is intended to be done in England, or with the Court of Chancery in England, or the Court of Exchequer in Scotland, if such Work is intended to be done in Scotland, and with the Court of Chancery in Ireland, if such Work is intended to be done in Ireland. (See Appendix C.) 59.

Cases wherein
is deposited.

Where the Work is to be made, wholly or in part, by means of Funds, or out of Money to be raised upon the credit of present Surplus Revenue, belonging to any Society or Company, or under the control of Directors, Trustees, or Commissioners, as the case may be, of any existing Public Work, such parties being the Promoters of the Bill, a Declaration stating those facts, and setting forth the nature of such control, and the nature and amount of such Funds or Surplus Revenue, and showing the actual Surplus of such Funds or Revenue, after deducting the Funds required for purposes authorized by any Act or Acts of Parliament, and also the Funds which may be required for any other Work to be executed under any Bill in the same Session, and given under the common seal of the Society or Company, or under the hand of some authorized Officer of such Directors, Trustees or Commissioners, may be deposited, and in such case no deposit of Money shall be required in respect of so much of the Estimate of Expense as shall be provided for by such surplus Funds. (See as to deposit of Declaration in Private Bill Office, No. 40.)

60.

Declaration and Estimate of Amount of Rates may be deposited.

In cases where the Work is to be made out of Money to be raised upon the Security of the Rates, Duties or Revenue to be created by or to arise under any Bill, under which no private or personal pecuniary profit or advantage is to be derived, a Declaration stating those facts, and setting forth the means by which Funds are to be obtained for executing the Work, and signed by the Party or Agent soliciting the Bill, together with an Estimate of the probable amount of such Rates, Duties or Revenue, signed by the Person making the same, may be deposited, and in such case no deposit of Money shall be required. (See as to deposit of Estimate and Declaration in Private Bill Office, No. 40.)

In cases of Bills brought from the House of Lords.

Deposit of Railway Bills at Board of Trade.

In the case of Railway Bills brought from the House of Lords, a Copy of every Bill, as brought into the House of Commons, shall be deposited in the Office of the Board of Trade, not later than Two Days after the Bill is read a First time.

62. Where

Standing Orders, compliance

Examiners.

62.

Where any alteration shall have been made, or shall be desired by the parties to be made, in any Bill brought from the House of Lords after the introduction of the Bill into Parliament, in any Work the Bill for which shall be included in the Second Class of Bills hereinbefore mentioned, and the Plans and Sections for which shall have been deposited and the Notices for which shall have been given as before mentioned, a Plan and Section of such alteration, on the same Scale and containing the same particulars as the original Plan and Section, together with a Book of Reference thereto, shall be deposited with the Clerk of the Peace of every County, Riding, or Division in England or Ireland, and in the Office of the Sheriff Clerk of every County in Scotland, and where any County in Scotland is divided into Districts or Divisions then in the Office of the Principal Sheriff Clerk in and for each District or Division in which such alteration is proposed to be made; and a Copy of such Plan and Section, so far as relates to each Parish, together with a Book of Reference thereto, shall be deposited with the Parish Clerks of each such Parish in England, or, in the case of any extra-parochial Place, with the Parish Clerk of some Parish immediately adjoining thereto, with the Schoolmaster of each such Parish in Scotland, or if there be no Schoolmaster of any such Parish, then with the Session Clerk, or in Royal Burghs with the Town Clerk, and the Clerk of the Union within which such Parish in Ireland is included, in which such alteration is intended to be made, One Month previously to the introduction of the Bill for making such Work into this House; and the intention to make such alteration shall be published in manner before directed in the London, Edinburgh, or Dublin Gazette, as the case may be, and some one and the same Newspaper of the County in which such alteration shall be situate, or if there be no such Paper printed therein, then in the Newspaper of some County adjoining thereto, for Three successive Weeks previously to the introduction of the Bill into this House; and personal application, with a Notice in writing in the form hereinbefore mentioned, shall be made to the Owners or reputed Owners, Lessees or reputed Lessees, or in their absence from the United Kingdom, to their Agents respectively, and to the Occupiers of Lands through which any such alteration is intended to be made; and the consent of such Owners or reputed Owners, Lessees or reputed Lessees, and Occupiers, to the making of such alteration, shall be proved before the Examiner.

Notices to be given and Deposits made in cases where Work is altered while Bill is in Parliament.

63.

Previous to any Bill for making any Work, the Bill for which shall be included in the Second Class of Bills hereinbefore mentioned, being brought to this House from the Lords, in which any alteration has been made in its progress through Parliament, a Map or Plan and Section of such Work, showing any variation, extension, or enlargement which is intended to be made in consequence of such alteration, shall be deposited in the Private Bill Office; and such Map or Plan and Section shall be on the same Scale and contain the same particulars as the original Map or Plan and Section of the said Work.

Deposit of altered Plan and Section in Private Bill
Office.

64.

Bill to be submitted to a meeting of Proprietors in Incorporated Companies in certain cases.

In the case of every Bill brought from the House of Lords to empower any Company already constituted by Act of Parliament to execute, undertake, or contribute towards any work other than that for which it was originally established, or to sell or lease their undertaking, or any part thereof, or to amalgamate the same, or any part thereof, with any other undertaking, or to abandon their undertaking, or any part thereof, or to dissolve the said Company, the Examiner shall report as to compliance or non-compliance with the following Order:

1st. The Bill, as proposed to be introduced into this House, shall be submitted to a meeting of the Proprietors of such Company at a meeting held specially for that purpose.

2d. Such meeting shall be called by advertisement inserted for two consecutive weeks in a morning newspaper published in London, Edinburgh, or Dublin, as the case may be, and in a newspaper of the county or counties in which the principal office or offices of the Company is or are situate; and also by a circular addressed to each proprietor at his last known or usual address, and sent by post, or delivered at such address, not less than ten days before the holding of such meeting, enclosing a blank form of proxy, with proper instructions for the use of the same; and the same form of proxy and the same instructions, and none other, shall be sent to every such proprietor; but no such form of proxy shall be stamped, nor shall the funds of the Company be used for the stamping any proxies, except the Company shall at a general meeting determine otherwise, in which case a stamped proxy shall be sent to each proprietor, with such instructions as aforesaid.

3d. Such meeting shall be held not earlier than seven days after the last insertion of such advertisement.

4th. At such meeting the said Bill shall be submitted to the proprietors aforesaid then present, and approved of by proprietors, present in person or by proxy, holding at least three-fourths of the paid-up capital of the Company represented at such meeting, such proprietors being qualified to vote at the meeting in right of such capital.

Proof to be required before Examiner of consent of Proprietors of any Company to sum authorised to be raised in aid of undertaking of another Company.

When in any Bill a provision is inserted authorising any Company to subscribe towards or to guarantee or to raise any money in aid of the undertaking of another Company (which Bill is not brought in by the Company so authorised, or of which such Company is not a joint promoter), proof shall be required before the Examiner that the Company so authorised has consented to such subscription, guarantee, or raising of money, at a meeting of the proprietors of the ordinary shares in such Company, held specially for that purpose, in the same manner and subject subject to the same provisions as the meeting directed to be held under Standing Order 64, and that such consent was given by such proprietors, present in person or by proxy, holding at least three-fourths of the ordinary paid-up capital of the Company represented at such meeting, such proprietors being qualified to vote at the meeting in right of such capital; and that the Notices for the Bill state the sum authorised to be subscribed, or guaranteed or raised, and also state that the consent of the Company has been given as aforesaid; in any case in which such consent has been given, it shall not be necessary to submit the Bill, in respect of such provision as aforesaid, to the approval of a meeting to be held in accordance with Standing Order 64.

When in any Bill brought from the House of Lords for the purpose of establishing a Company for carrying on any Work or Undertaking, the name of any person or persons shall be introduced as Manager, Director, Proprietor, or otherwise concerned in carrying such Bill into effect, proof shall be required before the Examiner that the said person or persons have subscribed their names to the Petition for the said Bill, or to a printed Copy of the said Bill, as brought to this House.

Consent of Directors, &c. who are named in a Bill, to be proved.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE EXAMINERS OF PETITIONS FOR PRIVATE BILLS.

67.

The Examination of the Petitions for Private Bills which shall have been duly deposited in the Private Bill Office, shall commence on the 18th day of January, in such order and according to such regulations as shall have been made by Mr. Speaker.

When Examination of Petitions to commence.

One of the Examiners shall give at least Seven clear Days' Notice in the Private Bill Office of the day appointed for the Examination of each Petition which shall have been duly deposited in the Private Bill Office; and in case the promoters shall not appear at the time when the Petition shall come on to be heard, the Examiner to whom the case shall have been allotted, shall strike the Petition off the General List of Petitions, and shall not re-insert the same, except by order of The House.

Notice to be given by one of the Examiners of day appointed for Examination.

In all cases of Petitions for additional provision in Private Bills and of Estate Bills brought from the House of Lords, and of Bills introduced by leave of this House in lieu of other Bills which shall have been withdrawn, and referred to the Examiner, and of Bills referred in pursuance of Standing Order 175, the Examiner shall give at least Two clear Days' notice, in the Private Bill Office, of the day on which the same will be examined; and he shall report to The House whether the Standing Orders have or have not been complied with; and, when they have not been complied with, the facts upon which his decision is founded, and any special circumstances connected with the case.

Notice and report in cases of Petitions for additional provision in Private Bills, &c.

Any parties shall be entitled to appear and to be heard, by themselves, their agents and witnesses, upon a Memorial addressed to the Examiner, complaining of a non-compliance with the Standing Orders, provided the matter complained of be specifically stated in such Memorial, and the party (if any) who may be specially affected by the non-compliance with the Standing Orders have signed such Memorial and shall not have withdrawn his signature thereto, and such Memorial have been duly deposited in the Private Bill Office. (See Orders 183, 207, 208, 209, and 210.)

Memorials complaining of non-compliance.

In case any proprietor in any Company shall by himself, or any person authorised to act for him in that behalf, have dissented at any meeting called in pursuance of Standing Order 64, or 65, such proprietor shall be permitted to be heard by the

of Examiners.

Examiner of Petitions, on the compliance with such Standing Order, by himself, his agents, and witnesses, on a Memorial addressed to the Examiner, or by the Committee on the proposed Bill, by himself, his counsel or agents, and witnesses, on a Petition presented to The House, such Memorial or Petition having been duly deposited in the Private Bill Office (See Orders 116, 207 and 210).

72.

Proof by Affidavit.

The Examiner may admit Affidavits in proof of the compliance with the Standing Orders of The House, unless in any case he shall require further evidence; and such Affidavit shall be sworn, if in England, before a Justice of the Peace; if in Scotland, before any Sheriff Depute or his Substitute; and if in Ireland, before any Judge or Assistant Barrister of that part of the United Kingdom.

73.

Examiner to indorse Petition, and when Standing Orders not complied with, to report.

The Examiner shall certify by indorsement on each Petition which shall have been duly deposited in the Private Bill Office, whether the Standing Orders have or have not been complied with; and, when they have not been complied with, he shall also report to The House the facts upon which his decision is founded, and any special circumstances connected with the case.

74.

To report in cases of Bills originating in the Lords.

The Examiner shall make a Report of the several cases in which he shall have certified that the Standing Orders have or have not been complied with in respect of any Bills which, in pursuance of any Report from the Chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means, under Standing Order 76, shall originate in the House of Lords; and where they have not been complied with, he shall also report, separately, the facts upon which his decision is founded, and any special circumstances connected with the case.

75.

Special Report in certain cases.

In case the Examiner shall feel doubts as to the due construction of any Standing Order in its application to a particular case, he shall make a Special Report of the facts to the House, without deciding whether the Standing Order has or has not been complied with; and in such case he shall indorse the Petition with the words "Special Report," either alone, or if non-compliances with other Standing Orders shall have been proved, in addition to the words "Standing Orders not complied with."

PROCEEDINGS OF, AND IN RELATION TO, THE CHAIRMAN OF THE COMMITTEE OF WAYS AND MEANS, AND THE COUNSEL TO MR. SPEAKER.

The Chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means shall, at the commencement of each Session, seek a conference with the Chairman of Committees of the House of Lords for the purpose of determining in which House of Parliament the respective Private Bills should be first considered, and such determination shall be reported to The House.

Chairman of
Ways and Means to seek a conference with the Chairman of Committees of House of Lords.

77.

The Chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means, with the assistance of the Counsel to Mr. Speaker, shall examine all Private Bills, whether opposed or unopposed, and call the attention of The House, and also of the Chairman of the Committee on every opposed Private Bill, to all points which may appear to him to require it; and Copies of all such Bills shall be laid by the Agent before the said Chairman and Counsel not later than the day after the Examiner of Petitions shall have indorsed the Petition for the Bill.

Chairman of Ways and Means to examine all Private Bills,

The Chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means shall make a Report to the House previously to the Second Reading of any Private Bill by which it is intended to authorise, confirm, or alter any Contract with any department of the Government whereby a public charge has been or may be created; and such Report, together with a Copy of the Contract, and of any Resolution to be proposed in relation thereto, shall be circulated with the Votes Two clear Days at least before the day on which the Resolution is to be considered in a Committee of the whole House, which consideration shall not take place until after the time of Private Business; nor shall the Report of any such Resolution be considered until Three clear Days at least after the Resolution shall have been agreed to by the Committee.

Chairman of Ways and Means to report on Bills relating to Government Contracts.

79.

Two clear days at least before the day appointed for the consideration of any Private Bill by a Committee, there shall be laid before the Chairman of Ways and Means, and the Counsel to Mr. Speaker, by the Agent, Copies of every such Bill, as proposed to be submitted to the Committee, and such Copies shall be signed by the Agent for the Bill.

Copies of Bill as proposed to be submitted to Committee, to be laid before
Chairman of Ways and Means, &c.

80.

The Chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means shall be at liberty, at any period after any Private Bill shall have been referred to a Committee, to report to The House any special circumstances relative thereto which may appear to him to require it, or to inform The House that in his opinion any unopposed Private Bill should be treated as an opposed Private Bill.

Power to Chairman to report special circumstances, &c.
to The House.

81.

Copy of Bill as amended in Committee to be laid before Chairman of Ways and Means,
&c.

Three clear Days at least before the consideration of any Private Bill ordered to lie upon the Table, a Copy of every such Bill, as amended in Committee, shall be laid by the Agent before the Chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means and the Counsel to Mr. Speaker, and deposited at the Office of the Board of Trade.

82.

On consideration of Report of Railway Bill, Chairman of Ways and Means to acquaint the House if Orders have been observed.

On or before the consideration of the Report of every Railway Bill, the Chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means shall inform The House, or signify in writing to Mr. Speaker, whether the Bill contain the several provisions required by the Standing Orders.

83.

Clause or Amendment on consideration of Bill, or on Third Reading, to be submitted to
Chairman of
Ways and Means, &c.

When it is intended to bring up any Clause, or to propose any Amendment on the consideration of any Private Bill ordered to lie upon the Table, or any verbal amendment on the Third Reading of any Private Bill, the same shall be submitted by the Agent to the Chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means, and the Counsel to Mr. Speaker, on the day on which notice is given thereof in the Private Bill Office; and the said Chairman shall inform The House, or signify in writing to Mr. Speaker, whether such Clause or Amendment be such as ought or ought not to be entertained by The House, without referring the same to the Select Committee on Standing Orders.

Copy of Amendments
by House of Lords, and of proposed Amendments thereto, to be laid before
Chairman of Ways and Means, &c.

A Copy of all Amendments made in The House of Lords to any Private Bill, and of all Amendments to such Amendments intended to be proposed in this House, shall be laid by the Agent before the Chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means and the Counsel to Mr. Speaker, before Two o'clock on the day previous to that on which the same are respectively appointed for consideration by The House.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON STANDING ORDERS.

85.

When any Report of the Examiner of Petitions for Private Bills, in which he shall report that the Standing Orders have not been complied with, shall have been referred to the Select Committee on Standing Orders, and after the Petition for the Bill shall have been duly presented, they shall report to The House whether such Standing Orders ought or ought not to be dispensed with, and whether in their opinion the parties should be permitted to proceed with their Bill, or any portion thereof, and under what (if any) conditions.

To report whether Standing Orders ought or ought not to be dispensed with.

The Select Committee on Standing Orders shall have power to report on the cases referred to them in respect of Private Bills originating in the House of Lords, notwithstanding that the Petitions for the same shall not have been presented to the House.

In cases of Bills originating in Lords.

When any Special Report from the Examiner of Petitions as to the construction of a Standing Order shall have been referred to the Select Committee on Standing Orders, they shall determine, according to their construction of the Standing Order, and on the facts stated in such Report, whether the Standing Orders have or have not been complied with, and they shall then either report to The House that the Standing Orders have been complied with, or shall proceed to consider the question of dispensing with the Standing Orders, as the case may be.

Proceeding in case of Special Report.

When any Petition praying that any of the Sessional or Standing Orders of The House relating to Private Bills may be dispensed with, shall stand referred to the Select Committee on Standing Orders, they shall report to The House whether such Sessional or Standing Orders ought or ought not to be dispensed with.

To report whether Sessional or Standing Orders ought or ought not to be dispensed with.

When any Petition for the re-insertion of any Petition for a Private Bill in the General List of Petitions shall stand referred to the Select Committee on Standing Orders, they shall report to The House whether in their opinion such Petition ought or ought not to be re-inserted, and, if re-inserted, under what (if any) conditions.

To report whether Petition ought or ought not to be re-inserted in the General List.

90.

When any Clause or Amendment proposed on the consideration of any Private Bill ordered to lie upon the Table shall have been referred to the Select Committee on Standing Orders, they shall report to The House whether such Clause or Amendment should be adopted by The House or not, or whether the Bill should be re-committed.

To report whether Clause or Amendment on consideration of Bill should be adopted by House or not, or whether Bill should be re-committed.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE COMMITTEE OF SELECTION, AND OF THE GENERAL COMMITTEE ON RAILWAY AND CANAL BILLS.

Printed Copies of Bills to be laid before
Committee of Selection and General Committee.

Printed copies of all Private Bills, not being Railway or Canal Bills, shall be laid before the Committee of Selection, and Printed Copies of all Railway and Canal Bills before the General Committee on Railway and Canal Bills, by the parties promoting the same, at the first Meeting of the said Committees respectively.

92.

Committee of Selection and General Committee to group Private Bills.

The Committee of Selection may, if they think fit, form into Groups all Private Bills, not being Railway or Canal Bills, and the General Committee on Railway and Canal Bills may form into Groups all Railway and Canal Bills, which, in their opinion, it may be expedient to submit to the same Committee, and shall report the same to The House.

93.

Railway and Canal unopposed Bills.

The General Committee on Railway and Canal Bills may, whenever they shall think fit, refer any unopposed Railway or Canal Bill to the Chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means and two other Members not locally or otherwise interested, to be nominated by the Committee of Selection.

94.

Committee of Selection and General Committee on Railway, &c.
Bills, to appoint First Sitting of Committee.

The Committee of Selection, in the case of all Private Bills other than Railway and Canal Bills, and the General Committee on Railway and Canal Bills in the case of such Bills, shall, subject to the order in regard to the interval between the Second Reading of every Private Bill and the Sitting of the Committee thereupon, fix the time for holding the First Sitting of every Committee on a Private Bill which shall have been referred to either of the said Committees.

95.

Committee of Selection and General Committee to name Bill or Bills to be considered on the first day.

The Committee of Selection shall name the Bill or Bills which shall be taken into consideration on the first day of the meeting of the Committee on any Group of Bills not being Railway or Canal Bills; and the General Committee on Railway and Canal Bills shall name the Bill or Bills which shall be taken into consideration on the first day of the meeting of each Committee on any Group of such Bills.

96.

What Bills not to be considered opposed.

The Committee of Selection shall consider no Bill as an opposed Private Bill, unless either previous to, or not later than Seven clear Days after, the Second Reading thereof, a Petition shall have been presented against it, in which the Petitioner or Petitioners shall have prayed to be heard, by themselves, their Counsel or Agents, or unless, where no such Petition shall have been presented, the Chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means shall have reported to The House that in his opinion any Bill ought to be so treated.

Private Bills.

The Committee of Selection shall refer all Road Bills, whether opposed or unopposed, to a Committee, consisting of a Chairman and Four other Members not locally or otherwise interested therein.

Committee of Selection to refer all Road
Bills to a Committee.

100.

The Committee of Selection shall give each Member not less than Seven Days' notice, by publication in the Votes or otherwise, of the week in which it will be necessary for him to be in attendance for the purpose of serving, if required, as a Member, not locally or otherwise interested, of a Committee on a Private Bill.

Committee of Selection to give notice to Members.

101.

The Committee of Selection shall give to each Member sufficient Notice of his appointment as a Member of a Committee on any Private Bill, or Group of such Bills, and, in every case where a Declaration is required to be signed and returned by such Member, shall transmit to him a blank form of the Declaration required, with a request that it may forthwith be returned properly filled up and signed.

Notice of Appointment and Declaration to be transmitted to Members.

102.

The Committee of Selection shall report to The House the name of every Member from whom they shall not have received in due time such Declaration, so filled up and signed, or, in lieu thereof, an excuse which they shall deem sufficient.

Members returning no answer to be reported.

103.

The Committee of Selection shall have the power of discharging any Member or Members of a Committee, and of substituting other Members.

Committee of Selection may substitute Members for others.

104.

The Committee of Selection shall have power, in the execution of their duties, to send for Persons, Papers and Records.

PROCEEDINGS OF COMMITTEES ON OPPOSED BILLS.

Declaration of Members.

Each Member of a Committee on an opposed Private Bill, or group of such Bills, shall, before he be entitled to attend and vote on such Committee, sign the following Declaration :

I do hereby declare, That my constituents have no local interest, and that I have no personal interest, in such Bill; and that I will never vote on any question which may arise without having duly heard and attended to the Evidence relating thereto.

And no such Committee shall proceed to business until the said Declaration shall have been so signed by each of such Members.

Quorum to be always present.

Committees shall be allowed to proceed if Three of the Five Members shall be present, but not with a less number, unless by special leave of the House.

107.

Members not to absent themselves.

No Member of a Committee on an opposed Private Bill shall absent himself from his duties thereon, except in the case of sickness, or by order of The House.

108.

When Chairman absent.

If the Chairman shall be absent from the Committee, the Member next in rotation on the List of Members who shall be present shall act as Chairman, but in the case of Railway and Canal Bills only until the General Committee on such Bills shall have appointed, if they shall so think fit, another Chairman.

109.

Proceedings to be suspended if Quorum not present.

If at any time during the sitting of any Committee, Three at least of the Members shall not be present, the Chairman shall suspend the proceedings of such Committee until Three at least shall be present; and if at the expiration of One Hour from the time fixed for the meeting of the Committee, or from the time when the Chairman shall so have suspended the proceedings, Three Members shall not be present, the Committee shall be adjourned to the next day on which The House shall sit, and then shall meet at the hour on which such Committee would have sat, had no such adjournment taken place.

110.

Members absent to be reported to The House.

If any of the Members shall not be present within One Hour after the time appointed for the meeting of the Committee, or if any Member shall absent himself from his duties on such Committee, every such Member shall be reported to The House at its next sitting.

111. If 111.

If at any time after the Committee on a Bill shall have been formed, a Quorum of Members required by the Standing Orders cannot attend in consequence of any of the Members who shall have duly qualified to serve on such Committee having become incompetent to continue such service by having been placed on an Election Committee, or by death or otherwise, the Chairman shall report the circumstances of the case to The House, in order that such measures may be taken by The House as shall enable the Members still remaining on the Committee to proceed with the business referred to such Committee, or as the exigency of the case may require.

Absence of Quorum by Death or otherwise to be reported.

112.

All questions before Committees on Private Bills shall be decided by a majority of voices, including the voice of the Chairman; and whenever the voices are equal, the Chairman shall have a second or casting vote.

Questions to be decided by majority of voices.

113.

The Committee on each Group of Bills shall take the Bill or Bills first into consideration which shall have been named by the Committee of Selection, or by the General Committee on Railway and Canal Bills (see No. 95); and the Committee shall, from time to time, appoint the day on which they will enter upon the consideration of each of the remaining Bills, and on which they will require the parties severally promoting or opposing the same to enter appearances; and Two clear Days' notice, at the least, of such appointment, shall be given by the Clerk attending the Committee to the Clerks in the Private Bill Office; and in case the Committee shall postpone the consideration of any Bill, notice shall be given of the day to which the same is postponed.

114.

Every Committee on an opposed Private Bill shall report specially to the House the cause of any Adjournment over any day on which the House shall sit.

Causes of Adjournment to be specially reported.

115.

No Petition against a Private Bill shall be taken into consideration by the Committee on such Bill, which shall not distinctly specify the ground on which the Petitioners object to any of the provisions thereof; and the Petitioners shall be only heard on such grounds so stated; and if it shall appear to the said Committee, that such grounds are not specified with sufficient accuracy, the Committee may direct that there be given in to the Committee a more specific Statement, in writing, but limited to such grounds of Objection so inaccurately specified.

Petition against Bill not to be considered except grounds of objection sufficiently specified.

116.

No Petitioners against any Private Bill shall be heard before the Committee on the Bill, unless their Petition shall have been prepared and signed in strict conformity with the Rules and Orders of this House, and shall have been presented to this House by having been deposited in the Private Bill Office, either previous to, or not later than Seven clear Days after, the Second Reading of such Bill, except where the Petitioners shall complain of any matter which may have arisen during the progress of the Bill before the said Committee, or of any proposed additional provision, or of the Amendments as proposed in the filled-up Bill deposited in the Private Bill Office.

Competition to be a ground of locus standi.

It shall be competent to the Committee on any Private Bill to admit Petitioners to be heard upon their Petitions against such Bill, on the ground of competition, if they shall think fit.

118.

In what cases Shareholders
to be heard.

Where a Bill is promoted by an Incorporated Company, Shareholders of such Company shall not be entitled to be heard before the Committee against such Bill, unless their interests, as affected thereby, shall be distinct from the general interests of such Company.

119.

In what cases
Railway Companies to be heard.

Where a Railway Bill contains provisions for taking or using any part of the Lands, Railway, Stations or Accommodations of another Company, or for running Engines or Carriages upon or across the same, or for granting other facilities, such Company shall be entitled to be heard upon their Petition against the Preamble and Clauses of such Bill.

120.

Municipal authorities and Inhabitants of Towns, &c.

It shall be competent to the Committee on any Private Bill to admit Petitioners, being the Municipal Authorities of any Town, or the Inhabitants of any Town or District alleged to be injuriously affected by a Bill, to be heard against such Bill, if they shall think fit.

121.

When opposed Bills may be treated as unopposed.

In all cases of opposed Private Bills, in which no parties shall have appeared on the Petitions against such Bills, or having appeared shall have withdrawn their opposition before the evidence of the Promoters shall have been commenced, the Committees on such Bills shall forthwith refer them back, with a statement of the facts, if not Railway or Canal Bills, to the Committee of Selection, and if Railway and Canal Bills, to the General Committee on Railway and Canal Bills, who shall deal with them as unopposed Bills.

PROCEEDINGS of, and in Relation to, COMMITTEES on BILLS, 123.

No Member, locally or otherwise interested, of a Committee on any unopposed Private Bill, shall have a Vote on any question that may arise, but every such Member shall be entitled to attend and take part in the proceedings of the Committee.

Local Member not to vote.

124.

The Names of the Members attending each Committee shall be entered by the Clerk on the Minutes of the Committee; and if any Division shall take place in the Committee, the Clerk shall take down the Names of Members voting in any such Division, distinguishing on which side of the question they respectively vote, and that such Lists be given in with the Report to The House.

Names of Members to be entered on Minutes.

125.

No Committee shall have power to examine into the compliance or non-compliance with such Standing Orders as are directed to be proved before the Examiner of Petitions for Private Bills, unless by special order of The House.

Committee on Bill not to inquire into certain Standing Orders.

126.

The Committee on any Private Bill may admit affidavits in proof of the compliance with such Standing Orders of the House as are directed to be proved before them, unless in any case they shall require further evidence; and such affidavits shall be sworn, if in England, before a Justice of the Peace; if in Scotland, before any Sheriff-depute or his substitute; and if in Ireland, before any Judge or Assistant Barrister of that part of the United Kingdom.

Committee
may admit affidavits in proof of compliance with Standing Orders.

127.

The Committee may admit proof of the Consents of Parties concerned in interest in any Private Bill, by Affidavits, sworn as aforesaid, or by the Certificate in writing of such Parties, whose Signatures to such Certificate shall be proved by one or more Witnesses, unless the Committee shall require further Evidence.

Consents, how to be proved.

128.

In all Bills presented to The House for carrying on any Work by means of a Company, Commissioners or Trustees, Provision shall be made for compelling Persons who have subscribed any Money towards carrying any such Work into execution, to make payment of the Sums severally subscribed by them.

Clause compelling payment of Subscriptions.

129.

Provision to be made in Bills by which Tolls, &c. are to be levied.

In all Bills whereby any Parties are authorized to levy Fees, Tolls or other Rate or Charge, Clauses shall be inserted, providing for the following objects, except in so far as any of such objects shall have been provided for in some general Act applicable to the subject-matter of the Bill:—

Security to be taken from Treasurer, &c.

Security to be taken from the Treasurer, Collector, or Receiver, and every other officer entrusted with the collection or custody of monies under the Bill, for the faithful execution of his office.

Accounts to be kept.

Full and accurate Accounts to be kept of all monies received and expended under the provisions of the Bill, and that such Accounts be balanced once in each year at the least.

Accounts to be audited.

Such Accounts to be duly audited once in each year at the least, and that for such purpose an Auditor or Auditors be appointed by some person or persons not immediately connected with the Commissioners, Directors, Trustees, or other party, by whom, or by whose direction or authority, such Fees, Tolls, Rates or Charges shall be levied.

Accounts, Vouchers,
&c., to be produced to Auditors.

For the purpose of auditing such Accounts, the Commissioners, Directors, Trustees or other such party as aforesaid to be required to cause the Accounts, together with all their Books and Vouchers, to be produced to the Auditors.

Remuneration to Auditors.

The remuneration of the Auditor, and his expenses, to be defrayed out of the funds levied under the Bill.

Abstract of Account to be annually transmitted to Clerk of Peace.

An annual Account, in abstract, to be prepared of the total Receipts and Expenditure of all funds levied under such Bill for the past year, under the several distinct heads of Receipts and Expenditure, with a Statement of the Balance of the said Account duly audited and certified by the Chairman of the Commissioners, Directors, Trustees or other parties aforesaid, and also by the Auditors thereof; and a copy of such annual Account to be transmitted, free of charge, to the Clerk of the Peace (or in Scotland to the Sheriff Clerk) for the County, or to the Clerk of the City or Borough within which the chief Office for the management of such funds shall be situated, on or before the Thirty-first day of January in each year, under a sufficient Penalty for not preparing and sending in the said Account, to be levied by summary process; the said Account to be open at all seasonable hours to the inspection of the Public upon payment of a Fee.

No Railway whereon carriages are propelled by steam, or by atmospheric agency, or drawn by ropes in connexion with a stationary steam-engine, shall be made across any turnpike-road or other public carriage-way on the level, unless a Report thereupon from some Officer of the Board of Trade shall be laid before the Committee on the Bill, and unless the Committee, after considering such Report, if they shall disagree with the said Report, shall recommend such level crossing, with the reasons and facts upon which their opinion is founded; and in every Clause authorizing a level crossing, the number of lines of rails authorized to be made at such crossing shall be specified.

Railway Company not to acquire Docks, &c. unless Committee report,
&c.

No Railway Company shall be authorized to construct or enlarge, purchase or take on lease, or otherwise appropriate any Dock, Pier, Harbour or Ferry, or to acquire and use any Steam-vessels for the conveyance of goods and passengers, or to apply any portion of their capital or revenue to other objects, distinct from the Undertaking of a Railway Company, unless the Committee on the Bill report that such a restriction ought not to be enforced, with the reasons and facts upon which their opinion is founded.

141.

Matters to be specially reported.

The Committees on Railway Bills shall direct their attention especially to the following heads of inquiry, and shall require evidence from the Promoters thereon, namely:—

Capital.

1. The financial arrangements made or proposed by the Company formed for the execution of the Railway; the number and amount of shares actually subscribed for or agreed to be taken; the amount of share capital and of loans proposed to be authorized; and the sufficiency of the estimate for the works.

Engineering difficulties.

2. The merits, in an engineering point of view, of the proposed Railway; the character of the gradients and curves; the number and extent of the tunnels, if any; the plans, if any, to be worked by assistant engines; the crossings, if any, of public roads on the level; and any peculiar engineering difficulties, with the modes proposed for overcoming them.

3. The

3. The degree of favour or objection with which the project is regarded by the landowners and others in the neighbourhood of the proposed Railway.

Views of Landowners and others.

Every Committee on a Railway Bill shall report specially to The House,—

Whether any Report from any Public Department in regard to the Bill, or the objects thereof, has been referred by the House to the Committee; and, if so, in what manner the several recommendations contained in such Report have been dealt with by the Committee:

Reports of Public Departments.

Whether it be intended that the Railway shall cross on a level any turnpike road or highway:

Crossing

And any other circumstances which, in the opinion of the Committee, it is desirable that the House should be informed of.

Other circumstances.

142.

It shall be an Instruction to the Committee on every Railway Bill providing for the construction of any new Railway, or for the extension of time for the completion of any Railway, in case they shall find the Preamble thereof to be proved, to insert in the Bill one or other of the provisions following, that is to say:—

Instruction to Committees
on Railway Bills.

In every Railway Bill promoted by an existing Railway Company, being possessed of a Railway already opened for public traffic, whereby the construction of any new line of Railway is authorized, or the time for completing any line already authorized is extended, a Clause providing that after the expiration of a period to be limited by such Bill, not exceeding Five Years from the passing of the Act, in the case of a new line, and Three Years in case of the extension of time for completing any line; the Company so making default shall be liable to a Penalty of 50*l.* per day, to be recoverable as a Debt due to the Crown for every day after the period so limited, until such Line shall be completed and opened for public traffic; but no penalty shall accrue in respect of any time during which it shall appear, by a Certificate to be obtained from the Board of Trade, that the Company was prevented from completing or opening such line by unforeseen accident or circumstances beyond their control.

Clause to be inserted suspending Payment of Dividend until Line be opened.

In every Railway Bill promoted by an existing Railway Company, not being possessed of a Railway already opened for public traffic, or by persons not already incorporated, whereby the construction of any new line of Railway is authorized, a Clause to the following effect, viz.:—

Clause respecting Bond to be entered into for completion of Line.

Whereas, pursuant to the Standing Orders of both Houses of Parliament, and to an Act of the ninth and tenth years of Her present Majesty, c. 20, a sum of £.

being eight per cent. upon the amount of the Estimate in respect of the Railway authorized by this Act, has been deposited with the Court of Chancery in England [or with the Court of Exchequer in Scotland, or the Court of Chancery in Ireland, as the case may be], [or Exchequer Bills, Stocks or Funds to the amount of £. , have been deposited or transferred pursuant to the said Act, as the case may be], in respect of the application to Parliament for this Act; Be it enacted, That, notwithstanding anything contained in the said recited Act, the said sum of £. [or the said Exchequer Bills or other Funds, as the case may be] so deposited [or transferred] as aforesaid, in respect of the application for this Act, or the interest or dividends of such sum of money [Exchequer Bills, Stocks or Funds], shall not, except upon the execution and deposit of such bond as hereinafter mentioned, be paid or transferred to or on the application of the person or persons, or the majority of the persons named in the warrant or order issued in pursuance of the said Act, or the survivors or survivor of them, unless the said Company shall, previously to the expiration of the period limited by this Act for completion of the Railway hereby authorized to be made, either open the said Railway for the public conveyance of passengers, or prove to the satisfaction of the Lords of the Committee of Her Majesty's Privy Council for Trade and Foreign Plantations that the said Company have paid up one-half of the amount of the capital by this Act authorized to be raised by means of shares, and have expended for the purposes of this Act a sum equal in amount to such one-half of the said capital; and if the said period shall expire before the said Company shall either have opened the said Railway for the public conveyance of passengers, or have given such proof as aforesaid to the satisfaction of the Lords of the said Committee, the said sum of money [Exchequer Bills, Stocks or Funds], deposited [or transferred] as aforesaid, and the interest and dividends thereof, shall immediately, from and after the expiration of the said period, be forfeited to Her Majesty, and be paid and transferred by the officer or person in whose name they shall then be deposited or invested, to the account of Her Majesty's Exchequer, and when so paid and transferred, shall be carried to and form part of the Consolidated Fund of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland: Provided, That at any time after the passing of this Act, if a bond in twice the amount of the said sum of £. shall have been executed by the said Company, with one or more sureties (such bond to be prepared to the satisfaction of, and such surety or sureties to be approved by, the Solicitor to the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury), conditioned for payment to Her Majesty, Her heirs or successors, of the said sum of £. , if the said Company shall not, within the time limited for the completion of the said Railway, either open the said Railway for the public conveyance of passengers, or prove to the satisfaction of the Lords of the said Committee that the said Company have paid up one-half of the amount of the said capital by this Act authorized to be raised by means of shares, and have expended for the purposes of this Act a sum equal in amount to such one-half of the said capital; and if such bond shall have been deposited with the said Solicitor to the said Lords Commissioners, then such sum of money [Exchequer Bills, Stocks or Funds], and the interest or dividends thereof, shall be paid [or transferred] to or on the application of the person or persons, or the majority of the persons, named in such warrant or order as aforesaid, aforesaid, or the survivors or survivor of them, and it shall not be necessary to produce any certificate of this Act having passed, anything in the said recited Act to the contrary notwithstanding; and the moneys to be recovered upon such bond shall be dealt with in like manner as the said sum of money [Exchequer Bills, Stocks or Funds], and the interest or dividends thereof, would have been dealt with under this Act if such bond had not been executed and deposited as aforesaid. And the certificate of the said solicitor to the said Lords Commissioners that such bond has been executed and deposited as aforesaid, and the certificate of the Lords of the said Committee that such proof has been given to their satisfaction as aforesaid, shall respectively be sufficient evidence of the facts so certified.

In any Railway Bill to which the preceding provisions are not applicable, the Committee shall make such other provision as they shall deem necessary for ensuring the completion of the line of Railway.

Where preceding Provisions are inapplicable.

The Committee on every Railway Bill shall fix the Tolls, and shall determine the maximum rates of Charge for the conveyance of Passengers with a due amount of Luggage, and of Goods on such Railway; and such rates of Charge shall include the Tolls and the costs of locomotive power, and every other expense connected with the conveyance of Passengers with a due amount of Luggage, and of Goods upon such Railway; but if the Committee shall not deem it expedient to determine such maximum rates of Charge, a Special Report, explanatory of the grounds of their omitting so to do, shall be made to The House, which Special Report shall accompany the Report of the Bill.

Committee to fix the Tolls and Charges.

In every Railway Bill by which it is proposed to authorize the Company to grant any preference or priority in the payment of Interest or Dividends on any Shares or Stock, there shall be inserted a Clause providing that the granting of such preference or priority shall not prejudice or affect any preference or priority in the payment of Interest or Dividends on any other Shares or Stock which shall have been granted by the Company in pursuance of or which may have been confirmed by any previous Act of Parliament, or which may otherwise be lawfully subsisting, unless the Committee on the Bill shall report that such Provision ought not to be required, with the Reasons on which their opinion is founded.

In Bills granting preference in payment of interest, &c., provision to be made that the same shall not prejudice former grants of preference, unless Committee report otherwise.

No Railway Company shall be authorized to alter the terms of any preference or priority of Interest or Dividend which shall have been granted by such Company in pursuance of or which may have been confirmed by any previous Act of Parliament, or which may otherwise be lawfully subsisting, unless the Committee on the Bill report that such alteration ought to be allowed, with the Reasons on which their opinion is founded, together with the number of Preference Shareholders who have assented to or dissented from such alteration.

ANNO NONO VICTORIÆ REGINÆ.

CAP. XX.

AN ACT to amend an Act of the Second Year of Her present Majesty, for providing for the Custody of certain Monies paid in pursuance of the Standing Orders of either House of Parliament by Subscribers to Works or Undertakings to be effected under the Authority of Parliament.

1 & 2 Vict.,
c. 117.

Recited Act repealed.
Monies already paid in to be dealt with as directed by former Act.

Authority to deposit.

WHEREAS an Act was passed in the second year of the reign of Her present Majesty Queen VICTORIA, intituled, "An Act to provide for the Custody of certain Monies paid in pursuance of the Standing Orders of either House of Parliament, by Subscribers to Works or Undertakings to be effected under the Authority of Parliament:" And whereas it is expedient that the said Act should be repealed and should be re-enacted, with such modifications, extensions and alterations as after mentioned: BE it therefore Enacted, by The QUEEN's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, THAT the said Act shall be and is hereby repealed: Provided always, That all acts done under the provisions of the said Act shall be good, valid and effectual to all intents and purposes, and that all sums of money paid under the provisions of the said Act shall be dealt with in all respects as if this Act had not been passed.

II. And be it Enacted, That in all cases in which any sum of money is required by any Standing Order of either House of Parliament, either now in force or hereafter to be in force, to be deposited by the subscribers to any work or undertaking which is to be executed under the authority of an Act of Parliament, if the director or person or directors or persons having the management of the affairs of such work or undertaking, not exceeding Five in number, shall apply to one of the Clerks in the office of the Clerk of the Parliaments with respect to any such money required by any Standing Order of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal in Parliament assembled, or to one of the Clerks of the Private Bill Office of the House of Commons with respect to any such money required by any Standing Order of the Commons in Parliament assembled, to be deposited, it shall be lawful for the Clerk so applied to, by warrant or order under his hand, to direct that such sum of money shall be paid in manner hereinafter mentioned; (that is to say) into the Bank of England in the name and with the privity of the Accountant-general of the Court of Chancery in England, if the work or undertaking in respect of which the sum of money is required to be deposited is intended to be executed in that part of the United Kingdom called England; or into any of the Banks in Scotland established by Act of Parliament or Royal Charter in the name and with the privity of The Queen's Remembrancer of the Court of Exchequer in Scotland, at the option of the person or persons making such application as aforesaid, in case such work or undertaking is intended to be executed in that part of the United Kingdom called Scotland; or into the Bank of Ireland in the name and with the privity of the Accountant-general of the Court of Chancery in Ireland, in case such work or undertaking is intended to be made or executed in that part of the United Kingdom called Ireland; and such warrant or order shall be a sufficient authority for the Accountant-general of the Court of Chancery in England, the Queen's Remembrancer of the Court of Exchequer in Scotland, and the Accountant-general of the Court of Chancery in Ireland, respectively, to permit the sum of money directed to be paid by such warrant or order to be placed to an account opened or to be opened in his name in the bank mentioned in such warrant or order.

Deposit.

III. And be it Enacted, That it shall be lawful for the person or persons named in such warrant or order, or the survivors or survivor of them, to pay the sum mentioned in such warrant or order into the bank mentioned in such warrant or order in the name and with the privity of the officer or person in whose name such sum shall be directed to be paid by such warrant or order, to be placed to his account there ex-parte the work or undertaking mentioned in such warrant or order, pursuant to the method prescribed by any Act or Acts for the time being in force for regulating monies paid into the said Courts, and pursuant to the General Orders of the said Court respectively, and without fee or reward; and every such sum so paid in, or the securities in or upon which the same may be invested as hereinafter mentioned, or the stocks, funds or securities authorized to be transferred or deposited in lieu thereof as hereinafter mentioned, shall there remain until the same, with all interest and dividends (if any) accrued thereon, shall be paid out of such bank, in pursuance of the provisions of this Act: Provided always, That in case any such director or person, directors or persons, having the management of any such proposed work or undertaking as aforesaid, shall have previously invested in the Three per Centum Consolidated or the Three per Centum Reduced Bank Annuities, Exchequer Bills, or other Government Securities, the sum or sums of money required by any such Standing Order of either House of Parliament as aforesaid to be deposited by the subscribers to any work or undertaking which is to be executed under the authority of an Act of Parliament, it shall be lawful for the person or persons named in such warrant or order, or the survivors or survivor of them, to deposit such Exchequer Bills or other Government securities in the bank mentioned in such warrant or order in the name and with the privity of the officer or person in whose name such sum shall by such warrant or order be directed to be paid, or to transfer such Government stocks or funds into the name of the officer or person; and such transfer or deposit shall be directed by such Clerk of the Office of the Clerk of the Parliaments, or such Clerk of the Private Bill Office of the House of Commons, as the case may be, in lieu of payment of so much of the sum of money required to be deposited as aforesaid as the same Exchequer Bills, or other the Government stocks or funds, will extend to satisfy at the price at which the same were originally purchased by the said person or persons, director or directors, as aforesaid, such price to be proved by production of the broker's certificate of such original purchase.

IV. And be it Enacted, That if the person or persons named in such warrant or order, or the survivors or survivor of them, desire to have invested any sum so paid into the Bank of England or the Bank of Ireland, or any interest or dividend which may have accrued on any stocks or securities so transferred or deposited as aforesaid, the Court in the name of whose Accountant-general the same may have been paid may, on a Petition presented to such Court, in a summary way by him or them, order that such sum or such interest or dividends shall, until the same be paid out to the parties entitled to the same in pursuance of this Act, be laid out in the Three per Centum Consolidated or Three per Centum Reduced Bank Annuities, or any Government security or securities, at the option of the aforesaid person or persons, or the survivor or survivors of them. Investment of Deposit.

V. And be it Enacted, That on the termination of the Session of Parliament in which the Petition or Bill for the purpose of making or sanctioning any such work or undertaking shall have been introduced into Parliament, or if such Petition or Bill shall be rejected or finally withdrawn by some proceeding in either House of Parliament, or shall not be allowed to proceed, or if the person or persons by whom the said money was paid or security deposited, shall have failed to present a Petition, or if an Act be passed authorizing the making of such work or undertaking, and if in any of the foregoing cases the person or persons named in such warrant or order, or the survivors or survivor of them, or the majority of such persons, apply by Petition to the Court in the name of whose Accountant-general the sum of money mentioned in such warrant or order shall have been paid, or such Exchequer Bills, stocks, or funds shall have been deposited or transferred as aforesaid, or to the Court of Exchequer in Scotland, in case such sum of money shall have been paid in the name of the said Queen's Remembrancer, the Court in the name of whose Accountant-general or Queen's Remembrancer such sum of money shall have been paid, or such Exchequer Bills, stocks or funds shall have been deposited or transferred, shall by order direct the sum of money paid in pursuance of such warrant or order, or the stocks, funds or securities in or upon which the same may have been invested, and the interest or dividends thereof, or the Exchequer Bills, stocks or funds so deposited or transferred as aforesaid, and the interest and dividends thereof, to be paid or transferred to the party or parties so applying, or to any other person or persons whom they may appoint in that behalf; but no such order shall be made in the case of any such Petition or Bill being rejected or not being allowed to proceed, or being withdrawn or not being presented, or of an Act being passed authorizing the making of such work or undertaking, unless upon the production of the certificate of the Chairman of Committees of the House of Lords with reference to any proceeding in the House of Lords, or of the Speaker of the House of Commons, with reference to any proceeding in the House of Commons, that the said Petition or Bill was rejected or not allowed to proceed, or was withdrawn during its passage through one of the Houses of Parliament, or was not presented, or that such Act was passed, which certificate the said Chairman or Speaker shall grant on the application in writing of the person or persons, or the majority of the persons, named in such warrant, or the survivor or survivors of them: Provided always, That the granting of any such certificate, or any mistake or error therein or in relation thereto, shall not make the Chairman or Speaker signing the same liable in respect of any monies, stocks, funds and securities which may be paid, deposited, invested or transferred in pursuance of the provisions of this Act, or the interest or dividends thereof. Repayment of Deposit.

Granting Certificate, &c. not to make the Chairman or Speaker signing the same liable.

STANDING ORDERS relative to PUBLIC MATTERS.

BILLS respecting RELIGION.

[30 April 1772.]

THAT no Bill relating to Religion, or the alteration of the Laws concerning Religion, be brought into this House, until the Proposition shall have been first considered in a Committee of the whole House, and agreed unto by The House.

BILLS respecting TRADE.

[9 April 1772.]

THAT no Bill relating to Trade, or the alteration of the Laws concerning Trade, be brought into The House, until the Proposition shall have been first considered in a Committee of the whole House, and agreed unto by The House.

APPLICATIONS for PUBLIC MONEY.

[25 June 1852.]

THAT this House will receive no Petition for any Sum of Money, relating to Public Service, or proceed upon any Motion for granting any Money, but what is recommended from The Crown.

Revenues of India.

[21 July 1856.]

THAT this House will not receive any Petition, or proceed upon any Motion for a Charge upon the Revenues of India, but what is recommended by the Crown.

[29 March 1707.]

THAT this House will not proceed upon any Petition, Motion or Bill, for granting any Money, or for releasing or compounding any Sum of Money owing to The Crown, but in a Committee of the whole House.

[25 June 1852.]

THAT if any Motion be made in The House for any Public Aid, or Charge upon the people, the consideration and debate thereof shall not be presently entered upon, but shall be adjourned till such further day as The House shall think fit to appoint, and then it shall be referred to a Committee of the whole House before any Resolution or Vote of The House do pass therein.

[25 March 1715.]

THAT this House will not receive any Petition for compounding any Sum of Money owing to The Crown, upon any branch of the Revenue, without a Certificate from the proper Officer or Officers annexed to the said Petition, stating the Debt, what Prosecutions have been made for the Recovery of such Debt, and setting forth how much the Petitioner and his Security are able to satisfy thereof.

[22 February 1821.]

THAT this House will not proceed upon any Motion for an Address to The Crown, praying that any money may be issued, or that any expense may be incurred, but in a Committee of the whole House.

PECUNIARY PENALTIES.

[24 July 1849.]

THAT with respect to any Bill brought to this House from the House of Lords, or returned by the House of Lords to this House, with Amendments, whereby any pecuniary penalty, forfeiture or fee shall be authorized, imposed, appropriated, regulated, varied, or extinguished, this House will not insist on its ancient and undoubted privileges in the following cases :

1. When the object of such pecuniary penalty or forfeiture is to secure the execution of the Act, or the punishment or prevention of offences.

2. Where such fees are imposed in respect of benefit taken or service rendered under the Act, and in order to the execution of the Act, and are not made payable into the Treasury or Exchequer, or in aid of the Public Revenue, and do not form the ground of public accounting by the parties receiving the same, either in respect of deficit or surplus.

3. When such Bill shall be a Private Bill for a Local or Personal Act.

TEMPORARY LAWS.

[24 July 1849.]

THAT the precise duration of every Temporary Law be expressed a distinct Clause at the end of the Bill.

PRESENTATION OF PUBLIC PETITIONS.

[14 April 1842.]

THAT every Member offering to present a Petition to The House, not being a Petition for a Private Bill, or relating to a Private Bill before The House, do confine himself to a statement of the Parties from whom it comes, of the number of signatures attached to it, and of the material allegations contained in it, and to the reading of the prayer of such Petition.

THAT every such Petition not containing matter in breach of the Privileges of this House, and which, according to the Rules or usual Practice of this House, can be received, be brought to the Table by the direction of The Speaker, who shall not allow any Debate, or any Member to speak upon, or in relation to, such Petition ; but it may be read by the Clerk at the Table, if required.

THAT, in the case of such Petition complaining of some present personal grievance, for which there may be an urgent necessity for providing an immediate remedy, the matter contained in such Petition may be brought into discussion on the presentation thereof.

THAT all other such Petitions, after they shall have been ordered to lie on the Table, be referred to the Committee on Public Petitions, without any Question being put ; but if any such Petition relate to any matter or subject, with respect to which the Member presenting it has given Notice of a Motion, and the said Petition has not been ordered to be printed by the Committee, such Member may, after Notice given, move that such Petition be printed with the Votes.

THAT, subject to the above regulations, Petitions against any Resolution or Bill imposing a Tax or Duty for the current service of the year, be henceforth received, and the usage under which The House has refused to entertain such Petitions be discontinued.

MEMBERS' PLACES.

[6 April 1835.]

THAT no Member's name be affixed to any seat in the House before the hour of Prayers; and that the Speaker do give directions to the doorkeepers accordingly.

[29 April 1858.]

THAT any Member having secured a seat at Prayers shall be entitled to retain the same until the rising of The House.

STRANGERS.

[5 February 1845.]

THAT the Serjeant-at-Arms attending this House do, from time to time, take into his custody any Stranger whom he may see, or who may be reported to him to be, in any part of the House or Gallery appropriated to the Members of this House, and also any Stranger who, having been admitted into any other part of the House or Gallery, shall misconduct himself, or shall not withdraw when Strangers are directed to withdraw, while The House, or any Committee of the whole House, is sitting; and that no person so taken into custody be discharged out of custody without the special order of The House.

THAT no Member of this House do presume to bring any Stranger into any part of the House or Gallery appropriated to the Members of this House, while The House, or a Committee of the whole House, is sitting.

PRAYERS.

[25 June 1852.]

THAT the Serjeant-at-Arms attending this House do, from time to time, when the House is going to Prayers, give Notice thereof to all Committees; and that all proceedings of Committees, after such Notice, be declared to be null and void, unless such Committees be otherwise empowered to sit after Prayers.

LETTERS.

[25 June 1852.]

THAT, to prevent the intercepting or losing of Letters directed to Members of this House, the person appointed to bring Letters from the General Post Office to this House, or some other person to be appointed by the Postmaster-General, do for the future, every day during the Session of Parliament, Sundays excepted, constantly attend, from Ten of the clock in the morning till Seven in the afternoon, at the place appointed for the delivery of the said Letters, and take care, during his stay there, to deliver the same to the several Members to whom they shall be directed, or to their known servant or servants, or other persons bringing notes under the hands of the Members sending for the same.

THAT the said Officer do, upon his going away, lock up such Letters as shall remain undelivered; and that no Letter be delivered but within the hours aforesaid.

THAT the said Orders be sent to the Postmaster-General at the commencement of each Session.

THAT, when any Letter or Packet directed to this House shall come to Mr. Speaker, he do open the same; and acquaint the House, at their next sitting, with the contents thereof, if proper to be communicated to this House.

PUBLIC BUSINESS.

[25 June 1852, amended 5 August 1853, 19 July 1854, 2 August 1860, and 3 May 1861.]

THAT, unless The House shall otherwise direct, all Orders of the Day set down in the Order Book for Mondays, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays, shall be disposed of before The House will proceed upon any Motions of which Notices shall have been given, the right being reserved to Her Majesty's Ministers of placing Government Orders at the head of the list on every Order Day, except Wednesday.

THAT at the time fixed for the commencement of Public Business, on days on which Orders have precedence of Notices of Motions, and after the Notices of Motions have been disposed of on all other days, Mr. Speaker do direct the Clerk at the Table to read the Orders of the Day, without any Question being put.

THAT the Orders of the Day be disposed of in the order in which they stand upon the Paper; the right being reserved to Her Majesty's Ministers of placing Government Orders at the head of the List, in the rotation in which they are to be taken on the days on which Government Bills have precedence.

THAT no Notice shall be given beyond the period which shall include the Four Days next following on which Notices are entitled to precedence; due allowance being made for any intervening adjournment of The House, and the period being in that case so far extended as to include Four Notice Days falling during the sitting of The House.

THAT The House do meet every Wednesday, at Twelve o'clock at noon, for Private Business, Petitions, Orders of the Day, and Notices of Motions, and do continue to sit until Six o'clock, unless previously adjourned.

THAT when such business has been disposed of, or at Six o'clock precisely, notwithstanding there may be business under discussion, Mr. Speaker do adjourn The House, without putting any Question.

THAT the business under discussion, and any business not disposed of at the time of such Adjournment, do stand as Orders of the Day for the next day on which The House shall sit.

THAT at a quarter before Six o'clock on Wednesday, the Debate on any business then under discussion shall stand adjourned to the next day on which The House shall sit; after which no opposed business shall be proceeded with.

THAT whenever The House shall be in Committee on Wednesday at a quarter before Six o'clock, the Chairman do report Progress, and Mr. Speaker do resume the Chair.

THAT whenever the House shall meet, for despatch of business, before Two o'clock, except Wednesday and Saturday, unless The House shall otherwise order, The House will resume its sitting at Six o'clock; and when business has not been disposed of at Ten minutes before Four o'clock, unless The House shall otherwise order, Mr. Speaker shall adjourn the Debate on any business then under discussion; or the Chairman shall report Progress, as the case may be, and no opposed business shall then be proceeded with.

THAT when such business has not been disposed of at Four o'clock, unless The House shall otherwise order, Mr. Speaker (or the Chairman, in case The House shall be in Committee) do leave the Chair, and The House will resume its sitting at Six o'clock, when the Orders of the Day not disposed of at the morning sitting, and any Motion which was under discussion at Ten minutes to Four o'clock, shall be set down in the Order Book after the other Orders of the Day.

THAT whenever The House shall be in Committee at Four o'clock, the Chairman do report Progress when The House resumes its sitting.

THAT all Dropped Orders of the Day be set down in the Order Book after the Orders of the Day for the next day on which the House shall sit.

THAT

THAT when any Bill shall be presented by a Member, in pursuance of an Order of this House, or shall be brought from the Lords, the Questions "That this Bill be now read a first time," and "That this Bill be printed," shall be decided without Amendment or Debate.

THAT the Committees of Supply and Ways and Means shall be fixed for Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and may also be appointed for any other day on which the House shall meet for despatch of business.

THAT, while the Committees of Supply and Ways and Means are open, the House, when it meets on Friday, shall, at its rising, stand adjourned until the following Monday, without any Question being put, unless the House shall otherwise resolve.

THAT, while the Committees of Supply and Ways and Means are open, the first Order of the Day on Friday shall be either Supply or Ways and Means, and that on that Order being read, the Question shall be proposed, "That Mr. Speaker do now leave the Chair."

THAT when a Bill or other matter (except Supply, or Ways and Means) has been partly considered in Committee, and the Chairman has been directed to report Progress, and ask leave to sit again, and The House shall have ordered that the Committee shall sit again on a particular day, The Speaker shall, when the order for the Committee has been read, forthwith leave the Chair, without putting any question, and The House shall thereupon resolve itself into such Committee.

THAT at the close of the Proceedings of a Committee of the whole House on a Bill, the Chairman shall report the Bill forthwith to The House, and when Amendments shall have been made thereto, the same shall be received, without debate, and a time appointed for taking the same into consideration.

[21 July 1856.]

THAT no Amendments, not being merely verbal, shall be made to any Bill on the Third Reading.

[19 July 1854.]

THAT it be an Instruction to all Committees of the whole House to which Bills may be committed, that they have power to make such Amendments therein as they shall think fit, provided they be relevant to the subject-matter of the Bill; but that if any such Amendments shall not be within the Title of the Bill, they do amend the Title accordingly, and do report the same specially to The House.

THAT the Questions for reading a Bill a First and Second Time in a Committee of the whole House be discontinued.

THAT in going through a Bill no Questions shall be put for the filling up words already printed in italics, and commonly called blanks, unless exception be taken thereto; and if no alterations have been made in the words so printed in italics, the Bill shall be reported without Amendments, unless other Amendments have been made thereto.

THAT on a Clause being offered in the Committee on the Bill, or on the consideration of Report of a Bill, Mr. Speaker or the Chairman do desire the Member to bring up the same, whereupon it shall be read a First Time without Question put, but no Clause shall be offered on consideration of Report without notice.

THAT Lords' Amendments to Public Bills shall be appointed to be considered on a future day, unless The House shall order them to be considered forthwith.

THAT every Report from a Committee of the whole House be brought up without any Question being put.

THAT Bills which may be fixed for consideration in Committee on the same day, whether in Progress or otherwise, may be referred together to a Committee of the whole House, which may consider on the same day all the Bills so referred to it, without the Chairman leaving the Chair on each separate Bill; provided that, with respect to any Bill not in Progress, if any Member shall object to its consideration in Committee, together with other Bills, the Order of the day for the Committee on such Bill shall be postponed.

OFFICE OF SPEAKER.

[20 July 1855.]

THAT whenever the House shall be informed by the Clerk at the Table of the unavoidable absence of Mr. Speaker, the Chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means do perform the duties and exercise the authority of Speaker in relation to all proceedings of this House, as Deputy Speaker, until the next meeting of the House, and so on from day to day, on the like information being given to the House, until the House shall otherwise order; provided that if the House shall adjourn for more than twenty-four hours, the Deputy Speaker shall continue to perform the duties and exercise the authority of Speaker for twenty-four hours only after such adjournment.

STRANGERS AND DIVISIONS.

[19 July 1854.]

THAT, except when Mr. Speaker or the Chairman of a Committee of the whole House shall otherwise direct, his order for the withdrawal of Strangers during a Division, shall be understood to apply to Strangers occupying seats below the Bar and in the Front Gallery, and shall be enforced by the Serjeant-at-Arms accordingly.

THAT so soon as the voices have been taken, the clerk shall turn a two-minute sand-glass, to be kept on the table for that purpose, and the doors shall not be closed until after the lapse of two minutes, as indicated by such sand-glass.

THAT the doors shall be closed so soon after the lapse of two minutes as the Speaker or the Chairman of the Committee of the whole House shall think proper to direct.

SELECT COMMITTEES.

[21 July 1856.]

THAT on Wednesdays and other Morning Sitzings of the House, all Committees shall have leave to sit, except while the House is at Prayers, during the sitting, and notwithstanding any adjournment of the House.

[25 June 1852.]

THAT no Select Committee shall, without leave of the House, consist of more than Fifteen Members; that such leave shall not be moved for without Notice; and that in the case of Members proposed to be added or substituted after the first appointment of the Committee, the Notice shall include the Names of the Members proposed to be added or substituted.

THAT every Member intending to move for the appointment of a Select Committee, do endeavour to ascertain previously whether each Member proposed to be named by him, on such Committee, will give his attendance thereupon.

THAT every Member intending to move for the appointment of a Select Committee, shall, One day next before the nomination of such Committee, place on the Notices the Names of the Members intended to be proposed by him, to be Members of such Committee.

THAT

THAT lists be affixed in some conspicuous place in the Committee Office, and in the Lobby of the House, of all Members serving on each Select Committee.

THAT to every Question asked of a Witness under examination, in the Proceedings of any Select Committee, there be prefixed in the Minutes of the Evidence the Name of the Member asking such Question.

THAT the Names of the Members present each day on the sitting of any Select Committee be entered on the Minutes of Evidence, or on the Minutes of the Proceedings of the Committee (as the case may be), and reported to the House on the Report of such Committee.

THAT in the event of any Division taking place in any Select Committee, the Question proposed, the Name of the Proposer, and the respective Votes thereupon of each Member present, be entered on the Minutes of Evidence, or on the Minutes of the Proceedings of the Committee (as the case may be), and reported to the House on the Report of such Committee.

THAT if, at any time during the sitting of a Select Committee of this House, the Quorum of Members fixed by the House shall not be present, the Clerk of the Committee shall call the attention of the Chairman to the fact, who shall thereupon suspend the Proceedings of the Committee until a Quorum be present, or adjourn the Committee to some future day.

JEWES.

[15 August 1860.]

THAT any person professing the Jewish Religion may henceforth, in taking the Oath prescribed in an Act passed in the twenty-second year of Her Majesty to entitle him to sit and vote in this House, omit the words "and I make this declaration upon the true faith of a Christian."

PUBLIC ACCOUNTS.

[3 April 1862.]

THAT there shall be a Standing Committee, to be designated "The Committee of Public Accounts," for the examination of the Accounts showing the appropriation of the sums granted by Parliament to meet the Public Expenditure, to consist of Nine Members, who shall be nominated at the commencement of every Session, and of whom Five shall be a Quorum.

OF

RETURN to an Address of the Honourable The House of Commons, dated 18 July 1862;—for,

“COPY of all LETTERS and CORRESPONDENCE between the Lord Chancellor and Mr. W. R. Havens and other Persons, relative to the Dismissal of that Gentleman from the COMMISSION of the PEACE for the County of Essex.”

N.B.—Copies of the Proceedings in this case before certain Magistrates at the Colchester Petty Sessions, are deposited in the Library.

Home Office, 3 January 1862.

SIR GEORGE GREY presents his compliments to the Lord Chancellor, and begs to enclose for his Lordship's consideration a copy of a letter from Lord Braybrooke, Vice Lieutenant of the county of Essex, transmitting a letter from the clerk to the county magistrates at Colchester respecting the conduct of Mr. William Rawdon Havens, a magistrate of that division.

The Lord Chancellor.

I have, &c.
(signed) G. Grey.

COPY of a LETTER from Lord Braybrooke to the Secretary of State.

Sir,

Heydon House, Royston, 27 December 1861.

I HAVE the honour to enclose a letter from Mr. Howard, clerk to the magistrates at Colchester, respecting the conduct of Mr. William Rawdon Havens, one of the magistrates of that Division, and the circumstances which occurred at the Bench on Saturday the 21st instant. I also enclose the newspaper reports of what occurred at the same Bench on two previous meetings, with a copy of Mr. Ewen's letter to Mr. Hawkins, and a report of the proceedings at the Court of Queen's Bench, November 22d.

I should feel obliged by your giving me instructions as to the best way of proceeding, in order to put an end to these occurrences, which entirely stop the public business of the county in that locality.

The Right Honourable the Secretary of State.

I have, &c.
(signed) Braybrooke.

COPY of a LETTER from Mr. Howard to Lord Braybrooke.

Division of Winstree, Hexden, Colchester,
24 December 1861.

My Lord,

As clerk to the magistrates acting for this division of the county, I am directed to bring under your Lordship's notice the conduct of Mr. William Rawdon Havens, one of the magistrates of the division, and the circumstances which occurred here on Saturday last.

It seems proper that I should, in the first instance, remind your Lordship that this is the same gentleman whose conduct was referred to you for inquiry by the Home Secretary in the course of last summer, and against whom a rule for a criminal information was afterwards obtained in the Court of Queen's Bench, for imputing corrupt conduct to his brother magistrates, and which rule was only discharged on Mr. Havens making a full and ample apology, both to the magistrates and their clerk, and paying the costs of the proceedings.

In the hope that Mr. Havens would after this cease to annoy them any further, the magistrates resumed their seats on the Bench; but, so far from realising their hopes, Mr. Havens has ever since endeavoured, in some way or other, to interrupt their proceedings; and on Saturday last, in order still further to insult and annoy them, he entered the Justice-room before the usual hour of sitting, and took and held possession of the Chair, to the exclusion of Mr. Ewen, the rightful Chairman, and by his extraordinary conduct entirely stopped the public business, which had to be adjourned to a future day.

So determined does Mr. Havens seem on using every means in his power to cause the magistrates every possible annoyance, that a repetition of the same line of conduct by him is fully expected to occur at their future meetings; and I am accordingly instructed by the chairman and other magistrates acting with him to lay the circumstances before you, and respectfully to request your Lordship's advice and directions as to the proper course for them to pursue under the trying and painful position in which they are placed.

It is impossible adequately to describe the disgraceful nature of the scene caused by Mr. Haven's conduct in the Court and before the public on Saturday last; but it must inevitably have a most baneful effect on the minds of the lower classes who witnessed it, and tend also to lower the magistrates in public estimation.

The magistrates venture to think that you will deem this a fitting case specially to investigate, and report upon to the Lord Chancellor, and to seek his interference.

I enclose for your Lordship's further information the following Papers:—

1. "Essex Standard," 27th November 1861, containing a Report of the Proceedings in the Court of Queen's Bench.
2. "Essex Standard," 24th December 1861, containing a Report of the Occurrence on Saturday last.
3. "Essex Standard," 13th and 20th December, containing Reports of what occurred at the two previous meetings of the Magistrates, and also a copy of Mr. Ewen's Letter to Mr. W. W. Hawkins.

Should your Lordship wish for any further information, the magistrates will be most happy to furnish it, and to render your Lordship every assistance in their power.

The Lord Braybrooke,
Audley End, Saffron Walden, Essex.

I have, &c.
(signed) W. Howard.

COURT OF QUEEN'S BENCH.

THE COLCHESTER MAGISTERIAL DISPUTES.—Regina v. Havens.

On Friday morning, the rule for a Criminal Information against Mr. William Rawdon Havens, obtained at the instance of several other magistrates of the County Bench sitting on Saturdays at Colchester, came on for argument before Lord Chief Justice Cockburn, Mr. Justice Wightman, and Mr. Justice Blackburn.

The

The proceedings, as our readers are aware, arose out of the recent differences between Mr. Havens and the majority of his colleagues on the Bench; and, as it resulted in a retraction of the charges made by, and an ample apology on the part of Mr. Havens, we trust we have now reached the termination of this protracted and unfortunate dispute.

Sir Fitzroy Kelly, Q. C., and Mr. F. A. Philbrick were for the plaintiff; and Mr. Bovill, Q. C., with Mr. Metcalfe, for the defendants.

Sir Fitzroy Kelly having moved that the rule be made absolute,

Mr. Bovill said, This was a rule granted at the instance of nine magistrates of the county of Essex, calling upon Mr. Havens, the defendant, to show cause why a criminal information should not be exhibited against him for certain misdemeanours. His learned friend in moving for the rule had brought to the notice of the Court certain disputes which had arisen among the county Bench of magistrates for the division of Colchester. Mr. Havens was a gentleman formerly practising at the Bar, but had now retired from that profession, and since the year 1857 he had been in the commission of the peace for the county of Essex, and took a very active part in the discharge of the magisterial business. In 1860, circumstances occurred which led to a disagreement between Mr. Havens and some of the magistrates who were present on that occasion, and in the course of the discussion some angry words passed between Mr. Havens and Mr. Gower, but upon which some letters of explanation passed which were thought mutually satisfactory, and, so far as Mr. Havens was concerned, from that time he certainly had no idea of the renewal of this matter of grievance in any shape or way; but, in the course of the performance of the duty of the magistrates in petty session, they were in the habit of relying upon the advice of their clerk, and upon one occasion, when an information had been laid against a beer seller, most of the magistrates had signed the paper for a conviction, until Mr. Havens pointed out that there was really no legal evidence, and upon the witnesses being further questioned, the clerk himself admitted this to be the case, and the information was dismissed. Mr. Havens blamed the clerk very seriously for this matter, and also for the part he had taken in sending a memorial to the Lord Chancellor, and there were other matters upon which he considered himself particularly aggrieved by the conduct of the clerk to the magistrates. On the 23d of February in this year Mr. Havens gave notice of his intention to move for the dismissal of the clerk, and it was in the course of the statement he made in giving that notice that the observations were used which were now brought forward as the foundation of the present application. He would not go into more details than were necessary, but Mr. Havens upon that occasion proceeded at considerable length to bring forward charges against Mr. Howard, which he thought ought to induce the Bench to dismiss him. After referring to the memorial the clerk had prepared, and a letter he had written to Mr. Havens, that gentleman went on to say,—

“He must have known, if he had any knowledge of law, that he staked his place on the success of the application to the Lord Chancellor. If he succeeded, I was disposed of; I should have been superseded; but not having been superseded I stand here to get rid of him at the proper time. It is impossible that I can tolerate his presence in this Court longer than the power which I wield as one of the judges of this Court can be put in operation. But if the thing had rested simply on what may be called the personal matter, I should have been inclined to have looked it over. I am not afraid that anything the clerk can say or write will lower the estimation in which I am held in this Court. I could have afforded to despise, nay, to laugh at his insults, but there is more behind; and it is an awful charge that I have to make, from which even the boldest man might shrink. But duty urges me on; and the time is come when I must make it. There has been a corrupt administration of justice in this Court for several years past: I do not mean to say that in any one case I could establish a charge of corruption; but taking a series of cases together, and seeing how they have been dealt with, I shall be prepared to show that the administration of justice has been corrupt. Nearly three years ago a prosecution for game trespass from Dedham was brought before this Bench, in which I said, in the presence and hearing of the clerk, and in the presence of the justices who were sitting in a closed Court—closed at my request—I said, ‘I will not sit upon the Bench in silence to hear such a conviction.’ I said to the chairman, ‘I give you your choice; I will either leave this closed Court privately, or if I sit on the Bench I will protest against this unjust conviction.’ The chairman preferred that I should leave the Court privately, and I did so: perhaps I was wrong. The only witness in that prosecution was Mr. Barstow’s gamekeeper. I distrusted his evidence and disbelieved him; but, even believing his evidence, there was, in point of law, no case against one of the defendants. But I made subsequent inquiries, and the clerk told me that the gamekeeper was totally unworthy of credit, and had been convicted of perjury; he told me that himself.”

“There are several other cases, which I cannot go into now; but the last case which occurred, and which I considered most strong, was an information by Superintendent Daunt against Miller, a beer seller. It was clear that somehow or other the clerk omitted to take down in his Minutes of Evidence a few words upon which the whole case turned. With those words omitted there was a case against the defendant; with the words taken as they subsequently were, there was no case whatever. I said but little during the progress of the case, and, having occasion to leave the Bench for a few minutes, I found, on returning to it, that the magistrates—I think seven of them (the “worthy chairman and Sir Claude de Crespigny amongst them)—had signed their initials to a verdict of guilty; and properly so, as the clerk had expressly given it as his opinion to the chairman that there was sufficient evidence upon which to convict. * * *

“When Mr. Hawkins handed me the paper, I said ‘Guilty! why, there is no evidence against the man; he must be acquitted.’ I then went into the case, and after a struggle of nearly an hour the clerk supplied the omitted words on a fresh cross-examination of the policeman; and, the minutes rectified, he stated in open Court that there was no evidence upon which to convict the defendant. Then it was, with a feeling of justice pure and right, that Mr. Hawkins, Sir Claude de Crespigny, and Mr. Huntley Bacon, retracted the verdict which they had given, and signed for one of acquittal. Now, if I had shrunk from this statement I should have saved myself great personal risk: I have nothing to gain beyond the pure administration of justice in the course I take to-day—no possible object of ambition or personal gain. The risk is great; for if I make a charge which I cannot substantiate (and it is a difficult one), I am destroyed. But my public duty, which I have sworn to perform, has compelled me to state this publicly—and I would not have stated it in private—that the administration of justice in this Court has for several years past been corrupt. Upon all the grounds I have stated, the insolence and insubordination which the clerk has shown to me, and upon the great public question of the pure administration of justice, I give notice, to move the dismissal of the clerk.”

Mr. Bovill, upon this extract, proceeded to argue that the charge was not against the magistrates, but entirely against the clerk.

The Chief Justice asked if there was any affidavit from Mr. Havens that he did not impute any corruption to the Magistrates?

Mr. Bovill.—Yes; in most distinct terms. There were also affidavits from Sir Claude de Crespigny and Mr. Hawkins, stating that great assistance had been derived from the services rendered by Mr. Havens in the administration of justice.

The Chief Justice.—You cannot but admit that the language used was very unfortunate, and called for a distinct disavowal on the part of the defendant of any intention to impute corrupt conduct to the justices.

Mr. Bovill.—Most certainly; and he should prove that at the next meeting of magistrates, before the application was made to this Court, such a disavowal was distinctly made.

Mr. Justice Wightman.—The essence of the charge is of corrupt administration of justice by the Court.

Mr. Bovill.—Not against the magistrates.

The Chief Justice.—Do you charge corruption against anybody? You, as representing Mr. Havens, say that the magistrates allowed the clerk to lead them by the nose.

Mr. Bovill.—Mr. Havens did not say that; he said they were led by the nose.

The Chief Justice.—Does he mean that the clerk acted from corrupt and sinister motives, or that he gave rash and injudicious advice? If he means simply that the clerk had ill-advised the magistrates, and that they were weak enough to be led by him, that was one matter; but if he says that they allowed themselves to be led by a man who not only acted injudiciously but corruptly, so that the whole Court was corrupted by that system—

Mr. Bovill.—He does not say that.

Mr. Justice Blackburn.—The words used would convey that impression.

The Chief Justice.—Then where is the ground for a charge of corruption, either as regards the magistrates or the clerk? It is an equally serious matter as regards the clerk.

Mr. Bovill.—The clerk’s conduct has been inquired into by the magistrates, and he has not been dismissed. This rule was obtained only as regards the magistrates.

The Chief Justice.—As regards the Court of which the clerk is an officer, and who must be protected as long as he discharges his duty. The wisdom of his advice as a public man might be open to comment; but a charge of corruption falls as heavily upon the clerk as upon the Court.

Mr. Bovill.—I cannot deal with both at once; I am now upon the magisterial branch of the question.

The Chief Justice.—I want to see whether you disavow any charge of corruption as regards the magistrates, and whether there is an equally full disavowal as regards the clerk.

Mr. Bovill must deal with the clerk afterward—he was now upon the question of the magistrates. In the first case he had quoted there was clearly no imputation upon the magistrates in saying that the clerk allowed them to convict upon the evidence of a game-keeper whom he knew to be unworthy of belief; and, as regards the other case, it was also said they acted upon the clerk’s advice; so that Mr. Havens could not be understood as alleging anything against the magistrates. On the 16th of March there was some further discussion about this matter, and certain letters which had been written to the Home Secretary, and copies of which had been sent to Mr. Havens were read; and at the conclusion of the proceedings on that day Mr. Havens used these words—

“I intend to make this charge against the clerk, and the clerk only. If I had addressed my observations to the chairman, I should have been open to an information, but I intend to make the charge against the clerk, and the clerk only.”

This

This report of what occurred was supported by Mr. Havens's own affidavit, that he denied, either on that or any other occasion, having in any way made a charge against Mr. Ewen, or any of the magistrates of the division, of corruptly administering justice, or of being knowingly or willingly a party to a corrupt administration of justice in any shape or form; but that he did charge Mr. Howard, the clerk, with corrupt administration of justice, and intended that charge against him only.

The Chief Justice.—We will assume that the charge of corruption is only against the clerk. We will give you full credit for having abundantly disavowed the charge of corruption against the magistrates; we want to know whether Mr. Havens persists in the charge of corruption against the clerk as an officer of the Court?

Mr. Bovill.—Your Lordship will excuse me for reading what Mr. Havens has written upon this subject. It is important that these gentlemen should be able to sit and act together, and Mr. Havens feels in his position of a magistrate that, never having charged the magistrates with corruption, there should be no doubt upon that point. In this statement he says that “the misconduct of the clerk, and the clerk only, had caused a corrupt administration of justice.”

Mr. Justice Wightman.—“Caused corrupt administration of justice” by whom?

Mr. Bovill.—He never intended to make that charge against the magistrates.

Mr. Justice Wightman.—He says there was corruption, but by whom?

Mr. Justice Blackburn.—Is it a light thing to charge upon members of a Court that there is corrupt administration of justice by them in consequence of the advice of their clerk?

Mr. Bovill.—Will your Lordships allow me to read a dozen lines, and then I will answer any questions?

Mr. Justice Wightman.—You have not answered my question.

Mr. Bovill.—Will the Court allow me to read this paper?

The Chief Justice.—You wish to set him right with the magistrates; it is a very laudable purpose.

Mr. Bovill said he did, and then read Mr. Havens' statement, as follows:—

“Mr. Havens never did charge the magistrates with corruption; his charge was against the clerk, and that the misconduct of the clerk, and the clerk only, had caused a corrupt administration of justice.

“He never intended to make any charge of corruption against the magistrates.

“If his language was understood as making such a charge, he regrets that his language led to that impression.

“He desires to state publicly that there has been no corruption on the part of any magistrate, and to offer his apology to any magistrate who has supposed such an imputation was conveyed.

“W. R. Havens.”

“20 Nov. 1861.”

Mr. Bovill added:—Having made that statement upon the authority of Mr. Havens, and by his wish, I will now answer any question the Court may put to me.

The Chief Justice.—We want to know this: having made a charge in words, the first impression of which included the whole Court, that is now disavowed as regards the magistrates.

Mr. Bovill.—Yes.

The Chief Justice.—And is it persisted in as regards the clerk?

Mr. Bovill.—I have no authority to withdraw anything that has been said as regards the clerk.

Mr. Havens here held a short consultation with his counsel, by permission of the Court, at the close of which—

Mr. Bovill said—I thank your Lordship for permitting me to confer with my client. With respect to the magistrates, my learned friend, Sir Fitzroy Kelly, thinks there is some ground for assuming that there was an imputation upon them. I repeat that he never intended to make any such imputation, and has always expressly disavowed having done so. As regards the clerk, what occurred was this: Mr. Havens felt himself greatly aggrieved by the circumstances I have mentioned, and proceeded with his motion for the dismissal of the clerk. It was continued upon several occasions. The clerk had his legal adviser; witnesses were examined, and the whole matter was inquired into. The result was a decision by the magistrates to continue Mr. Howard in his office as clerk. Mr. Havens has considered the evidence given upon that occasion, and other matters that have since occurred, and I have his authority for stating distinctly that after what has occurred, and after hearing the explanations that have been given, there was and is no foundation for any charge of corruption or corrupt conduct on the part of the clerk. He thought it his duty to move for the dismissal of that officer; but the investigation which has taken place, and other circumstances, have satisfied him that there was no corruption; and Mr. Havens desires me to state that publicly, for the benefit of Mr. Howard, to the fullest extent. And I have further authority to state that he is not only satisfied there was no corruption, but regrets having been led to suppose that there was corruption, and begs to tender his ample apology to Mr. Howard for having made such an allegation.

Sir F. Kelly said, after what had fallen from his learned friend, appearing as he did, not for the two or three magistrates, all gentlemen of the highest respectability, who had acted with Mr. Havens since the occurrence of this dispute, but for the magistrates, seven in number, who had for many years, with great benefit to the public, administered justice on this Bench, he felt that he ought to do neither more nor less than place himself entirely in the hands of the Court. This application was not brought forward until the last moment at which it could have been heard consistently with the rules of the Court; but the magistrates felt compelled to do so in vindication of their conduct. He did not wish, after what had fallen from Mr. Bovill, to go into the affidavits as to what took place upon these several occasions, when what fell from Mr. Havens seemed to impute corruption to the magistrates generally; but upon another occasion, to which Mr. Bovill had not adverted, a gentleman of the highest respectability, who had made an affidavit in favour of Mr. Havens, and who had also written to the Home Secretary upon the subject, stated that it was in vain for magistrates to proceed to inquire into the conduct of the clerk, because it involved the conduct of the whole of the magistrates as well as the clerk; and Mr. Havens on that occasion offered not one word in repudiation of such a charge, or in explanation of his object in making it. Therefore until, at this moment, they had heard what had fallen from his learned friend, the magistrates (he did not speak of Mr. Hawkins, Sir Claude de Crespigny, and Mr. Blanshard, but of the seven magistrates in whose behalf he appeared)—until this moment they had heard nothing whatever either approaching to an explanation or suggesting any qualification of the charge of corruption of which they justly complained. A single sentence had been selected from a two-column report, and had been quoted to show that this charge was only intended to apply to the clerk; but the language used, as he thought the Court would be of opinion, certainly conveyed the impression that it was a charge of corruption against the magistrates as well. But having said this, and having once more declared that those gentlemen had come forward only from an imperative sense of duty—for these statements having been printed and circulated, not only throughout Essex but throughout the kingdom, they could not participate in carrying on the administration of justice with Mr. Havens while these charges remained unrefuted, unrepudiated, and, in fact, undisclaimed; but after what had fallen from Mr. Bovill, with the express authority of Mr. Havens, disavowing any imputation whatever, not only as regarded the magistrates, but also the clerk, who had served them for the last 25 years without a shadow of reproach upon his character or conduct, he (Sir Fitzroy Kelly) had only to say that whatever this Court thought ought to be the termination of these proceedings, the magistrates would bow to that decision, and most cheerfully acquiesce in it.

The Chief Justice.—It cannot be doubted that Mr. Havens, the defendant, used most rash and ill-advised language; but it was language couched in vague and general terms, and was capable of explanation. Undoubtedly that explanation was called for, and if it could not have been afforded, the rule must have been made absolute; but Mr. Havens has availed himself of the opportunity of entirely disclaiming any intention of imputing to the magistrates any charge of corruption, and, as far as the magistrates are concerned, he has made the disavowal for the purpose of setting himself right as regards his relations with them. As regards the clerk, to whom at the commencement of Mr. Bovill's observations I was afraid the charge of corruption was still intended to be imputed, this Court is bound to afford him the same protection against unfounded charges of corruption that it would have been found to have afforded to the magistrates. The charge indeed was one that involved the whole Court, and the officer of that Court was as much entitled to protection as the justices who presided; but, happily, this discussion has led to an equally frank and full disavowal of any charge or imputation against the character of Mr. Howard, and under these circumstances, I think the complete justice of the case will be satisfied (after the full and ample apology that has been made) by the rule being discharged; but with the consequences that usually attend such cases, and very properly so, because it cannot be denied that, as Mr. Havens used this language, the magistrates were bound to vindicate themselves and their officer from the serious imputation cast upon them, and it would be very hard indeed that having been thus called upon to set the law in motion by the rash and ill-advised language of the defendant, they should have to bear the expenses of these proceedings. The rule, therefore, is discharged upon payment of costs by the defendant.

The proceedings then terminated.

MR. HAVENS AND THE MAGISTRATES.

To the Editor of the "Essex Standard."

Sir,—I am instructed by my client, W. R. Havens, Esq., to forward you the enclosed correspondence for publication.

Yours, &c.

Colchester, 10 December 1861.

(signed) Alexander M. White.

My dear Hawkins,

Donyland Heath, 8 December 1861.

In the course of the argument on the rule at the Queen's Bench, Sir Fitzroy Kelly expressly stated, that, whatever the Court thought should be the right termination of those proceedings, the magistrates would readily bow to their (the judges) decision, and cheerfully acquiesce in it. Mr. Bovill also expressly stated that his client, (Mr. Havens) placed himself unreservedly in the hands of the Court.

The Lord Chief Justice pronounced an opinion that Mr. Havens had set himself right with the magistrates; in short, the rule was ordered to be discharged on payment of costs by Mr. Havens.

I returned to Colchester, and took my seat upon the Bench as usual. You intimated to me your wish that I and the other magistrates should shake hands. I expressed my readiness to do so; you afterwards asked me to dinner, and invited the magistrates of the division to meet me. I wrote to you saying I was prepared to meet the magistrates, one and all, in the most friendly spirit, but they did not come.

Last Friday you informed me that Mr. Ewen, and the other seceding magistrates, intended to take their seats on the Bench the next day, still adhering to the published letter of the 1st of December of last year; and you did so on the authority of a letter which you said you had received from Mr. Ewen that morning. I asked for the letter; you declined, but read a sentence. I asked you to read the whole; you declined.

Last Saturday, at the Court of Petty Sessions, I asked you to read the letter in public. At first you declined; but, being again pressed by me, you said you were willing to read it with Mr. Ewen's consent. Mr. Ewen gave no direct answer, but immediately declared the Court adjourned, and left the Bench.

I have good grounds for believing that Mr. Ewen's letter to you contains expressions offensive to me and derogatory to my character. I know you have shown that letter to one or more magistrates, and therefore it can no longer be considered a private letter.

I insist upon your publishing that letter, or furnishing me with a copy of it.

You must endeavour to get Mr. Ewen's consent for that purpose; if not, I shall bring the matter before the next Court of Petty Session.

W. W. Hawkins, Esq., Alresford Hall.

Believe me, &c.

My dear Sir,

Colchester, 9 December 1861.

By Mr. Hawkins' request, I send you a copy of a letter lately addressed to him by Mr. Ewen: Mr. Ewen has consented to his so doing.

W. R. Havens, Esq., East Donyland.

Dear Sir,

Dedham, 3 December 1861.

I THINK it right to acquaint you that it has been to-day determined by the magistrates who, with myself, have seceded from the Bench for some months past, that we should resume our seats on Saturday next; and, as it was intimated to me by Mr. Howard a fortnight ago, that in the event of my presenting myself in Court for that purpose, you intend to address some observations to me in resigning your temporary occupation of the chair, I must venture to request that should you think it incumbent upon you to attend on our next Bench day, you will abstain from making any observation whatever in regard to the circumstances which have now become matters of history. My reasons for making this request are simply these: that the public have already had enough, and more than enough of our internal dissensions; that it would be impossible for me to avoid replying to you in some sort, however guarded and unexceptionable your expressions might be, and that it would immediately afford an opening for Mr. Havens to make a speech, which would at once involve me in difficulty to prevent.

It is quite plain to my brother magistrates, as well as myself, that Mr. Havens does not recognise his present position. For our part, we cannot conceive anything which could have occurred to him which he ought to feel more humiliating than that in which he is placed by the decision of the Court of Queen's Bench; and it may be well that he should understand, through you as his friend, that he must regard the letter addressed to him by our clerk, on the 1st day of December 1860, as still remaining in full force and virtue so far as regards any communication with him.

W. W. Hawkins, Esq.,
Alresford Hall.

I am, &c.

Mr. HAVENS and the MAGISTRATES.

To the Editor of the "Essex Standard."

Sir,

My friend Mr. Hawkins requested me last Monday afternoon to send Mr. Havens a copy of Mr. Ewen's letter to him (Mr. Hawkins), dated 3d December instant, and which I accordingly did by that evening's post, accompanied by a few hurried lines explaining how it happened that I sent such copy.

I was surprised and annoyed to find my note had been, without my consent, or the slightest communication with me, published in the first edition of the "Essex Standard" issued this day, with Mr. Havens' own letter to Mr. Hawkins and Mr. Ewen's letter to the latter gentleman.

I have requested Mr. Havens to withdraw my note from further publication, but he has refused compliance with my request, on the ground that it will destroy the connecting link between the two letters which he has published.

The only objection I have to my note being published is that perhaps the public may think that I am again taking some part in these unfortunate magisterial differences; whereas, on the other hand, it is furthest from my intention again to interfere.

At the first magisterial outbreak I used my best exertions to obtain peace, and gave much valuable time (but unfortunately in vain) to the object; and I venture to think that had my advice been then followed, much bad feeling, litigation, and expense (to say nothing of public exposure to all parties concerned) would have been avoided.

COPY of a LETTER from the Lord Chancellor to Lord Braybrooke.

My Lord,

34, Belgrave Square, 27 January 1862.

I HAVE the honour to inform your Lordship that certain papers have been forwarded to me by the Secretary of State for the Home Department, reporting the conduct of Mr. Rawdon Havens, a Magistrate of the Colchester Bench.

Having carefully examined these papers, I am much pained to observe the course which Mr. Havens has thought proper to pursue, and which must necessarily be so detrimental to the proper and decorous administration of justice. Although, however, it is a very grave case, I feel that it is quite impossible for me to interfere or in any way to act upon newspaper accounts.

If your Lordship will ascertain that the statements made in the papers forwarded to the Home Office are correct, and will also send me the assurance to the same effect of the magistrates who were present at the time, I will at once call on Mr. Havens for his defence, and if not satisfactory, will remove him from the commission of the peace.

COPY of a LETTER from Lord Braybrooke to the Lord Chancellor.

My Lord,

32, Lower Brook Street, 11 February 1862.

I HAVE the honour to forward the enclosed from Mr. Ewen, the Chairman of the Bench of Magistrates at Colchester, containing an authentic report of the proceedings of that Bench for some weeks past, and of the conduct of Mr. Rawden Havens, one of the magistrates for that division. I also understand from Mr. Ewen that the business of the magistracy was again interrupted by Mr. Havens last Saturday, since the enclosed statement was drawn up and signed. I will procure a report of these last proceedings, if your Lordships should consider it necessary.

COLCHESTER PETTY SESSIONAL DIVISION.

STATEMENT in reference to the Conduct of Mr. William Rawdon Havens, one of the Magistrates of the Division; prepared for the Lord Chancellor, according to a request made, through the Lord Braybrooke, on behalf of the Lord Lieutenant of the County.

MR. HAVENS formerly practised at the bar, but has for some years ceased to follow his profession, and in the year 1857 he was appointed a magistrate of this county. Very shortly after taking his seat on the bench he showed a disposition to act contrary to the wishes of his brother magistrates, which occasionally led to unpleasant altercation and division of opinion in deciding upon cases brought before them. And for the last 18 months Mr. Havens' conduct has been such as to cause the greatest possible annoyance to his brother magistrates, as well as to interrupt the public business. And for several months the chairman of the Bench, Thomas L'Estrange Ewen, Esquire, and those of his brother magistrates who were most constant in their attendance, were entirely driven away, and unable to take their seats upon the bench. At length, Mr. Havens' ill feeling against his brother magistrates, and also against the clerk, who had acted for 25 years in that capacity without a shadow of reproach upon his character or conduct, became so great that he, in the open and public court, spoke of them in the most contemptuous and derisive manner, accusing them of acting falsely, and calling them "imbeciles" and "wretches," and in every possible way endeavouring to lower them in public estimation; and ultimately he charged them and the clerk with a "corrupt administration of justice;" and this he did deliberately in the full and open court, and well knowing the reporters were present, and taking down all he was saying, with a view to its publication in the local newspapers.

The charge of a corrupt administration of justice, and that too not in a single instance, but, as Mr. Havens openly asserted, for a series of years, being thus made by Mr. Havens against his brother magistrates and their clerk, was deemed of so serious a character that the chairman and seven other of the magistrates against whom the charge was considered more immediately to apply (though in effect it applied to the whole of the Bench) felt it impossible, with such a charge against them, to take their seats upon the bench, until their characters were cleared of the very serious imputation brought against them, and they were therefore compelled, in vindication of their character and office, to seek redress in a court of law; and accordingly, in Trinity Term last, Sir Fitzroy Kelly obtained, on behalf of the magistrates and their clerk, from the Court of Queen's Bench, a Rule Nisi calling on Mr. Havens to show cause why a criminal information should not be filed against him. No sooner was this done than Mr. Havens sought to establish a charge of conspiracy against the eight magistrates and their clerk, by whom the rule had been obtained. They were summoned before the borough magistrates, where the case entirely failed, and the summons was dismissed. This, however, did not satisfy Mr. Havens, and at the next assizes he actually preferred a bill of indictment against them, which bill, however, as might be expected, was thrown out by the grand jury. There was, of course, no foundation whatever for this charge, and it no doubt emanated from a design on the part of Mr. Havens to prejudice the case of the magistrates in the Court of Queen's Bench, and which it would doubtless have done if this prosecution had been hanging over their heads when the rule should be argued. The case in the Queen's Bench did not come on for argument until the 22d of November last, and it will be seen by what took place in court that Mr. Havens, in order to save himself from the very serious consequences of having the rule made absolute against him, resorted to the subterfuge of endeavouring to shift the charge from the magistrates to the clerk, and ultimately had to apologise for his conduct, as will more clearly appear by the following report, which contains the substance of what took place in court:—

Mr. Bovill, the counsel for Mr. Havens, after proceeding to argue that the charge was not meant to be against the magistrates, but only against their clerk, was asked by the Chief Justice if there was any affidavit from Mr. Havens that he did not impute any corruption to the magistrates.

Mr. Bovill.—Yes, in most distinct terms. There were also affidavits from Sir C. De Crespigny and Mr. Hawkins in his behalf.

The Chief Justice.—You cannot but admit that the language used was most unfortunate, and called for a distinct disavowal on the part of the defendant of any intention to impute corrupt conduct to the justices.

Mr. Bovill.—Most certainly; and he should prove that before the application was made to this court such a disavowal was made.

Mr. Justice Wightman.—The essence of the charge is of corrupt administration of justice by the Court.

Mr. Bovill.—Not against the magistrates.

The Chief Justice.—Do you charge corruption against anybody? as You, representing Mr. Havens, say that the magistrates allowed the clerk to lead them by the nose.

Mr. Bovill.—Mr. Havens did not say that. He said they were led by the nose.

The Chief Justice.—Does he mean that the clerk acted from corrupt and sinister motives, or that he gave rash and injudicious advice? If he means simply that the clerk ill-advised the magistrates, and that they were weak enough to be led by him, that was one matter; but if he says that they allowed themselves to be led by a man who not only acted injudiciously but corruptly, so that the whole Court was corrupted by that system—

Mr. Bovill.—He does not say that.

Mr. Justice Blackburn.—The words used would convey that impression.

The Chief Justice.—Then where is the ground for a charge of corruption, either as regards the magistrates or their clerk? It is an equally serious matter as regards the clerk.

Mr. Bovill.—The clerk's conduct has been inquired into by the magistrates, and he has not been dismissed. This rule was only obtained as against the magistrates.

The Chief Justice.—As regards the court, of which the clerk is an officer, he must be protected as long as he discharges his duty. The wisdom of his advice, as a public man, might be open to comment, but a charge of corruption falls as heavily upon the clerk as upon the Court.

Mr. Bovill then, after some further argument, read a paper from Mr. Havens as follows:—

"Mr. Havens never did charge the magistrates with corruption; his charge was against the clerk, and that the misconduct of the clerk, and the clerk only, had caused a corrupt administration of justice.

"He never intended to make any charge of corruption against the magistrates. If his language was understood as making such a charge, he regrets that his language led to that impression.

"He desires to state publicly that there was no corruption on the part of any magistrate, and to offer his apology to any magistrate who has supposed that such an imputation was conveyed.

"20 November 1861."

"W. R. Havens.

The Chief Justice.—We want to know this:—having made a charge in words, the first impression of which included the whole Court, that is now disavowed as regards the magistrates?

Mr. Bovill.—Yes.

The Chief Justice.—And is it persisted in as regards the clerk?

(Mr. Havens here held a short consultation with his counsel, by permission of the Court, at the close of which)

Mr. Bovill said,

I thank your Lordship for permitting me to confer with my client. With respect to the magistrates, my learned friend (Sir Fitzroy Kelly) thinks there is some ground for assuming that there was an imputation upon them. I repeat that he never intended to make such an imputation, and has always expressly disavowed having done so. As regards the clerk, what occurred was this:—Mr. Havens felt himself greatly aggrieved by the circumstances I have mentioned, and proceeded with his motion for the dismissal of the clerk. It was continued on several occasions; the clerk had his legal adviser; witnesses were examined, and the whole matter was inquired into. The result was a decision by the magistrates to continue Mr. Howard in his office as clerk. Mr. Havens has considered the evidence given upon that occasion and other matters that have since occurred; and I have his authority for stating distinctly that after what has occurred, and after hearing the explanations that have been given, there was and is no foundation for any charge of corruption or corrupt conduct on the part of the clerk. He thought it his duty to move for the dismissal of that officer, but the investigation which has since taken place, and other circumstances, have satisfied him that there was no corruption; and Mr. Havens desires me to state that publicly, for the benefit of Mr. Howard, to the fullest extent; and I have further authority to state, that he is not only satisfied that there was no corruption, but regrets having been led to suppose that there was corruption, and begs to tender his ample apology to Mr. Howard for having made such an allegation.

After a few words from Sir Fitzroy Kelly, on the part of the magistrates and their clerk,

The Chief Justice said,

It cannot be doubted that Mr. Havens used most rash and ill-advised language, but it was language couched in vague and general terms, and was capable of explanation. Undoubtedly the explanation was called for, and if it could not have been afforded the rule must have been made absolute. But Mr. Havens has availed himself of the opportunity of disclaiming any intention of imputing to the magistrates any charge of corruption. And, as far as the magistrates are concerned, he has made the disavowal for the purpose of setting himself right as regards his relations with them. As regards the clerk, to whom, at the commencement of Mr. Bovill's observations, I was afraid the charge of corruption was still intended to be imputed, this Court is bound to afford him the same protection against unfounded charges of corruption that it would have been bound to have afforded to the magistrates.

The charge indeed was one that involved the whole Court, and the officer of that Court was as much entitled to protection as the justices who presided; but happily this discussion has led to an equally frank and full disavowal of any charge or imputation against the character of Mr. Howard, and, under these circumstances, I think the complete justice of the case will be satisfied (after the full and frank apology that has been made) by the rule being discharged, but with the consequences that usually attend such cases, and very properly so, because it cannot be denied that, as Mr. Havens used this language, the magistrates were bound to vindicate themselves and their officer from the serious imputation cast upon them; and it would be very hard indeed, that, having been thus called upon to set the law in motion by the rash and ill-advised language of the defendant, they should have to bear the expenses of these proceedings. The rule, therefore, is discharged on payment of costs by the defendant.

The conduct of Mr. Havens ought, it is conceived, to be looked upon in the same manner as if the rule had been made absolute; for it was only by withdrawing his unfounded charges, and apologising both to the magistrates and their clerk, that he saved himself from the consequences. The moral stain therefore remains.

Again, it should be noticed how little regard Mr. Havens seems to have paid to the solemnity of an oath; for, whilst in the apology made by him in Court he admits that the inquiry into the clerk's conduct satisfied him that there was no corruption, yet, after that inquiry, he made and put upon the file of the court a solemn affidavit declaring that he never intended to impute corruption to the magistrates, but did intend to impute it to the clerk. It is scarcely possible to conceive a more utter disregard to the solemnity of an oath, and that by a man who, from his position and office, ought to hold it most sacred.

It was hoped that after these proceedings Mr. Havens would either have withdrawn from the bench, or allowed the business to be conducted without further interruption or annoyance, and therefore Mr. Ewen and the other magistrates, who had been kept away from the bench for many months, determined to resume their seats. During their absence from the bench the chair had been temporarily occupied by Mr. W. W. Hawkins, and it having been intimated to Mr. Ewen that upon his resuming his seat Mr. Hawkins would probably in some way allude to the past proceedings, he deemed it right to address a private letter to Mr. Hawkins, to prevent his doing so, as it might lead to further outbreak. The following is a copy of the letter:—

“ Dear Sir,

“ Dedham, 3 December 1861.

“ I think it right to acquaint you that it has been to-day determined by the magistrates, who, with myself, have seceded from the bench for some months past, that we should resume our seats on Saturday next; and as it was intimated to me by Mr. Howard, a fortnight ago, that in the event of my presenting myself in Court for that purpose you intended to address some observation to me in resigning your temporary occupation of the chair, I must venture to request that, should you think it incumbent upon you to attend on our next bench day, you will abstain from making any observation whatever in regard to the circumstances which have now become matters of history. My reasons for making this request are simply these—that the public have already had enough, and more than enough, of our internal dissensions; that it would be impossible for me to avoid replying to you in some sort, however guarded and unexceptionable your expressions may be; and that it would immediately afford an opening for Mr. Havens to make a speech, which would at once involve me in difficulty to prevent. It is quite plain to my brother magistrates, as well as myself, that Mr. Havens does not recognise his present position. For our part, we cannot conceive anything which could have occurred to him which he ought to feel more humiliating than that in which he is placed by the decision of the Court of Queen's Bench; and it may be well that he should understand through you, as his friend, that he must regard the letter addressed to him by our clerk on the 1st of December 1860, as still remaining in full force and virtue, so far as regards any communication with him.

“ W. W. Hawkins, Esq.

“ Alresford Hall.”

(signed) “ T. L' Estrange Ewen.

Mr. Havens, upon this letter, endeavours to make fresh cause for quarrel with his brother magistrates, and it will be seen by what follows that his conduct as a magistrate has ever since been most unbecoming and reprehensible, scarcely a week having passed without his causing some annoyance and insult to his brother magistrates, as well as interruption to the public business.

The first time of the magistrates resuming their seats after the termination of the Queen's Bench proceedings was the 7th December last. Mr. Havens was present, and took occasion to interrupt the business by requiring Mr. Ewen's letter (which, be it observed, was a private one to Mr. Hawkins), to be read in open court. This was objected to by all the other magistrates present, including Mr. Hawkins, and was therefore refused.

On the following Saturday (14th December) Mr. Havens again endeavoured to disturb the harmony of the Court by desiring that each magistrate on the bench should take his seat according to seniority in the commission. This was overruled; and it would seem that the only possible motive Mr. Havens could have in thus acting was a wish to annoy the chairman personally, as if his motion had been carried into effect it would have placed him next the chairman.

On the following Saturday (21st December), Mr. Havens took the extraordinary step of going to the Court somewhat earlier than the usual time of meeting, and when Mr. Ewen and the other magistrates who entered the court with him went there, they found him actually in the chair. Mr. Ewen, then, as the rightful chairman (for he has acted as such for the last 20 years and upwards), requested him as a gentleman to remove from the chair, in order that he, Mr. Ewen, might take his seat, and proceed with the public business. Mr. Havens positively refused to do so, alleging as a reason that at the last sitting no regard had been paid to seniority. The magistrates thereupon were under the necessity of adjourning the court for half an hour, to consult what to do. On their return they found Mr. Havens had all the while kept possession of the chair, and which he persisted in retaining, This caused so much disturbance in the court that the business was entirely stopped, and had to be put off till the following week. The scene caused by this unheard-of conduct on the part of Mr. Havens was altogether a most disgraceful one, and must necessarily have a very bad effect on the minds of the lower classes who were eye-witnesses to what occurred.

On the following Saturday Mr. Havens allowed Mr. Ewen to take his rightful place, and the business proceeded without interruption.

On the following Saturday (4th January) Mr. Havens again took and held possession of the chair, whereupon Mr. Ewen and the other magistrates adjourned to another court in the Town Hall; Mr. Havens, in a most unbecoming manner, calling out from his seat, "You cannot adjourn." Mr. Havens, after the magistrates left, quitted the chair, and went into and took his seat in the other court where they were sitting. Towards the conclusion of a case, and when the bench were about to consider the sentence, Mr. Havens made an observation as to the trifling nature of the offence, and thought a day's imprisonment would be enough. Upon which, and fearing another scene might occur, it was suggested to him that if he wished to discuss the sentence it would be best for the magistrates to adjourn to their private room. Mr. Havens objected to this, and made use of the following offensive observation:—"I am placed in this difficulty. I cannot meet the magistrates at a private sitting. When I did so once you put words into my mouth that I never said, and I will not meet the magistrates in a private room again." Mr. Leveson-Gower, one of the magistrates, remarked to Mr. Havens, "You accuse the whole Bench of being capable, while performing their public duty, of uttering a falsehood; it is nothing else, and there is no other meaning in what you say." With the exception of Mr. Havens, the magistrates then retired to their private room, and on their return into court delivered their sentence, which was one of seven days' imprisonment, and no further observation was made by Mr. Havens.

On the 11th January the Bench assembled as usual, Mr. Ewen this day taking the chair without interruption. Amongst others, a case of affiliation came before the Court, at the conclusion of which the magistrates wished, on account of the conflicting nature of the evidence, to consult as to their judgment, and ordered the court (there being no private room attached to it) to be cleared; upon which Mr. Havens took occasion to inquire if the reporters were to leave. The chairman replied, "Yes." Mr. Havens then said, "I shall leave as well; I won't sit with the magistrates in a closed court," and he went out with the reporters and the public. This occasioned some manifestation of applause amongst the lower orders.

On the 18th the business of the Bench was again interrupted for a considerable time by Mr. Havens' extraordinary behaviour.

As soon as Mr. Ewen, the rightful chairman, entered the court, Mr. Havens moved that the junior magistrate take the chair, the only object of which must have been to cause personal annoyance to Mr. Ewen. In making the motion he took the opportunity of going into matters which formed the subject of inquiry in the Court of Queen's Bench, and spoke of his brother magistrates in most disrespectful terms, such as "Ewen and Co.," &c. All which was most trying both to the temper and patience of the Bench, and occasioned great interruption to the public business, so much so that one of the professional gentlemen present was obliged to protest against having his time wasted by such unseemly scenes on the Bench as had taken place for months past. After much altercation, and Mr. Havens not finding any one to second his motion, the business proceeded.

On the 25th no disturbance took place.

On the next week, however, (1st February), Mr. Havens again attempted to annoy his brother magistrates by again moving that the junior magistrate take the chair. Afterwards a case under the Game Laws was heard, and after the evidence was gone through the magistrates wished to consult privately upon it before passing sentence, the chairman therefore ordered the Court to be cleared. Mr. Havens thereupon rose, and made use of the following offensive expression, "I shall not trust myself here without the protection of the reporters," and immediately left the Court.

It will thus be seen that scarcely a week has elapsed since the termination of the proceedings in the Court of Queen's Bench, that the public business has not been in some way interrupted by Mr. Havens' extraordinary conduct; and it is quite impossible to maintain the proper dignity of the Court, or that the law can be administered with any wholesome effect, if such proceedings are allowed to continue.

COPY of a LETTER from the Honourable H. Campbell to W. R. Havens, Esq.

Sir,

34, Belgrave Square, 14 February 1862.

I AM directed by the Lord Chancellor to forward to you the enclosed representation which has been sent to him by the Vice-Lieutenant of the County of Essex.

I am further desired to inquire whether the representation thus made to the Lord Chancellor is substantially correct, and if so, what explanation you would wish to offer with respect to the conduct you have thought proper to adopt.

Should the representation prove to be substantially correct, the Lord Chancellor fears it will be his duty to remove you from the Commission of the Peace.

The Lord Chancellor will expect to receive your answer to the enclosed representation within a fortnight.

It may be your desire to be removed from the Commission at your own request, a course which the Lord Chancellor suggests for your consideration.

I have, &c.

(signed) Hallyburton Campbell,
Secretary of Commissions.

W. R. Havens, Esq.

ESSEX.—COLCHESTER PETTY SESSIONAL DIVISION.

The ANSWER of W. R. Havens, one of the Magistrates of the County of Essex, acting for the said Division, in reply to a Statement signed by T. L. Ewen, Esq., and Six other Magistrates, and laid before the Lord Chancellor.

I, William Rawdon Havens, do say as follows :

“ That the said statement is false, and I believe maliciously false.

“ That a former statement, signed by the said T. L. Ewen and eight other magistrates, and laid before the late Lord Chancellor Campbell, is false, and I believe also maliciously false.

“ That a letter dated 1st December 1860, signed by the clerk to the magistrates of this division, and purporting to be written by direction of some of them, and addressed to me, is false, and I believe also maliciously false.

“ That if the magistrates and the clerk will publish in the City of London the said statements and letter, and admit the fact of publication, I will immediately bring an action against them for a false and malicious libel.

“ That the said statements and letter would technically form the subject of separate actions, but in substance are all intimately connected together, and ought (to save expense) to form the subject of one action, the jury coming to a separate finding on each document.

“ That an investigation into the alleged facts of the clerk's letter, and of the statement laid before the late Lord Chancellor Campbell, is material and necessary for my answer to the statement laid before the present Lord Chancellor.

“ That it is the duty of the magistrates and clerk either to publish the said statements and letters, or to withdraw and apologise for them.

“ That as one of the humblest of Her Majesty's servants, I demand a public investigation before a jury in a civil court.

“ That after verdict, or after a withdrawal by the magistrates and the clerk of the charges against me, I shall be ready and anxious to complete my defence before the Lord Chancellor.

“ And that a verdict of a jury or the withdrawal of the charges by the magistrates and the clerk will enable the Lord Chancellor to easily dispose of the case with satisfaction to himself and with justice to me.

“ W. R. Havens.

COPY of a LETTER from the Honourable H. Campbell to W. R. Havens, Esq.

Sir,

House of Lords, 27 February 1862.

I HAVE to acknowledge the receipt of your letter and statement, which I have laid before the Lord Chancellor.

In reply, I am directed to state that the charges made against you are circumstantial and detailed.

They are signed by Mr. Ewen, the Chairman of Petty Sessions, and several other magistrates, and are sent to the Lord Chancellor by and on the authority of the Vice-Lieutenant. To these full and particular statements you have not thought fit to return any other answer than the assertion that the whole of the statement is false and maliciously false. You thus charge your brother magistrates with having deliberately invented and published a series of falsehoods, with the malicious intent of doing you an injury.

The Lord Chancellor cannot give credit to an accusation so incredible and so entirely unsupported. In his judgment, this charge is a most serious aggravation of your former offensive conduct. The forbearance shown to you in the proceedings in the Court of Queen's Bench has had no effect.

It is impossible that you should remain in the same Commission with the gentlemen whom you have thus accused; and as the Lord Chancellor is satisfied of the correctness of the representation made to him, he feels it to be his duty to direct that your name be struck out of the Commission.

I have, &c.

Secretary of Commissions.

W. R. Havens, Esq.

COPY of a LETTER from W. R. Havens, Esq., to the Hon. H. Campbell.

Sir,

Donyland, 8 May 1862.

I WISH you to lay before the Lord Chancellor the correspondence (a printed copy of which I enclose) between me and the Vice-Lieutenant, from which it will appear that he does not hold himself responsible for the truth of the memorial.

If the Lord Chancellor will give me the opportunity, I can lay before his Lordship abundant evidence of the memorial being false, and in doing that my only object will be to induce the Lord Chancellor to put matters in train for a public inquiry.

Until Mr. Bovill had expressed a clear opinion that I was not open to the charge of having disregarded my oath, I did not feel myself at liberty to make any statements to the Lord Chancellor upon facts in dispute between me and the other magistrates, beyond the general plea of not guilty.

Perhaps the Lord Chancellor may look upon me as beneath his notice, but at all events he will respect truth and justice.

I am, &c.

The Hon. H. Campbell,
Secretary of Commissions.

Sir,

House of Lords, 9 May 1862.

I HAVE to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 8th instant, enclosing a printed copy of the correspondence between yourself and the Vice-Lieutenant for the county of Essex, which, according to your request, I have laid before the Lord Chancellor. In reply, I am directed to state, that should the Lord Chancellor, after perusing the correspondence, consider it to be necessary, he will direct some further communication to be made to you.

I am, &c.

W. R. Havens, Esq.

COPY of a LETTER from W. R. Havens, Esq., to the Honourable H. Campbell

Sir,

Donyland, 31 May 1862.

I MAKE a last effort to induce the Lord Chancellor to respect constitutional usage, and to give me an opportunity of vindicating my character. With that view I submit to his Lordship the following points :—

That the memorial, if true, would render me infamous.

That the Lord Chancellor forwarded the memorial to me, and inquired whether it was true.

That my answer declaring the memorial to be false and malicious, was considered by the Lord Chancellor to be an aggravation of my alleged offences.

That such a proceeding was to me a delusion, a mockery, and a snare.

That if the Lord Chancellor had acted upon the ex-parte memorial, without making any communication, he would have done less injustice than he has done by going through the idle form of sending me the memorial, asking me whether it was true, and then utterly disregarding my answer.

That although the Lord Chancellor has the undoubted right to deprive any magistrate of his Commission, yet the Lord Chancellor has in my case exceeded his constitutional powers in depriving me of Her Majesty's Commission, upon the assumed truth of ex-parte statements only, and which statements I had declared to be false.

That however high may be the powers of the Lord Chancellor, he has not the power of converting a false memorial into a true one.

That I have no legal remedy in respect of such an arbitrary exercise of power by the Lord Chancellor.

That unless I receive by Wednesday next a satisfactory communication, I shall take such steps as may be open to me for the purpose of obtaining redress.

Secretary of Commissions.

Sir,

Treasury Chambers, 14 February 1855.

I AM commanded by the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury to acquaint you that as the house, No. 6, Whitehall Yard, is urgently required for the use of the Army and Ordnance Medical Department, my Lords request that you will give directions for the immediate transfer of the Old War Office records deposited in it to the New Record Depository.

Treasury to the Master of the Rolls.

Sir,

Treasury Chambers, 7 March 1855.

I AM directed by the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury to transmit herewith copies of a letter from the Board of Ordnance, dated the 3d instant, and of its enclosure, representing the necessity of re-appropriating to store purposes the Record Rooms in the White Tower, Tower of London, and I am to state that, as it would appear that the rooms in question might with greater public advantage, especially under the present circumstances of the country, be appropriated for the deposit of military stores than of records, my Lords request that you will give your early and careful consideration to the subject, and inform this Board whether the records now in the White Tower may, as proposed, be removed to the New Record Repository.

The Master of the Rolls.

Enclosure 1, in No. 2.

Sir,

Office of Ordnance, 3 March 1855.

THE civil officers of the Ordnance at the Tower having represented to the Board of Ordnance the necessity of re-appropriating to store purposes the Record Rooms in the White Tower,—

I have the honour, by the Board's desire, to request you will submit to the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury the accompanying copy of the Civil Officer's Report on the subject, dated 26th ultimo, and move their Lordships to give such directions thereon as they may deem proper for the furtherance of the public service.

The Secretary to the Treasury.

Enclosure 2, in No. 2.

Office of Ordnance, Tower,
26 February 1855.

Sir,

THE following memorandum appears upon an old plan of the White Tower in our possession:—

“1736, May 26.—Ordered, by the Master General, that the Match Room, marked letter B on this plan, be lent for keeping the records in the White Tower, until some convenient place can be found out for that purpose; and that the Master of the Rolls obtain His Majesty’s warrant for that purpose.”

We understand the New Record Office built in the Rolls Garden, Chancery-lane, is ready for the reception of records; but there is no symptom of anything like a removal of those records from the Tower; indeed, we believe there is a disposition not to remove them at all.

Now, considering how much the service suffers from the great want of store room, owing to the extreme pressure of business which is now increased to four times that of any former year at the Tower, we strongly but respectfully urge that an application be made to the Lords of the Treasury, praying their Lordships to direct that the records may be removed from the Tower as early as may be practicable, and that the space now occupied by the records be given up to the Ordnance.

We have, &c.

No. 3.

Master of the Rolls to the Treasury.

Sir,

Rolls House, 13 March 1855.

IN answer to your letter of the 7th March instant, I beg to state that I have carefully read and considered the letter from the Board of Ordnance of the 3rd instant, and its enclosures, respecting the necessity of reappropriating to store purposes the Record Rooms in the White Tower, Tower of London. I entertain the strongest desire to comply with the wish of their Lordships in this respect, if it could be rendered practicable; but it is necessary for me to point out the difficulties attendant upon it to their Lordships, and to submit the following remarks for their consideration on this subject. That portion of the New Repository which is now completed is wholly inadequate to contain all the records at present under my charge, without taking into account the constant, regular annual addition which under the statutes now in force increase this number. Besides, I am frequently called upon to take charge of and find space for other public documents of a bulky nature; as an instance of which I may mention that, in the course of the last month, I have had to take charge of the documents in the Pension Office, Whitehall, the contents of which were 112 cartloads, weighing about 160 tons.

Since I received your letter, I have been applied to by letter of the 9th instant, by the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, who desired to be informed when certain books and papers in the department of the Accountant General of the Navy can be deposited in the New Repository; a verbal application has been made at the same time to the deputy keeper, Sir Francis Palgrave, from the War Office, to the like effect.

The New Repository being unable to contain all the records, the selection of those which are to be taken there has been a matter of much consideration, and it has been settled that the records now preserved in the Carlton Ride, should be transferred to the New Repository. It is in truth imperatively necessary that the records in the Carlton Ride should be brought into the New Repository. The building is not fire-proof, and is most insecure in other respects; besides which, the separation of the numerous officers connected with it from the deputy keeper’s department, is a great impediment to the public service. It is equally needful that the records in the Chapter House, which are, comparatively speaking, few in number, should be brought into the New Repository, the building being inconvenient, and the waste of time and labour resulting from the circumstance of the separation of these repositories from the deputy keeper’s department being very objectionable. And it is also desirable that the Chancery Records in the Tower should be be consolidated in the New Repository with those now in the Rolls Chapel ; and room must be found also for the sections of State papers, viz. to the year 1750, which are to be brought into the building ; and, lastly, space must be reserved for the annual accrual of the common law documents transmitted pursuant to the statute.

These, and the very important records transmitted by their Lordships from the Treasury Chambers, will entirely fill the New Repository. For these reasons it was, upon considering the filling up of the New Repository, determined by me, upon the advice of the deputy keeper, to leave the Admiralty records in the Tower, and transfer there also whatever Government documents now or hereafter might be in my charge, for which space could not be found either in the New Repository or in the Rolls Court Gallery, or the upper story of the Rolls House, until the proposed addition can be made to the New Repository, according to the plan.

I had also been given to understand, that the ground occupied by the Carlton Ride was required by the Office of Works for building purposes. If the records are brought from the White Tower, in the Tower of London, to the New Repository, it will be impossible also to transfer to it the records now deposited in the Carlton Ride, and the records there deposited must remain there, or must be transferred to some other temporary place to be supplied by their Lordships. If their Lordships can supply such a temporary place of deposit, it would probably be better that the documents in the White Tower of the Tower of London, the great bulk of which consist of Admiralty documents, should be transferred thereto, and allow the measures proposed by me with respect to the Carlton Ride, and the documents therein deposited, to remain unchanged ; as an alteration in that respect would occasion considerable inconvenience, by disturbing the plans already settled for the transfer and classification of these records, all which would be interfered with by removing the Tower records in place of those at the Carlton Ride.

Whatever decision may be come to, the New Repository is not yet in a situation to receive any of the records, either from the Tower or from the Carlton Ride, and until the presses and racks are put up, it would be impossible to take them in ; and, from the communications taking place between me and the Board of Works on this subject, I see no probability of their being complete for some months yet to come.

It is necessary, however, strongly to point out to their Lordships, that nothing can be more detrimental to the record service than the repeated transfers and removals of papers and records. Such removals always occasion loss and damage of the records, and keep them in a state of disorder and confusion, besides the waste and loss of money and labour. The great detriment resulting from this practice was pointed out forcibly by the Record Committee, and every exertion should be made to avoid it.

I beg to suggest that the real remedy for these evils, and which will put the space occupied by the records at the Tower of London at the disposal of the Government, is that the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury should at once determine to erect one of the wings of the New Repository for the reception of the records, according to the plan approved by Government ; and if properly arranged, would render the New Repository sufficient to hold all the records at present within my charge, or likely to come into it for some years to come, but at all events no documents can be transferred from the Tower to the New Repository until it is in a state to receive them, which is so far from being the case at present, that the contracts for the presses have not yet been settled.

I repeat that it is my earnest wish to facilitate all the Government proceedings ; but I cannot but feel that if the course proposed is adopted, it will prevent me for a series of years from accomplishing the most important work I have to perform ; viz, the proper classification and arrangement of the public records, and which is what alone renders them accessible to the public, and without which they are useless.

Sir,

Treasury Chambers, 19 March 1855.

HAVING laid before the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, your letter of the 13th instant, relative to the re-appropriation to Ordnance store purposes of the Record Rooms in the White Tower, Tower of London,—

I am commanded by their Lordships to acquaint you that my Lords regret the inconvenience that will be caused to the Public Record Department by the removal of the records at the Tower; but as the space occupied by them is urgently required for military purposes, my Lords request that you will consider whether some temporary arrangement might not be made whereby the records at the Tower, as well as those in the Carlton Ride, might be transferred at an early period to the Rolls Estate.

No. 5.

Master of the Rolls to the Treasury.

Sir,

Rolls House, 22 March 1855.

IN reply to yours of the 19th instant, whereby their Lordships request me to consider whether some temporary arrangement might not be made whereby the records in the Tower, as well as those in the Carlton Ride, might not be transferred at an early period to the Rolls Estate, I have to reply as follows:

So far as regards the new repository, the racks and shelves necessary for the reception of the records have not yet been put up. If the records were brought from the Tower or the Carlton Ride into the New Repository in its present condition, they would have to be placed upon the naked floors; they would have to be shifted from time to time to make room for the workmen to put up the racks and shelves; and the inevitable consequence would be, that the careful arrangement and classification of the documents, upon which the officers of the establishment have been employed for more than 12 years, would be wholly lost, and the expense of the Record Establishment during that time mainly thrown away. In order to explain this, I beg to state to their Lordships the preliminary measures which have been adopted with the view to the removal of the records. The rooms in the New Repository have been designated by letters and numbers, and appropriated under the direction of the assistant keepers and deputy keeper for the several classes of records according to courts and classes. The places for all the presses throughout the building have been marked upon the plans of the several floors of the building; all the records in my custody have been carefully measured by the assistant keepers in connexion with Mr. Pennethorne's managing clerk; lithographed elevations of the presses have been prepared distinguishing the shelves; and the placing of the several records in each press has been settled and determined by the several assistant keepers. The deputy keeper informs me that Mr. Roberts and Mr. Bond, upon whom the superintending of the removal will principally rest, assure him that as soon as the first room shall have been fitted up with racks and presses, the records to which it has been appropriated can be removed methodically, document by document, class by class, court by court, from day to day; each having its appropriate place provided for it.

If the records are removed in this manner, the preparation for which has been the work of great labour and time, it will be done so systematically that within 24 hours any record in the building might be produced and consulted. All these arrangements would be subverted and rendered useless if, before these racks and shelves are prepared, the records are brought into the Repository, pository, and the whole mass of records would be unavoidably involved in inextricable confusion, and the labours of the establishment for 12 years would be nearly wholly lost, and would have to be begun over again: I trust that their Lordships will not compel any steps to be taken which will involve such serious and injurious consequences to the public service. As soon as the New Repository is prepared for the reception of the records, I will undertake that the utmost diligence shall be employed in their removal. But the deputy keeper informs me that, with the utmost human exertions, the Record officers, who have all entered heartily into the spirit of the business and will exert themselves to the utmost, could not complete the removal, according to the course before suggested, under some months; probably not within six months.

So far as regards the placing in the New Repository the Admiralty documents, now preserved in the White Tower in the Tower of London, I am informed that the New Repository, by actual measurement, has not space sufficient to hold these records, together with those now in the Carlton Ride, together with the War Office papers, which have been lately sent thither, and which, as they are not classed or sorted, have been temporarily placed in positions which will be required for some of the other records which have been classed and sorted.

These War Office papers might be removed without detriment, and the space occupied by them might be appropriated to a portion of the Admiralty records and a space for the remaining Admiralty records at the Tower might be found if the following plan were adopted. There are several houses on the Rolls Estate in Chancery-lane, one or two of which are now appropriated to public purposes, connected with the courts of law and equity. If the remainder of them were given up to the Record Department, they might receive the War Office papers; and the Admiralty documents which now fill the White Tower, might be partly distributed in the New Repository and partly in these houses, which might be speedily fitted up for their reception. This is an arrangement also which would be highly conducive to the advantage of the Record Establishment. But whatever course is adopted, I beg to point out to their Lordships the impossibility of anything being done suddenly without causing a very great destruction of records, and such a confusion as, if ever, could not be got over without the lapse of a great many years, and the appointment of a large number of additional clerks and officers; and that in the meantime the documents would be inaccessible and useless for all public purposes.

I beg to assure their Lordships that I am most anxious to consult their wishes, and do what I can to carry their views into effect; but I think that their Lordships will feel that I should be guilty of neglect of duty, and of something approaching to a breach of the trust reposed in me, if I did not by all the means in my power oppose such a measure as the indiscriminate heaping of the records together in a building not fitted for their reception.

Sir,

Rolls House, 18 April 1855.

As bearing upon the request made by the Master of the Rolls by his of the 22d ult., for the appropriation of certain houses on the Rolls Estate for the temporary reception of records, I have the honour to transmit, for the information of their Lordships, copies of letters addressed to Mr. Hawes, to the Home Department and to the Admiralty, in reply to their applications that further Government documents should be received into his Honour's charge.

Enclosure 1, in No. 6.

Sir,

Rolls House, 13 April 1855.

IN answer to your letter of the 4th inst., relating to certain War Office papers which you wish to be received into the Record Office, I have the honour to inform you that I have laid the same before the Master of the Rolls, who directs me to reply to you as follows:—

The War Office pension papers already received have been deposited in portions of the building previously appropriated for other documents, and, in order to effect the primary steps for the consolidation of the public records, it will be needful that the said War Office papers should be removed to another locality, for, amongst other reasons, the iron presses cannot be put up so long as they stand in the way.

It is impossible to receive any more Government papers in the present building, without subverting all the plans which have been settled for the arrangement and deposit of the public records; his Honour has, therefore, recently applied to the Lords of Her Majesty's Treasury, requesting them to allow a certain number of houses on the Rolls Estate to be fitted up for the purpose of receiving Government papers, until a new block of the building can be erected; and if their Lordships shall be pleased to comply with this request, his Honour will, with great satisfaction, do his utmost to accommodate your department in the way you require.

Enclosure 2, in No. 6.

Sir,

Rolls House, 16 April 1855.

IN answer to yours of the 12th inst., addressed to the Right Honourable the Master of the Rolls, relating to the transcripts of the Rules of Friendly Societies, which Mr. Tidd Pratt requests may be deposited in the Record Office, as noticed in his of the 9th inst., I have the honour to inform you that I have laid the same before his Honour, who directs me to reply to you as follows:—

The recent transmissions of Government papers into the custody of the Master of the Rolls have been so extensive, that it is impracticable to receive any additional documents of that description into the New Repository. There is no space into which they could be stowed or deposited without subverting all the plans which have been settled for the re-arrangement and consolidation of the public records.

His Honour has, therefore, by his letter of the 22d March, applied to the Lords of Her Majesty's Treasury, requesting them to allow a certain number of houses on the Rolls Estate to be fitted up for the purpose of receiving Government papers, until an additional block of building can be erected of sufficient capacity; and should their Lordships be pleased to comply with this request, his Honour will, with great satisfaction, make every effort to comply with the request of Mr. Pratt.

Enclosure 3, in No. 6.

Sir,

Rolls House, 17 April 1855.

WITH reference to yours of the 9th March, requesting to be informed when it will be likely that certain records and papers now in the Department of the Accountant General of the Navy can be deposited in the New Repository, I have the honour to reply to you as follows:—

The matter is now entirely in the hands of the Treasury; there will be no space whatever in the New Repository, or in any of the repositories at present under the control of the Master of the Rolls, for any Government papers in addition to those which are already in his custody. But his Honour has, by his of the 22d March, applied to their Lordships to assign certain houses on the Rolls Estate to be fitted up for the temporary deposit of further Government documents; and if their Lordships shall be pleased to make the needful provision, we shall forthwith put ourselves in communication with your Honourable Board.

I AM commanded by the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury to transmit herewith, for your information, with reference to your letter of 22d March last, copy of a report from the First Commissioner of Works, dated 15th inst., in reference to the several houses on the Rolls Estate in Chancery-lane, which are required for the reception of records now in the Tower of London, until they can be finally placed in the new repository, together with copy of their Lordships' minute thereon, of the 19th inst.

The Master of the Rolls.

Enclosure in No. 7.

My Lords,

Office of Works, &c., 15 June 1855.

ON the 24th March last your Lordships were pleased to refer to me a letter from the Board of Ordnance, requesting your Lordships to order the removal from the White Tower, in the Tower of London, of the records deposited there, and the re-appropriation of that building to store purposes; and also two letters from the Master of the Rolls, to whom your Lordships had referred the Ordnance letter, stating that the portion of the New Record Depository already built is not yet in a fit state to receive the records in question; that, when completed, that portion of the building will not afford more than adequate room for the other records under his charge, and that it will, therefore, be totally impossible, without serious injury to the public service, to remove to the repository the records in the Tower.

His Honour, however, suggests that some houses on the Rolls Estate, in Chancery-lane, might be given up to him for the reception of those records, and of some War Office Papers which have been recently placed under his charge, and, as a temporary measure, deposited on the floors of the new repository, from whence they are required to be removed to make way for the presses intended for the records now in Carlton Ride.

On the 26th of April last a further reference was made to me by your Lordships of a letter from Sir F. Palgrave, the Deputy Keeper of Records, transmitting, as bearing upon this suggestion of the Master of the Rolls, copies of letters addressed by him to the War Office, the Home Department, and the Admiralty, in reply to their applications that further Government documents should be received into the charge of his Honour.

Upon these references I beg leave to report to your Lordships that the houses in Chancery-lane, in which the Master of the Rolls suggests that the records now in the White Tower should be deposited, are Nos. 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 15, 16, 17 and 20, the intermediate houses, Nos. 13, 14, 18 and 19, being already in the occupation of his Honour's clerks, and of the associates to the judges under the authority of your Lordships, by whose direction only the 4th sect. of the Act 1 Vict. c. 6, for the Regulation of the Rolls Estate, provides that any portion of the estate can be appropriated for the purposes of any court of law, &c.

The tenants of the nine houses hold under the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Woods, &c., in whom the management of the estate is, by that Act, vested by agreements, subject to quit at three or six months' notice.

I have caused a survey by the proper officers of this department to be made of the houses in question, as well as of the records in the Tower, and I find from the report which I have received from them, that the whole of those houses will not afford more than sufficient room for the records to be removed from the Tower, the weight of which, including the racks, &c., on which they are placed, is nearly 1,000 tons.

The cost of removing the records, and of preparing the houses in Chancery-lane for their reception, is estimated at 2,950*l*.

If, therefore, it is your Lordships' pleasure that the suggestion of the Master of the Rolls should be adopted, I would recommend that Mr. Gore, the Commissioner of Woods, in charge of the houses in question, should be authorised by your Lordships to give notice, on or before the 24th instant, to the several tenants to quit the same at the earliest periods at which they are liable to do so under the terms of their tenancy, and to hand over those houses to this Board immediately on receiving possession thereof.

As, however, it is possible that some, if not all, of the tenants will give immediate possession on receiving a small compensation, I would suggest that Mr. Gore should at the same time be requested to endeavour to make some arrangement with them to that effect, and that this Board may be authorised to pay the amount of such compensation, and also to take the necessary steps for preparing the houses for the records, and removing the same thereto, under the superintendence of the officers of the Master of the Rolls.

As there are no funds at the disposal of this Board available for these expenses, the amount can, if your Lordships think it proper, be advanced out of the general grant of Parliament for this department, and provision be made for the reimbursement thereof in the estimates for next year.

With regard to the partial removal of the War Office Papers now in the record repository, so as to enable the iron presses to be fixed in that building, I beg leave to suggest that the rooms in the Rolls-yard, lately occupied by the Registrar General, should be assigned to the Master of the Rolls, for that or any other temporary purpose for which he may require them.

With respect, however, to the application, referred to by Sir F. Palgrave, for the Master of the Rolls to take charge of the records, &c., belonging to the War Office Pension Department, and the Department of the Accountant General of the Navy, and those relating to Friendly Societies, I have only to observe that no further accommodation than that which is now offered can at present be provided on the Rolls Estate.

The several papers above mentioned, as having been referred to me by your Lordships, are returned herewith.

The Right Hon. the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury.

I am, &c.

I AM commanded by the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury to transmit to you copy of a letter from the Admiralty, dated 16th instant, requesting that my Lords will cause permanent fire-proof repositories to be erected for the preservation of Admiralty records in your custody; and I am to request that you will favour this Board with any observations you may have to make upon it.

I am further directed to state that, except in case of some very emergent service involving the safety of the records, any expense which it may be necessary to incur must be provided for in the proper estimate in the usual manner.

Enclosure in No. 8.

Sir,

Admiralty, 16 December 1857.

THE Accountant General of the Navy having represented to my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty that the Admiralty records in the custody of the Master of the Rolls, which were lodged in the White Tower in 1846, were removed on the 5th of December 1855, have been deposited in the private houses numbered 8, 9 and 10, in Chancery-lane, on the understanding that they would be removed into the New Record Office in Fetter-lane when that building was completed; and as it appears that there is no likelihood of these records being removed, and they are found to be in a very unsatisfactory state, owing to the want of provision for warming or ventilating the premises, I am commanded by their Lordships to request that you will move the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury to cause permanent fire-proof repositories to be erected for the preservation of these valuable records with the least possible delay.

The Secretary of the Treasury.

I am, &c.
(signed) B. Osborne.

No. 9.

Master of the Rolls to the Treasury.

Sir,

Rolls House, 23 December 1857.

I HAVE to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of 21st instant, enclosing copy of a letter from the Admiralty of 16th instant, requesting their Lordships to cause permanent fire-proof repositories to be erected for the preservation of the Admiralty records in my custody, and in which letter you request me to state any observations I may have to make on the subject of it.

In compliance with your desire, I beg, in the first place, to refer their Lordships to the correspondence which took place between their Lordships and myself in March and April 1855, respecting the clearing of the White Tower of the records therein contained, which were principally the Admiralty records, and I beg particularly to refer to my letter of the 13th March 1855, in which I pointed out that no room could be found for those records in the new repository, and consequently that no perfectly safe or secure place could be provided for those records in the then, which is also the present, state of the new building of the Record Office.

It is proper that I should state my full concurrence in the statements contained in the Admiralty letter respecting the unsatisfactory condition of the houses, Nos. 8, 9 and 10, Chancery-lane, both with respect to fire and with respect to damp and ventilation; but until further accommodation is provided for the reception of the records, it is quite impossible to provide fire-proof repositories for them; and until Parliament shall sanction the erection of one of the intended wings of the new repository between Chancery and Fetter lanes, I see no prospect, nor indeed possibility, of their being so protected unless they were taken back again to the White Tower. Mr. Pennethorne prepared plans and elevations in October 1856 for the east wing, and which were signed by me in token of my approval of the internal accommodation thereby to be afforded, and were laid before the Chief Commissioner of Her Majesty's Board of Works.

The want of this is very great, not merely because the present building is wholly insufficient to receive the records at present in my custody, but also because I receive many applications yearly from the various departments of the Government to receive records of large bulk, and occupying considerable space, for which it is impossible to provide such safe and suitable accommodation as would be proper.

I have, &c.

No. 10.

Master of the Rolls to the Treasury.

Sir,

Public Record Office, 11 December 1858.

I HAVE the honour to transmit to you, for the information of the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, the following statement, showing the great necessity for the immediate erection of another block of the repository for the Public Records, and hope that the urgency of the occasion will excuse its length.

By the Public Records Act, 1 & 2 Vict. c. 94, s. 7, it is enacted, that the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury shall provide such suitable and proper or additional building or buildings as may be required for the reception and safe custody of the Public Records. And the Lords of the Treasury, 18th January 1850, in referring to the Department of Woods, Works, &c., a letter from Lord Langdale, the then Master of the Rolls, respecting the erection of a Record Repository upon the Rolls Estate belonging to the Crown, requested the Board of Works would give particular attention to the question, "Whether the Rolls Estate furnished sufficient room for the erection of a building adequate for the present and future records of this kingdom?"

Mr. Pennethorne was thereupon directed by the Office of Works to prepare plans for the erection of a repository, and especially to report his opinion upon the point to which the Treasury had called the special attention of the Board of Works. Mr. Pennethorne drew plans accordingly, which, with the correspondence connected therewith, are printed in the Estimates for the Civil Service for the year 1850-1 (Sessional Paper, H. C. 1850, 571, VIII.).

The building designed for the Record Repository was intended to occupy the available part of the Rolls Estate, to be built in sections at several and distant periods, as additional space for the records might be required, and to be susceptible of still greater extension at a very remote period.

The Rolls Estate was divided for this purpose into five portions, and the necessary estimates having been submitted to Parliament, the erection of the first portion marked red on the plan was commenced at the beginning of the year 1851, and is completed, except the clock turret. This portion contains 80 cubes, of which 52 were intended for the reception of records.

20 " for workshops, or for documents scarcely classed as records.

8 " for the searching room, and rooms of officers.

The Office of Works believed that the construction of the portion coloured red would afford "adequate provision for all the purposes and requirements of a Record Repository for the next 50 years" (i. e. from June 1850). That is, that the 52 rooms intended as depositories would prove "amply sufficient;" but that supposing a deficiency of accommodation should arise, it could be more than met by the temporary appropriation for records of the rooms in the basement of the building.

This block of building having been erected, the records were gradually removed thereto from the following Record Repositories: the White Tower, the Wakefield Tower, and Record Office in the Tower of London; and from the Carlton Ride, the Rolls House and Chapel, &c.; and the premises at the Tower and Carlton Ride have been given up to the constable of the Tower and the Office of Works. The Welsh records, or the records of the abolished courts of the Principality of Wales and the Palatinate of Chester, dispersed in the various counties of North and South Wales and at Chester; and the records of the Palace and Marshalsea Courts, and the records of the Peveril Court, directed to be taken by the Act 12 & 13 Vict. c. 101, have also been received therein; and transfers of documents from various Government Departments, viz., Treasury (including the Treasury Registered Papers to 1829), Treasury Solicitor, Commissariat, National Debt Office, Custom House, Privy Signet Office, War Office, Admiralty, Office of late Registrar of Metropolitan Buildings, Papers of many expired Commissions, &c. &c., have taken place, portions of which have been placed in the repository.

But in the estimated space that would be required, it was suggested by Mr. Pennethorne that the 20 rooms in the basement would accommodate an immense mass of books or papers of "secondary importance," such as the duplicate Log Books of the Admiralty, &c., then in the chapel of the Tower; the Public Accounts, now in the damp vaults of "Somerset House," &c. &c.

These 20 rooms in the basement have all been filled with documents, or otherwise appropriated, but the Public Accounts still remain in the damp vaults of Somerset House, because there is not space to receive them.

As to the Log Books, &c., and other Admiralty records, it was originally intended that they should remain in the White Tower provisionally until the second block of the building could be erected. But this plan was frustrated, through the repeated and urgent request of the Board of Ordnance for the removal of the records from the White Tower, and for that tower being given up to the Office of Ordnance, on account of their want of store room, owing to the great pressure of business, which had increased in 1855 to four times that of any former year. On their Lordships referring this application to me, I declined at first to comply with the request of the Board of Ordnance, and pointed out, in my letter to you of 13 March 1855, the inconveniences that would be occasioned by giving up the White Tower, stating also that, in February 1855, I had, at the urgent desire of the Treasury, taken possession of War Office documents from No. 6, Whitehall-yard (112 cart-loads, weighing about 160 tons), without any place being ready to receive them, and was constantly called upon to take possession of Government documents of a bulky nature, and that the portion of the repository then completed was wholly inadequate to contain the records then in my charge, without taking into account constant regular annual additions of accruing records, adding that the real remedy for these evils, and which would put the space occupied by the records in the Tower of London at the disposal of the Government, was that the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury should at once determine to erect one of the wings of the new repository for reception of the records, according to the plan approved by Government, and which, if properly arranged, would render the new repository sufficient to hold all the records within the charge of the Master of the Rolls, or likely to come into it for some years to come, but that, at all events, no documents could be transferred from the Tower to the new repository until it was in a state to receive them, which was so far from being the case then, that the contracts for the presses had not at that time been settled. And again, on the 22d March 1855, in answer to their Lordships' request to me to consider whether some temporary arrangement might not be made for transferring the records in the Tower and Carlton Ride at an early period to the Rolls Estate, I again pointed out the inconveniences that would arise from such removal, but I also observed that there were several houses on the Rolls Estate in Chancery-lane which, if given up to the Record Department, might receive the War Office Papers, and the Admiralty documents which filled the White Tower, as a temporary arrangement, so that the White Tower might be given up to the Board of Ordnance.

The Board of Works subsequently gave up to the Record Department the nine houses above referred to in Chancery-lane, and fitted them up for the reception of documents from Government departments. Besides this, and in order to make room for the constant transfers of documents, iron presses have been fitted up in the corridors of the repository, which was not originally intended for the reception of War Office Papers, &c.

The records were removed from the Tower, and, for want of space, some of them, although of great value, were obliged to be placed in the rooms in the basement of the repository intended for documents of "secondary importance;" but, in consequence of the dampness of the rooms, it has been since found necessary to remove some; and others must, for the same reason, be removed when space can be found for them.

In the houses in Chancery-lane the principal portions of the Government documents are placed, as will be seen by the annexed report of Mr. Lascelles. But the houses are old, rickety, and unprotected from fire. The Lords of the Admiralty, therefore, 16 December 1857, complained of their documents being placed in these houses, and of their very unsatisfactory state, owing to the want of provision for warming or ventilating the premises, and requested the Treasury to cause permanent fire-proof repositories to be erected for the preservation of the valuable Admiralty records with the least possible delay. The Treasury, 21 December 1857, transmitted this letter to me, and, in reply, after referring to previous correspondence, I stated my full concurrence in the statements of the Admiralty respecting the unsatisfactory condition of the houses in question with respect to fire, damp, and ventilation, but that I saw no possibility of affording sufficient protection to these records until Parliament should sanction the erection of another of the intended wings of the Record Repository. I stated also that Mr. Pennethorne had prepared plans and elevations in October 1856 for the east wing, which had been approved of and signed by me, and laid before the First Commissioner of Her Majesty's Office of Works, &c.; and I concluded by stating that the want of this wing was very great, not merely because the present building was wholly insufficient to receive the records at present in my custody, but also because I was receiving many applications yearly from the various departments of the Government to take possession of records of large bulk, and occupying considerable space, for which it was impossible to provide safe and suitable accommodation.

I therefore beg to press upon their Lordships the very urgent necessity for their giving immediate directions for the erection of another block of the Record Repository, for the following reasons:—

1. That the block which has been constructed is wholly inadequate in size to hold the records in my custody, from which has resulted the following consequences.

2. That a portion of that block has been obliged to be had recourse to, which is damp, dark, and unsuitable for the purpose of preserving records; and that, in consequence thereof, some of the documents deposited therein have been obliged to be removed, and others must be.

3. The necessity of taking charge of and providing for the safe custody of Government documents which have been sent from the Treasury, War Office, Admiralty, and other offices, which was not contemplated when the present block was built, and which has rendered it necessary to occupy the houses in Chancery-lane as a temporary expedient.

4. The state of the houses so occupied, which are old, rickety, filled as far as safe, dangerous from fire and damp, strongly objected to by the Lords of the Admiralty, and their inadequate size and accommodation.

5. Besides this, the constant transmission to the State Paper Branch Record Office of documents of the Secretary of State's Departments, &c., will soon render that establishment inadequate to receive them, unless that building be enlarged, or certain series of the older records there preserved are removed from thence.

6. That, for want of space, it has been impossible to take charge of documents which various Government Departments have proposed to transfer, viz., the Home Office, Admiralty, Registrar General, &c.

7. And also the necessity of providing accommodation in future for the documents which will be transmitted to this department, of which some estimation may be formed from the fact, that for the departments of the Admiralty at Somerset House alone, space is required equal to about 30,000 cubic feet, now wished to be transferred, and also for about 1,000 volumes and 20 boxes annually.

I think it proper to add, that every pains is taken to reduce the bulk of the papers sent and preserved. They are, whenever any doubt of their value exists, examined by an officer of the Record Department, to ascertain their historical value, and by an officer of the department from whence they came, to ascertain their official value; and whenever they have been considered to be valueless, they have been transmitted to the Stationery Office for destruction, to be converted into paper.

Enclosure in No. 10.

REPORT of Mr. Lascelles.

Public Record Office, 13 October 1858.

THESE houses lie on the south and west sides of the Rolls Yard; they are very old and dilapidated, and, when first appropriated for the reception of records, a large sum was expended in shoring them up from the basement, to render them sufficiently strong for their present purposes.

Notwithstanding all the precautions then used, the four houses (now called No. 6, Rolls Yard) yielded so much to the immense pressure and weight that the walls bulged at the top, and it became necessary to take down and rebuild a portion, and to introduce pins into various parts to bind the fabric together; even then it was not deemed prudent to reconstruct the stacks of chimneys, also taken down on that occasion.

In this respect there can be little doubt that they will be continually an unfailing source of expense to the Government, and they can never be made receptacles proper for records by any process short of rebuilding, because they are not wind and dust tight. When I estimate that these houses must contain six hundred tons of documents, I apprehend I must be below the mark, because the Admiralty books, &c., alone, when brought from Deptford Dockyard, were calculated at four hundred tons.

I will now proceed to show the various ways in which the records are disposed of in the above houses:—

In No. 4, Rolls Yard, are various chests, removed hither from the Treasury at Whitehall. They contain papers and books, some belonging to the Commissariat, and others to the Auditors of the Civil List; the largest portion of these premises, however, is assigned for documents from the Audit Office.

In No. 5, Rolls Yard, above stairs, are deposited various valuable documents belonging to the the War Office, viz., Militia Pay Lists, Accounts and Vouchers for England, Wales, Scotland, and Ireland; Lieutenantcy Accounts; Foreign Corps Pay Lists, Accounts, and Vouchers; Foreign Miscellaneous Papers; Foreign Unnumbered Papers; Soldiers' Effects Papers; Chaplains' Papers; and Soldiers' Discharges, &c. &c.

In the same premises, below stairs, are placed various other War Office Papers, viz., District Accounts and Vouchers; Old Regimental Accounts and Vouchers; Monthly Embarkation and Disembarkation Returns; Soldiers' Pocket Ledgers; Hospital Accounts; and several classes of Miscellaneous Records; also, Irish Reproductive Loan Fund Papers (the latter are not War Office documents, but came from the Treasury).

In the loft over the stable are various Treasury Papers of a miscellaneous character, such as Polish Refugee Pay Lists, Metropolitan Police Accounts, Commissariat Papers, Treasury Registered Papers, and Papers of Defunct Commissions.

In the four houses called or numbered 6, Rolls Yard, are deposited the Admiralty Books and Papers.

In the basement are the Transport, Victualling, Marine, and Navy (late Treasurer's Papers).

In the ground-floor are Comptrollers' Pay Books, Letter Books, Admiralty Orders, and Letters relating to Prisoners of War, Admirals' and Captains' Letters, Medical Papers, and Bill Office Accounts.

In the first floor are an invaluable series of Muster Books, Treasurers' Pay Books, Bill Office Books and Accounts, Treasurers' Books, Yard Wages Books, Victualling Books, and Office Ledgers.

On the second floor are continuations of the Muster Books, Bill Office Books, the Log Books, Imprest Accounts (late Foreign Office), Yard Books, and various Miscellaneous Classes.

On the third floor are continuations of the Log Books, and of the Muster Books; also the Ticket Office Pay Books.

In the hall of the last-mentioned premises are the Papers of various expired Commissions; such as the Revenue Inquiry, the Inquiry into Fees of Offices, Deccan Booty Papers, Highland Roads and Bridges Papers, Military Canal Accounts, and various Commissariat Papers. The whole of these are records belonging to the Treasury.

In the house now numbered 7, Rolls Yard, are deposited various documents belonging to the High Court of Admiralty and Registrar General, viz., 66 sacks of Letters and Books taken in Prizes, Original Letters and Warrants of the Admiralty, Parish Registers, Population Enumeration Papers, &c.

In the two houses numbered 8, Rolls Yard, on the ground floor, are the valuable series of Registered Papers of Her Majesty's Treasury, to the year 1830.

On the landings of the staircase are the Irish Reproductive Loan Fund Books, Accounts, and Security Notes. The rest of these houses is occupied by War Office Books and Papers. On the ground floor are the Regimental Accounts and Vouchers. On the first floor are the same continued; the District Pay Lists, Old Muster Rolls, and the very important series of Regimental Pay Lists, the Scutari Muster Rolls, and various Miscellaneous Papers. On the second floor are the continuation of the Regimental Pay Lists, War Office Indexes, Muster-master-general's Indexes, Casualty Returns, Service Returns, Unnumbered Papers, and A, and Commissariat Papers.

In the attics are the very extensive class of "Old Series Correspondence;" the Deserter Papers, the Foreign Numbered Papers, Defaulter Papers, the A r., the A r r., and the M. Papers.

In the house numbered 9, Rolls Yard, are the Books and Papers of the High Court of Admiralty, viz., Minutes, Rough Drafts, and Entry Books of Acts, with Calendars of the latter; Assignment Books, Warrant Books, Prize Acts, Sentences in Prize and Condemnation; Sentences and Interlocutories; Letters of Marque and Reprisal; Assignment Books (Spanish and French Wars); American, Spanish, Dutch, and French Assignment Books, and Appeal Assignment Books, and various Commissions and Prize Papers, &c.

The whole of the above masses are closely packed upon racks, reaching from the ground to the ceiling, and ranging from one end of each room to the other, with narrow passages or alleys between. They have been fresh accessions to the Public Record Office since the commencement of the new repository, and have been removed hither to ease the overcrowded state of various Public Departments, in parts of the town where further accommodation was difficult to be found, and where house-rent was very high. The War Office documents, for example, formerly filled, and their removal placed at the disposal of the Board of Works, premises No. 6, Whitehall Yard, which, I have no doubt, are worth 400 l. per annum; and the clearance of the buildings at the Carlton Ride will leave vacant an extensive site of ground, so very valuable, and in a part of the town so central and so highly esteemed, that its price would be sufficient to cover the costs of a very large addition or wing to the New Record Office.

Treasury to the Master of the Rolls.

Sir,

Treasury Chambers, 10 January 1859.

WITH reference to your letter of the 11th ultimo, recommending the immediate erection of another block of the repository for the Public Records, I am commanded by the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury to acquaint you, that other even more pressing demands of the public service would at any rate have prevented their Lordships from submitting an estimate to Parliament this year for the commencement of another block of building in extension of the Public Record Repository.

But even if there were available funds, my Lords would not feel justified in proposing further expenditure for this object until it had been satisfactorily ascertained that the whole of the large accumulations which have of late years been transferred from the Administrative Departments are worth preserving. Judging from the list contained in Mr. Lascelles' report, my Lords see reason to believe that a vast mass of detailed accounts and papers of form and routine has in this manner come into the possession of the Record Department, which are of no value either in an official or in a statistical or historical point of view, and that every useful object would be answered by preserving the Ledgers, Letter Books, &c., together with selected specimens of each description of detailed document applicable to each year. By adopting this course, a large extent of accommodation would be rendered available, and the really valuable records would be more accessible.

My Lords are aware that there are some classes of papers to which the above remarks do not apply, but the classes to which they do apply are in general those of greatest bulk.

Under these circumstances, my Lords suggest for your consideration the expediency of appointing a committee, which might consist of one officer on behalf of the Treasury, another on behalf of the Record Department, and a third appointed by the department the papers of which happened for the time to be under investigation, for the purpose of examining the several classes of papers, and of reporting to you and to this Board what classes of papers ought to be destroyed and what preserved, and what arrangements it would be expedient to make to retain abstracts or specimens of those which it may be determined to destroy.

In many cases it would probably be practicable to indicate as proper to be destroyed, after a definite lapse of time, documents which ought for the present to be preserved. By this means a second detailed revision of the same papers at a future period might be avoided, and the advantage of clearing the repository of such records would be secured, even if such further revision were not made.

The papers which it may be determined to destroy will, as usual, be delivered to the Comptroller of the Stationery Office, to be sold to paper-makers to be reconverted into pulp.

My Lords request to be favoured with your opinion on this important subject; and they feel persuaded that your Honour will agree with them that, considering the present state of public establishments, and the rate at which papers, in consequence, accumulate, it would be impossible, without adopting some plan of selection of this kind, to propose to Parliament to appropriate the money and space which would be required for the deposit of the national records.

Sir,

Rolls House, 14 January 1859.

IN reply to your letter of the 10th instant. in which the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury suggest the appointment of a committee, to consist of a Treasury officer, an officer of this department, and an officer of the Government department whose papers are under investigation, to examine the several classes of Government documents in the Public Record Office, and to report to the Treasury, and to myself, what classes ought to be destroyed, what preserved, and what arrangements it will be expedient to make to retain abstracts or specimens of those which it may be determined to destroy :

I have the honour to inform you that I fully concur in their Lordships' suggestions, and am prepared to carry them into effect. I am, therefore, ready to appoint an officer of this department to co-operate with the other gentlemen on the committee for this purpose.

Sir,

Rolls House, 14 November 1860.

IN reply to your letter of the 2d November, respecting the proposed transfer of some of the older records of the registrar of the High Court of Admiralty into my custody, I have the honour to inform you that I shall be willing and able to receive from time to time such records for the accommodation of the registrar, and that they will be deposited in the house No. 9, Rolls-yard, with the Admiralty Court records already there, provided the bulk is not very large, and provided, also, I can obtain the further accommodation I have applied for, to which I refer below. The proposed transfer will necessitate a closer packing of the Admiralty Court records, and a displacement of certain Treasury records, in the said house. For the latter I hope to find room in the house No. 7, Chancery-lane, for which I have applied to the Commissioners of Woods, who have informed me that they have transmitted my application to the Treasury.

The officers of the High Court of Admiralty will have access to the records, if transferred, to consult them whenever they may require, in the same manner as they have to their records already in my custody.

My Lord,

Treasury Chambers, 22 November 1860.

I AM directed by the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury to acquaint you that my Lords have forwarded a copy of your letter of the 14th instant, on the subject of the transfer to your custody of the older records of the High Court of Admiralty to the registrar of that Court.

I am also to acquaint your Lordship that my Lords have directed the Commissioners of Woods to take the necessary steps for giving you possession as soon as circumstances will permit, of the house No. 7, Chancery-lane.

Master of the Rolls.

No. 15.

Master of the Rolls to the Treasury.

Sir,

Rolls House, 6 December 1861.

ON the 11th December 1858 I had the honour to write to you, for the information of the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, with reference to the necessity of immediately commencing another block of the Record Repository.

Since that period, so many pressing circumstances have occurred as to render it absolutely necessary to bring the subject again before their Lordships, and urge it upon their serious consideration.

I would, therefore, beg leave to call their Lordships' attention to my letter above referred to, as the facts there stated remain the same, while others of a more urgent character have since arisen, which create a greater necessity for a more capacious building, the present edifice being totally inadequate to afford proper accommodation for the muniments and papers now under my charge, as well as for the readers and searchers consulting them; and unless a large addition be made to the present building, I shall not be able to receive any further accession of public documents which the Act of Parliament compels me to receive periodically, still less to preserve them in such a state of arrangement as is required and necessary for the public service.

When the present block of the Record Repository was built, it was calculated to be sufficient for the records then in the custody of the Master of the Rolls, and for the accumulation of about 50 years of periodical increase; but the pressing demands of other branches of the public service have obliged me to allow the vacant space allotted for the accruing records to be nearly filled, and consequently, and by reason of the inadequacy of the present block, I have been obliged to deposit a vast collection of important documents in certain houses in Chancery-lane, which are both unsafe and exposed to accidents from fire.

In my letter of the 11th December 1858, I pointed out to their Lordships some of the inconveniences of these houses, and called their attention to a letter which they had forwarded to me on the subject, addressed to them by the Lords of the Admiralty. I shall not, therefore, on the present occasion, repeat the contents of those letters; but I would observe that by placing the public muniments in such houses, the original purpose of the Record Repository as a place of security and efficient arrangement, is in a great measure frustrated, and that they ought not to be allowed to remain there one minute longer than is absolutely necessary.

In reply to my letter of 11th December 1858, to which I have had occasion to refer, their Lordships' informed me (10th January 1859) that more pressing demands of the public service would, at any rate, have prevented them from submitting an estimate then to Parliament for the commencement of another block of buildings in extension of the Public Record Repository; but, even if there were available funds, they would not feel justified in proposing further expenditure until it had been satisfactorily ascertained that the whole of the large accumulations which have of late years been transferred from the administrative departments were worth preserving, their Lordships being of opinion that a vast mass so transferred to the Record Department were of no value, either in an official, statistical, or historical point of view, and that many might be destroyed.

Their Lordships thereupon suggested the appointment of a committee, to consist of one officer on behalf of the Treasury, another on behalf of the Record Department, and a third appointed by the Department whose papers happened, for the time, to be under investigation, for the purpose of examining the several classes of papers, and of reporting to them and to myself what classes of papers ought to be destroyed, and what preserved; the papers so determined to be destroyed to be delivered to the Stationery Office, for the purpose of being sold and reconverted into pulp.

The committee was at once appointed, and has continued its operations until the present time. The inquiry into the papers of the War Office was first commenced, and has been completed. The Admiralty documents were the next taken in hand, and the inquiry into them is all but concluded.

The

The results, as regards these two offices, are as follow :

Of the War Office papers, amounting to about 160 tons, 55 tons have been destroyed as useless, and 60 tons are to be permanently preserved as valuable records ; room must also be provided for the remaining 45 tons, as a floating reserve of documents, which, though they need not be permanently preserved, yet must be kept until they fall into desuetude, and their place, when destroyed, will always be supplied by freshly-accruing documents.

Of the Admiralty papers, amounting to about 400 tons, about 165 tons are intended to be destroyed, and about 235 tons to be preserved ; further accommodation is also required for about 20 tons waiting for transmission from the Admiralty, which must be permanently preserved.

In the papers of these two offices, therefore, about 560 tons of records have been examined, whereof 340 tons are to be preserved, and 220 tons destroyed.

With respect to the remaining Government documents, they amount to nearly 200 tons, of which, probably, not more than one-third will be selected for destruction.

Thus it will be seen by the result of the labours of the Committee, that their Lordships' expectations that any such mass of the papers as would dispense with the necessity of obtaining additional space would, on examination, be found to be of no value in an official, statistical, or historical point of view, have not been realised ; on the contrary, the inquiry that has taken place shows the absolute necessity of preserving the greatest portion of the documents already in my charge, while the space gained by those directed to be destroyed as useless and sent to the Stationery Office, has been occupied by further transmissions from the War Office and Admiralty.

I would further remark, that subsequent to my letter of the 11th December 1858, that is, in the course of the year 1859, in addition to the before-mentioned transmissions from the War Office and Admiralty, and the usual transfers of Chancery, Common Law, and Exchequer Records, which, pursuant to the Record Act, the Master of the Rolls is compelled periodically to receive, I also received large quantities of ancient Chancery Records from the Office of the Clerks of Records and Writs, the Petty Bag Office, and the late Cursitor's Office ; also the old accounts and papers of the Audit Office, which were removed from the damp vaults of Somerset House.

The Secretary of State for the Colonies, likewise, sent about 1,500 volumes of colonial papers into the Record Repository, on account of the State Paper Branch Office not being able to receive them.

In consequence of these unexpected additions to the documents under my charge, I was obliged, in December 1859, to apply to the Commissioners of Woods for the house, No. 6, Chancery-lane, which was empty and at their disposal, in addition to the nine houses already occupied ; and the Commissioners, with the sanction of their Lordships, placed the house at my disposal accordingly.

In November 1860, the pressure from Government departments still continuing, their Lordships having applied to me to receive additional records from the office of the Registrar of the Admiralty, and the Accountant General of the Navy, having also applied to me to receive 12,000 Log, Pay, and Muster Books, for which I had no room, I was again obliged to apply to the Commissioners of Woods for another house, No. 7, Chancery-lane, also empty, belonging to the Rolls estate.

This house, also, was placed, with their Lordships' sanction, at my disposal.

During the present year, additional transfers, not previously contemplated, have taken place from the War Office, Foreign Office, Home Office, and Audit Office, as well as the annual accruing Chancery Records, and a further transfer of 693 large volumes of Chancery Registrar's Minute Books, from 1639 to 1,700, until every available space at my disposal is engaged.

All these temporary expedients and makeshifts have, however, been overthrown by the intended demolition of the State Paper Branch Record Office, and the consequent removal to the Repository of all the documents belonging to the Home and Colonial Offices, as well as those of the Foreign Office to the year 1760.

The transfer of so many Records, and the officers in charge, to the Repository, has necessitated many alterations and contrivances which may be put up with for a short time, but which would, for a continuance, be very detrimental to the documents themselves, inconvenient to the public, and burthensome to the officers. Their Lordships will, I am sure, understand this, when I inform them that the Literary Search Room is only 25 feet by 16 feet, and that about 150 persons have cards of admission, who, in the year 1860, attended about 2,200 times, and consulted upwards of 13,100 documents.

I regret also to inform their Lordships that the state of the houses in Chancery-lane, filled with Records, is not such as is fit for the reception of Records. They are old, dark, ill ventilated, rickety, and unprotected from fire from intervening dwelling-houses; and as they are never warmed, they are damp and prejudicial both to the Records themselves, and to the health of the officers who have occasion to search therein. They were built as private dwelling-houses about the beginning of the last century, and have had to be strengthened for their present uses by shorings, at great expense, by the Office of Works. The roofs continually let in wet, and are perpetually under repair. The wall of one of the largest houses having bulged, it became necessary to take it down as far as the second floor, and rebuild it, and to lighten the structure altogether by removing the stacks of chimneys and an iron crane erected in 1854, and to pin up the walls. Afterwards another wall bulged, and the arches which supported it gave way, requiring immediate steps to be taken to lighten it and pin it up; and a staircase sunk half a foot. And last year the parapets towards Chancery-lane, being dangerous to passers by, had to be renewed. The documents in these houses are closely packed upon racks reaching from the ground to the ceiling, and ranging from one end of the rooms to the other, with narrow passages between.

In addition to this, the rental of these houses, which might be let as dwelling-houses for a considerable amount, in so important a neighbourhood as Chancery-lane, is wholly lost to the Government.

In addition to this, the time of the officers is frittered away in devising expedients for accommodating the papers in the most efficient way in the numerous places in which they are dispersed. At present they are scattered in the following repositories, none of which can be considered as proper and safe, except the first block of the new repository :—

The Rolls House.
The Public Record Repository (first block).
The Roof of the Rolls Chapel.
The Rolls Chapel Office.
Offices, No. 2, Rolls Yard.
The late Cursitor's Office, No. 3, Rolls Yard. (This room cannot bear heavy weight without being shored up.)
The First Floor of the house No. 4, Rolls Yard.
The premises No. 5, Rolls Yard.
The loft over the engine-house, Rolls Yard.
No. 6, Chancery-lane.
No. 7, Chancery-lane.
No. 8, Chancery-lane.
No. 9, Chancery-lane.

No. 10, Chancery-lane.
No. 11, Chancery-lane.
No. 15, Chancery-lane (in part), the other portion being offices belonging to the Master of the Rolls.
No. 16, Chancery-lane.
No. 17, Chancery-lane.
No. 20, Chancery-lane.
The Stone Tower, north-west angle of Westminster Hall.
The State Paper Branch Record Office, about to be pulled down.
The houses Nos. 1 and 2, Whitehall-yard (appropriated, but not ready for occupation).

I have now pointed out to their Lordships the principal dangers to which the documents in the custody of the Master of the Rolls are subjected, and the principal inconveniences produced by the general want of space. It will, I trust, be evident to their Lordships that such a state of things ought not to be allowed to continue.

I believe that even in a mere economical point of view it will be found less expensive to Her Majesty's Government to complete the eastern wing of the Record Office, on the ground now lying vacant and producing no rent, rather than to continue to pay or lose the rent of the present houses, and of the fresh houses which will be required to hold the annually accruing records.

I, therefore, earnestly press upon their Lordships the importance of their giving immediate directions for the erection of the new block of the repository, for which plans and elevations were prepared and approved in 1856.

Sir,

Rolls House, 20 March 1862.

IN my letter to you of the 6th December 1861, I earnestly pressed upon the attention of the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, the necessity of giving immediate directions for the erection of another block of the Record Repository on the Rolls Estate, for which plans and elevations were prepared and approved in 1856. In the letter also, I pointed out the dangers and inconveniences arising from the want of further space.

Not having received an answer from their Lordships, I entertained a confident expectation that my appeal would be successful. I find, however, by the Civil Service Estimates for the year ending 31st March 1863, just printed by the House of Commons, that no provision appears to be made for the additional accommodation so urgently required for the records under my charge, although 40,000 l. is to be incurred for the construction of new record buildings at the Four Courts, Dublin.

I should wish, therefore, to be favoured with an answer to my former letter, that I may consider what course it will be necessary to adopt (should their Lordships unfortunately decline to erect another block of buildings on the Rolls Estate at once) for the protection of the records and documents intrusted to me.

Treasury to the Master of the Rolls.

Sir,

Treasury Chambers, 21 April 1862.

WITH reference to your honour's letters of 6th December last, and 20th ultimo, I am directed by the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, to acquaint you, that my Lords are aware of the importance of having proper provision made for the reception and safe custody of the public records, placed by law in your charge; and they are ready in concurrence with you, to consider the best means by which that object can be attained.

Having reference to the fact, that the block of buildings proposed to be erected in 1849, and sanctioned by this Board, in their Minute of 28th June 1850, at an estimated cost of 45,320 l., and which it was stated by the First Commissioner of Works would make adequate provision for all purposes and requirements of a record repository for the next 50 years, has actually cost no less than 88,490 l. My Lords have no doubt that you will feel with them that there are grounds for hesitation and further inquiry, before engaging in the erection of another block.

They have to observe, that although the inquiry by the Committee referred to in your letter of 6th December, may not lead to the destruction of perhaps more than 300 tons of useless documents, yet that it appears that there is a larger quantity; which, although it may be necessary to preserve them, can scarcely be regarded as records to which convenient access can be required; and my Lords desire to submit for your consideration, whether with reference to the reports of the Committee, such documents as are practically useless, so far as convenient access to them is concerned (whether Government or legal records), might not be deposited in the Victoria Tower; and the public be thus saved the heavy expense of providing additional buildings for large masses of documents of no practical value for purposes of inspection.

My Lords will be quite ready to enter upon the consideration of this question, with your honour, and with reference to the remark in your letter of 6th December, as to the want of room for readers and searchers, my Lords will instruct the First Commissioner of Works to put himself in communication with you, in order to ascertain whether any temporary accommodation can be afforded to meet your views in this particular, should you be of opinion that the urgency is so great as to render such a step desirable.

I am, &c.

No. 18.

Master of the Rolls to the Treasury.

Sir,

Rolls House, 1 May 1862.

I RECEIVED with great regret your letter of the 21st April, in which the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury state that they feel there are grounds for hesitation and further inquiry before engaging in the erection of another block of the record repository.

Their Lordships, as the first reason for their hesitation, mention that the present block of the record repository, sanctioned to be erected in 1850, at an estimated cost of 45,320 l., has actually cost 88,490 l. This excess of estimate, though much to be regretted, is a matter over which I had no control; the erection of the building resting with the First Commissioner of Works. I may however mention, that of this sum, 16,000 l. was caused (as appears by the Parliamentary Estimates), "by the expensive character of the fittings, and the rise which has taken place in the value of labour and materials subsequent to the commencement of the works," and that 27,170 l. was for "wire doors, ends and divisions to the presses, for the better security of the records and documents," which was not in the original estimate for the building.

Their Lordships next state, that it was expected the block of building proposed to be erected, would make adequate provision for all purposes and requirements of a record repository for the next 50 years (i. e. from 1850). But if their Lordships will refer to my letter of the 11th December 1858 and 6th December 1861, they will perceive how these calculations have been overthrown; first, by their Lordships causing me to give up to the Board of Ordnance, for the purposes of the Crimean war, the White Tower in the Tower of London, in which were placed some of the most important Chancery records, as well as the records of the Court of Admiralty and the Board of Admiralty; secondly, to take possession of 160 tons of War Office documents from 6, Whitehall Yard, also for the convenience of the Government, in connexion with the same war; and thirdly, by the pulling down of the State Paper Office. I add also a list of the documents which I have received, principally at the desire of the Treasury, which were not expected when the measurements for the present block were made.

As regards the removal of the State Papers from Duke-street, Westminster, I wish their Lordships to understand, that I only agreed to have these valuable documents placed in the repository as a temporary measure, and to prevent their being removed to the unsuitable rooms of the Victoria Tower. I thought that the best place for their temporary preservation was the Chapter House, but to this place of deposit the Foreign Office objected.

Their Lordships then suggest, that some portion of the records (alluding to the Government documents, on which the Committee has reported), "can scarcely be regarded as records to which convenient access can be required," and should be placed in the Victoria Tower. Their Lordships are probably not aware of the number of daily searches, &c. required among the War Office and Admiralty records by those offices respectively, these being the only classes on which the Committee has reported. I give the number of searches from 1860 and 1861; I have every reason to believe that the Secretary of State for War and the Lords of the Admiralty, would not consent to their documents being placed in any depository not easily accessible, nor would they consider these documents of no practical value for purposes of inspection.

It is also my duty to state, that in my opinion the Victoria Tower is a highly improper place for depositing the documents in question. It was proposed by the First Commissioner of Works last year, to place the State Papers therein; and I inclose a report of Mr. Hardy and Mr. Roberts on the subject, which will show how useless the building is as a repository for documents, to which access is required either by Government Departments or the public.

Under these circumstances, and having regard to the complaint of the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Admiralty of 16th December 1857, as to the want of permanent fire-proof repositories for the valuable records, I venture to express a hope that their Lordships will reconsider their determination, as to the erection of the new block of the record repository; but, if not, that their Lordships will at least cause some addition to be made to the building, for the purpose of giving some increased accommodation to the searchers," which accommodation, it will, I fear, be impossible to obtain in any other manner.

I beg to add a memorial, presented to me by some of the gentlemen who are principally engaged in literary searches, together with my answer, but I beg to assure their Lordships that this is only one of the applications I have received, and that these complaints are constant and well founded.

Enclosure 3, in No. 18.

Sir,

Public Record Office, 14 May 1861.

As it is the intention of the Government to pull down the State Paper Branch Record Office, and we believe in contemplation to propose the Victoria Tower as a place of temporary deposit for the records in that office, we thought it our duty to inspect the Victoria Tower, and now take the liberty of submitting to you the result of our examination.

From long experience of the requirements of the public who consult the records, we have no hesitation in stating that we think the removal of these papers to the Victoria Tower

VICTORIA TOWER.

PLAN OF FLOORS.

Scale.— One Eighth of an Inch to a Foot.

Tower would be highly undesirable; and we have arrived at this conclusion for the following reasons:—

There are no means of access to this Tower, except by a narrow winding staircase, consisting of 170 iron steps (only 2 feet 6 inches wide), up to the first floor, without the slightest provision existing for taking rest. It occupied us $4\frac{1}{2}$ minutes to come down; and we apprehend that the length and fatigue of such ascent and descent must prove a very serious obstacle to all persons wishing to consult these papers, and be an utter exclusion to people of feeble health and advanced age. In addition to this very serious objection is the darkness, which is almost complete, and the steps being constructed of open cast-iron work, any person descending without great caution would be liable to get his foot caught in one of the openings, and be precipitated some distance down.

On arriving at the rooms proposed for the reception of these papers, and the accommodation of officers, editors, and searchers, we have to report that the arrangements are defective in every respect. There are eight rooms on each floor, and eight floors; so that altogether there are 64 rooms, and there are 38 steps to ascend from storey to storey, making in all, from the first landing up to the eighth storey, 266 steps, which, being added to the 170 from the ground to the first landing, make a total of 436 steps.

There are no fireplaces in any of the rooms, nor means of making them (especial care having been taken in constructing the Tower to exclude them altogether), nor even the common convenience of water-closets, either for the public or the officers.

We append hereto a plan of one storey, which will give you some notion of the arrangement of the rooms. Of these rooms, two were, some years ago, fitted up with racks for papers as a specimen. The other 62 are still in rough plaster, and would have to be replastered and fitted up with racks, and some months must elapse before they would be sufficiently seasoned to admit of the papers being deposited therein.

There is no room whatever adapted for a searching room for the public, unless that which was constructed for a sorting room be used for such a purpose, for which, however, it is wholly inadequate from the want of light, being only lighted by small slanting loop-holes, and to reach it from the first landing-place you have to descend a staircase of 35 iron steps, which projects into the centre of the room. The floor is also of stone. We are therefore inclined to believe that no means could be adopted to render it a suitable place for public searchers; for in rooms of similar construction here, which are of much smaller proportions, though warmed by open fires, we know the difficulty experienced in cold weather of rendering them habitable, and the complaints of searchers and the officers are frequent and well founded; and, as 300 persons have free access to the State Paper Office for literary purposes, to say nothing of those who attend for legal matters, there would be no fitting accommodation for such of them as might be present at the same time, and for the officers in attendance. The number of visits of literary inquirers only to the State Paper Branch Record Office in 1860 was no less than 1,591.

The utter absence of the most necessary accommodations, the intricacy and difficulty of access, even could the other disadvantages be overcome, warrant us in coming to the conclusion that a more undesirable repository could not be found for any records which are of interest, and frequently consulted; and it must be remembered that the State Papers are every day exciting fresh curiosity, and drawing an augmented number of readers from all parts of the world, in consequence of the calendars now in course of publication by authority of the Government.

We apprehend, therefore, that to remove these papers to the Victoria Tower would be little better than an exclusion of the general public from the use of them whilst they remained there, and would infallibly produce great dissatisfaction in all quarters.

The Victoria Tower might be well used for the Parliamentary Papers which are now stowed away in the basement along the river front, and for which it was intended, when rejected by the late Master of the Rolls (Lord Langdale) as being an unfit repository for the public records of the realm.

As this report is expressly concerning the Victoria Tower as a place of deposit for the State Papers, we abstain from entering on the still more important consideration of losing this opportunity of concentrating these documents with the others under your charge and direction as authorised by the Act of Parliament, and which was considered so desirable that the additional blocks to the Repository on the Rolls Estate were arranged and approved of, and the ground cleared of the houses required for the purpose several years ago.

We have, &c.

To the Right Honourable the Master of the Rolls,

WE, the undersigned literary searchers in the Public Record Office, beg leave to call the attention of your Honour to the smallness of the room allotted for the literary department, as not unfrequently considerable inconvenience has been experienced by the en-quirers. While recognizing and thankfully acknowledging the advantages already bestowed upon the literary public, we would submit, that the great increase of readers, and the inadequacy of the space for documents of considerable bulk, appear to suggest the necessity, if practicable, of some increased accommodation.

The fees received for the registry of deeds are 7s. for memorials of 500 words, and 6d. for every 100 words in excess of that number.

The fees provided by the Act of 7 Anne, c. 20, were altered, as the present Registrars are informed, in the year 1768, in pursuance of an arrangement between the then Registrars and the public, and have since that period been always received in accordance with the amended scale.

They are not aware of any special authority for the alteration.

The application of such fees is first in paying all expenses incidental to the office, leaving the balance to be divided into four shares, three whereof being the emoluments of the three Registrars in equal proportions, and the fourth share is paid into the Treasury, in pursuance of the Act 22 & 23 Vict. c. 21, which repealed that of 7 Anne, c. 20, in so far as it provided for the Queen's Remembrancer being one of the Registrars of Deeds for the County of Middlesex.

Whitehall, Treasury Chambers, }

F. PEEL.

COPY of a MEMORIAL presented to the FIRST LORD of the TREASURY by the INCORPORATED LAW SOCIETY about the 5th day of November 1861, in reference to the FUNDS for building NEW COURTS of JUSTICE.

To the Right Honourable the Lord Viscount Palmerston, K.G., First Lord
Commissioner of Her Majesty's Treasury, &c.

The Memorial of the Council of the Society of Attorneys, Solicitors, Proctors, and others practising in the Courts of Law and Equity of the United Kingdom, Incorporated by Charters of King William the Fourth and Queen Victoria,

Showeth,

That the insufficiency of the existing courts of law, and of the offices connected therewith for the due administration of justice, has long been the subject of complaint, as well on the part of the suitors and the public, as of the judges of the respective courts, the members of the bar, and the general body of practitioners; most of the courts being of inadequate dimensions, defective in construction, and ill-adapted to the important purposes for which they are designed.

That the Courts of Law at Westminster are inconvenient in situation, insufficient in space, and destitute of the requisite accommodation for jurymen and witnesses, for suitors, their counsel and attorneys, and for the public.

That the evils thus complained of have repeatedly formed the subject of Parliamentary inquiry, Select Committees of the House of Commons having been appointed in the years 1840, 1841, and 1845, “to consider the expediency of erecting a building in the neighbourhood of the Inns of Court, for the sittings of the Courts of Law and Equity, in lieu of the Courts adjoining Westminster Hall, with a view to the more speedy, convenient, and effectual administration of justice,” and the concurrent testimony of the numerous witnesses examined before such Committees, clearly proved that the concentration of all the Courts of Law and Equity, and the offices connected therewith, in a central situation would greatly promote, as their separation and dispersion greatly impeded the due and convenient administration of justice.

That the evils thus brought under the notice of Parliament have since greatly increased, owing to various legislative and other changes which have recently taken place: to the appointment of additional Judges in Equity, involving as a necessary consequence an increased staff of registrars, clerks, and other officers, and to the creation of new courts, and more especially the Court of Probate and Divorce.

That of late years the attention of the Legislature has been earnestly devoted to the subject of Legal Reform; to the correction and removal of imperfections and anomalies in the law itself, and to the simplification and improvement of the modes of procedure.

That with this view, legislative provisions have been made (amongst other things) for giving to the Courts of Common Law and Equity concurrent jurisdiction over matters, in regard to which their powers have been heretofore divided, so as to enable each to administer to the suitor complete, instead of partial and imperfect justice.

That the practical working of this beneficial change would be greatly promoted, if the courts themselves were brought into juxtaposition, so as to facilitate and give opportunities for intercommunication between the Judges and the Bar of the respective Courts of Common Law and Equity.

That a very large amount of important business, arising in the ordinary course of suits, and essential to their due and orderly progress, or growing out of the exercise by the Court of Chancery of its administrative functions, is daily transacted in the Chambers of the Judges, and in the various offices connected with the Courts, but that these offices are for the most part situated in different localities, and are widely scattered and separated, both from the Courts to which they respectively belong, and from each other.

That the result of this separation is enormous waste of time to the practitioners, and the unavoidable delegation to clerks of business which ought to be, and but for such separation might and would be, performed by the principals themselves.

That waste of time to the practitioners is, in other words, and in its practical effect, delay to the suitors, and increased expense in the prosecution of their rights and the transaction of their business.

That the concentration of all the Courts of Law and Equity, and the various offices connected therewith, in some convenient and central situation, in the neighbourhood of the Inns of Court, would prevent or greatly diminish this waste of time and money, would promote economy and efficiency in the administration of justice, and would assist and develop the practical working of those changes, which have had for their object the simplification of what is complex, and the consolidation of what has been needlessly separated and divided.

That in the month of April 1859 Her Majesty was pleased to issue Her Royal Commission appointing the persons therein named Commissioners to inquire into the expediency of bringing together into one place or neighbourhood all the Superior Courts of Law and Equity, the Probate and Divorce Courts and the various offices belonging to the same, and into the means which exist or may be supplied for providing a site or sites, and for erecting suitable buildings for carrying out this object.

That, having examined numerous witnesses, and collected a large body of valuable evidence, the Commissioners, on the 3d July 1860, presented their Report to Her Majesty, in which they unanimously concurred in recommending the concentration of all the Superior Courts of Law and Equity and the other courts referred to in the said Commission, and the various offices belonging thereto, in a site bounded by Carey-street on the north, Pickett-street and the Strand on the south, Bell-yard on the east, and Clement's-inn on the west, as fully described in their Report and the Appendix thereto annexed.

That the Commissioners were also of opinion (one only of their number dissenting from that portion of their Report) that there existed large and sufficient funds, which could justly and properly be made available for the purpose of carrying these important objects into complete effect, without imposing any, or if any, only a moderate and temporary burthen on the finances of the State.

That copies of the said Report, and of the evidence therein referred to, were by Her Majesty's command communicated to both Houses of Parliament, and that in consequence of such Report, and for the purpose of giving effect to the recommendations therein contained, the Chief Commissioner of Public Works was authorised by a Minute of the Board over which your Lordship presides to cause such public notices to be given and such other steps to be taken as were required by the Standing Orders of Parliament, in order to enable the Crown to acquire the site referred to in the said Report.

That, accordingly, plans and books of reference were prepared and deposited in the proper offices, and the requisite notices given, by direction of the Chief Commissioner of Public Works, in the month of November last, and two Bills were introduced introduced into Parliament by him in the last Session, the one entitled "The Courts of Justice Building Act (acquisition of Site) Bill," and the other "The Courts of Justice Building Act (Money) Bill," the two Bills being founded upon the report of the Commissioners, and their object being to give complete effect to the entire scheme therein recommended.

That the first of the said Bills passed through the House of Commons, and was read a first and second time in the House of Lords, when its further progress was stayed by order of the House until the House of Commons should have determined on the appropriation of the requisite funds for giving effect to its provisions.

That the second of the said Bills having been read a first and second time in the House of Commons, was on the 8th July 1861, referred to a Select Committee of the House, with special instructions to inquire into and consider the question of a site for the proposed courts, in connexion with the first-mentioned Bill, which, as already stated, was then pending in the House of Lords.

That the said Committee, of which the Chief Commissioner of Public Works was the chairman, held several sittings, and examined witnesses on the matters referred to its consideration, and on the 15th July the Committee reported the Bill to the House with some amendments, not in any way affecting its general scope and purport, and the Bill as so amended was ordered to be printed and recommitting.

That on the 17th of July, the House resolved in a Committee of the whole House on the Consolidated Fund, the Queen's recommendation having first been signified in the usual manner, "that it is expedient to authorise the payment out of the Consolidated Fund of the United Kingdom of such sums as may be sufficient to make good any loss of income or deficiency which may be caused in the Suitors' Fee Fund, or the general cash balance of the Suitors of the High Court of Chancery, by the provisions of any Act of the present Session for supplying means towards defraying the expense of carrying into effect the Courts of Justice Buildings Act," and on the same day such resolution was reported to the House and agreed to.

That on the said 17th of July the Minutes of Evidence taken before the Select Committee were ordered to be laid before the House, and the same were accordingly presented and ordered to lie upon the table, and to be printed.

That on the same day it was ordered that a copy of a Treasury Minute relating to the provision of funds for the new Law Courts, with reference to the two Bills then before Parliament, should be, and the same was accordingly presented and ordered to lie upon the table and be printed.

That the Committee on the said Bill was from time to time deferred until the 26th of July, on which day the order for the Committee thereon was read and discharged, and the Bill withdrawn, in consequence, as your memorialists believe, of the approaching termination of the Session.

That by the Treasury Minute above referred to, which bears date the 16th of July 1861, doubts were suggested as to the sufficiency of the funds pointed out by the Report of the Royal Commissioners for the execution of the entire scheme therein recommended, and it was alleged that such scheme could not be carried into effect without involving a heavy charge on the public finances.

That in the opinion and belief of your memorialists, there is no just or valid foundation for such suggestion, and for the grounds of their opinion, they beg leave to refer your Lordship to the annexed printed paper marked (A).

That your memorialists respectfully submit to your Lordship that (to quote the language of the Royal Commissioners in the 94th paragraph of their Report), "the providing suitable courts and offices for the due and convenient administration of justice is an object of supreme national importance, and involving the weightiest national obligations; that it is, in fact, one of the primary and paramount duties of the State, and that even if its fulfilment involved even a large and permanent addition to the public burdens, the State could not with propriety shrink from the obligation." But while your memorialists believe that, for the reasons already referred to, no such burden will be thrown on the State by the execution of the proposed scheme, they beg leave further to represent that if the funds pointed out by the Royal Commissioners should be found in any degree inadequate for that purpose, the deficiency might be readily met by the imposition of a very moderate tax on law proceedings; a tax so moderate that it would scarcely be felt by the suitors, and which would be as nothing when compared with the advantages the suitors would derive from the execution of the proposed scheme in all its integrity.

That your memorialists further submit that any such modification of the proposed scheme as would leave the courts of equity and the offices connected therewith in their present localities, would involve an entire abandonment of the principle of concentration so strenuously recommended by the Commissioners, and that in destroying the substantial integrity of the scheme, its practical efficiency would necessarily be sacrificed and lost.

That your memorialists therefore submit that the sense of Parliament should be taken at the earliest possible moment upon the entire scheme recommended by the Royal Commissioners, and which the Government, presided over by your Lordship, must be presumed to have approved and adopted, by the measures which were taken under the sanction of the Treasury in the last Session of Parliament, for which purpose it will be necessary that renewed notices should be given in the course of the present month of November, as required by the Standing Orders of Parliament.

Your memorialists therefore humbly pray, that directions may be forthwith issued by the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury for the giving of such notices, and the taking of all such other steps as may be necessary to enable the Government to submit this important measure to Parliament at an early period of the ensuing Session.

And your memorialists, &c.

President.

NEW LAW COURTS.

REMARKS of the COUNCIL of the INCORPORATED LAW SOCIETY on the TREASURY MINUTE of the 16th July 1861, relating to the PROVISION of FUNDS for the NEW LAW COURTS, with reference to the two Bills now before Parliament.

It is much to be regretted that this Minute was not issued at an earlier period. The facts and figures on which it purports to be founded have been for many months in the possession of the Treasury. They were well known, or were readily accessible, before authority was given by the Treasury for the preparation and deposit, at the public expense, of the plans and books of reference relative to the proposed site, and the giving of the notices required by the Standing Orders of Parliament. They were well known while the "Site Bill" was passing, as a Government measure, through the two Houses, and while the Money Bill was under the consideration of the Select Committee of the House of Commons. And yet it was not until that Committee had closed its sittings, and made its report, and until all opportunity of inquiry and explanation might be supposed to have passed away, that a minute is issued under Treasury authority, which, if its statements and reasoning be well founded, stultifies the report of a Royal Commission, and utterly defeats a Government measure professing to be founded thereon.

The professed object of the minute is, "that Parliament and the public should be fully apprised of the amount of charge which will be incurred, and the extent of liability for the same to which the public revenues may be subject," if the full scheme recommended by the Royal Commissioners be carried into effect.

With this view, the Minute proceeds to show, that whilst, on the one hand, the cost of acquiring the site recommended by the Royal Commissioners, and of erecting thereon the buildings proposed by them, will exceed their estimate by no less a sum than 500,000*l.*; on the other hand, the funds pointed out by the Commissioners as available for the object will fall short of their estimate by not less than 189,000*l.*,—the two sums together amounting to 689,000*l.*, which the Minute represents as the "probable deficiency to be provided by vote of Parliament."

I. With

I. With regard to the cost of the site and buildings.

The difference between the two estimates arises as follows:—

COMMISSIONERS' REPORT.

Cost of site - - - - -	675,000
Ditto of buildings - - - - -	675,000
Contingencies - - - - -	150,000
	£. 1,500,000

TREASURY MINUTE.

Cost of site - - - - -	750,000
Ditto of buildings - - - - -	750,000
Contingencies - - - - -	500,000
	£. 2,000,000

The excess of the latter over the former being thus made up as follows:—

Site - - - - -	75,000
Buildings - - - - -	75,000
Allowance for contingencies - - - - -	350,000
	£. 500,000

Now it is to be observed, that the Report of the Commissioners was founded upon evidence given before them, the accuracy of which has since been confirmed by an eminent architect and surveyor, who was examined before the Select Committee of the House of Commons, to which the Money Bill, now before Parliament, was referred. The Parliamentary plans and notices for the Site Bill were prepared under the immediate personal direction of that gentleman, who has made a minute and careful estimate of every property included therein, house by house. He estimates the value of the whole, including costs of purchase and compensation, at 678,044 l.

He also confirms the estimate that the cost of erecting all the buildings necessary for carrying into effect the entire scheme recommended by the Royal Commissioners, including an ample allowance for contingencies, will not exceed the sum named in their report.

On the other hand, the figures set forth in the Treasury Minute are "conjectural" only. The sums there named as the probable cost of the site and buildings are expressly stated to be founded on the "conjectures" of the officers of the Board of Works, while the sum set down for "contingencies" seems to be nothing more than a guess of the Lords of the Treasury themselves, who consider that "it would not be safe to put down the item of contingencies at less than one-third of the conjectural estimate, or 500,000 l."

No actual reports or estimates are produced or referred to in support of these "conjectures," and there appears to be no good reason why any other set of figures, of even larger amount, might not with equal propriety have been put forward. The question seems to be, whether reliance is to be placed on mere "conjectures," unsupported by evidence, or on carefully prepared estimates made by competent persons, and which have been open to examination and inquiry? And it may well be asked whether, in a matter admitted to be of the highest public utility and importance, mere "conjectures" are to be allowed to defeat a scheme recommended by Commissioners, who were appointed by the Crown under the advice of one set of Ministers, and whose report has been adopted and acted upon by their successors in office.

II. With regard to the provision of funds for the proposed New Courts.

The Commissioners recommended the appropriation of two funds, one consisting of stock, amounting to 1,492,657 l. (or in round figures 1,500,000 l.), and the other of cash amounting to 88,254 l. At the date of their report, the price of consols was rather more than 93, and the Commissioners estimated the value of the aggregate fund, both stock and cash, at, in round figures, 1,500,000 l. In making this calculation, they undoubtedly overlooked the fact, that a part of the stock (less, however, than a moiety) consisted of reduced 3 l. per cents, which are of somewhat less value than consols. The price of Government stock, moreover, has since fallen about 3 l. per cent., and making due allowance for this depreciation, the produce of the aggregate fund, if the whole of the stock were now sold, would probably not much exceed 1,400,000 l., as stated in the "Minute." On the other hand, it must be recollected that the scheme does not contemplate or involve an immediate sale of the whole stock. The sales would be made gradually, and from time to time, as the works proceeded, and would probably be spread over a period of from five to seven years; and as it is impossible to say that, during this interval, the funds might not again advance in price, so there might thus be a considerable increase in the ultimate produce of the fund.

The "Minute," however, alleges that the portion of the fund which consists of cash (being that referred to in the Report as fund E, and which, it seems, has since the date thereof increased to 105,773 l.) is not properly available for the intended purpose, and must therefore be deducted. So deducted, and taking the present prices of Government stock as the basis of calculation, the amount actually available would be reduced to 1,311,000 l., and this is the only sum which the "Minute" assumes to be now at the disposal of Parliament.

The ground on which fund E is thus proposed to be struck out of the account is this,—that it has arisen from surplus fees of the Common Law Courts,—that these surplus fees are by the Nisi Prius Act (15 & 16 Vict. c. 73) directed to be carried to the Consolidated Fund,—and consequently, that fund E, which represents the past accumulation of such surplus, belongs by law to the Exchequer, and constitutes a portion of the general public revenue.

The Minute states that "for some reason, which is not explained, a former Board of Treasury directed the surplus fees of the common law courts to be retained in the hands of the paymaster-general, and hence the accumulation of the sum described in the Report as fund E."

The explanation of the fact here referred to can be very readily supplied.

When it was found that the fees taken in the common law courts were far more than sufficient to defray the expenses for which they were avowedly levied, and that there was a considerable surplus, application for their reduction was made to the proper authorities by the incorporated law society (on behalf of the general body of the profession practising in those courts). It was represented that, admitting it to be right to exact fees from suitors to meet the expenses, or a part of the expenses, of carrying on the business of the courts, it was a violation of every sound principle to tax them for the ordinary purposes of the State,—in other words, that the administration of justice was not a legitimate subject of general taxation. The Treasury of that day admitted the justice of these representations, and while they declined to reduce the fees, until it had been ascertained whether, upon an average of years, they were adequate in amount to cover current expenses, they directed the ascertained surplus to be treated as in the nature of a suspense account, and to remain in the hands of the paymaster-general until its ultimate appropriation should be determined on. The accumulation of the surplus thus went on from year to year, until it reached the amount referred to in the Report of the Commissioners, who were unanimously of opinion that there could not be "a more legitimate application thereof than towards the completion of a scheme from which the suitors at common law will derive the most essential advantage."

The argument of the "Minute," that "the fees of common law courts cannot be considered as a fund properly applicable to providing buildings for the Court of Chancery, or the Court of Probate," is utterly unsound and fallacious, and is completely at variance with the whole tenor of the Report. If it were true, it would follow that, by parity of reasoning, the fees of the Court of Chancery could not properly be applied to providing buildings for the courts of law; and, in that case, no part of funds B and D,—which have arisen exclusively, the former from the profitable use of the money of suitors in Chancery, the latter from fees paid by them,—would be available for the purposes of the proposed scheme. But such a conclusion would strike at the very root of the Commissioners' Report, and, if admitted, would prove, not that the fund is inadequate, but that there is no fund at all. And if this be so, then the Report of the Commissioners is a farce, the act of the Government in bringing in the two Bills now before Parliament, which purport on their very face to be founded on that Report, was a mockery and a delusion, and the cost incurred in their preparation, a waste of the public money.

Assuming, then, that the present accumulation of the fees in question (105,753 l.), may properly be dealt with for the purposes of the scheme, and adding that sum to the value of the stock, there would be an aggregate fund of more than 1,400,000 l. immediately available for the proposed object, and the deficiency would be reduced from 500,000 l. to less than 100,000 l.

Considering the primary importance of the object, the provision of suitable courts for the administration of justice to all the subjects of the realm, it might have been thought, that even the larger of these sums would, after all, have been no more than a reasonable contribution from the funds of the State; more especially as by the execution of the proposed scheme, a very large sum, which must otherwise be expended in the erection of proper buildings at Doctors' Commons for the Courts of Probate and Divorce, including a fire-proof depository for wills, will be entirely saved. But there are other resources indicated in the Report of the Commissioners, although not included in their calculations, which will more than cover the apprehended deficiency, and effectually protect the public revenue from the risk of loss.

If the full scheme of the Commissioners should be carried into effect (and this is the theory on which the "Treasury Minute" is founded), "large and valuable blocks of buildings" (to borrow the language of the Commissioners in the 107th paragraph of their Report) belonging to the public, and now used for the purposes of the equity courts and offices, would be set free, and might be brought to sale. The value of these buildings and their sites has been carefully estimated, and it amounts to no less a sum than 265,000 l., without including the Courts of Bankruptcy and Insolvency, which may or may not be comprehended in the proposed scheme.

But

But further, in addition to the buildings referred to, the freehold of which is vested in the public, other buildings are hired for the use of the different courts and their officers, for which rents are paid to the amount of 5,341*l.* 15*s.* per annum. If the proposed scheme be carried into effect, the whole of these rents will be saved, and the capitalised value of the rental thus saved has been estimated by competent authority at 145,000*l.*

If these sums be added together, the result will be as follows:—

Saving in respect of courts and offices in Doctors' Commons, no longer necessary (say) - - -	100,000
Value of land and buildings set free - - -	265,000
Value of rents saved - - - - -	145,000
£.	510,000

There remains to be noticed one additional item of large amount, which the "Minute" assumes will form a charge on the public, and which arises in the following manner:—

The funds B and D, with which the Report proposes to deal for the purposes of the scheme, say 1,500,000*l.* stock, now produce an annual income of 45,000*l.* At the date of the Report this income was subject, to its full amount, to annual payments in the shape of compensation annuities,—such charge, however, diminishing at the estimated rate of 2,000*l.* per annum by the gradual falling in of the annuities. If the capital of the stock were taken for the purposes of the scheme, it would follow that the income now derived therefrom would cease, and the Commissioners recommended that the public should make good the loss thereby occasioned, by an annual charge on the Consolidated Fund, subject to a gradual abatement as the life compensations charged on the fund fell in.

For the purpose of showing the actual burthen which this arrangement would entail on the public, the "Treasury Minute" treats the charge as an annuity of 45,000*l.* per annum, decreasing by 2,000*l.* a year until it is extinguished in 22½ years, and it estimates the value of such annuity at 410,000*l.* Adding this sum to the deficiency of 689,000*l.* above referred to, the total charge for which the public would become liable is shown to be 1,099,000*l.*, or in round figures 1,100,000.

The whole statement, however, on which this calculation is based may be shown to be entirely fallacious.

For, in the first place, it assumes that the whole amount of stock would be sold at once, and thus that there would be an immediate loss of income, and a consequent charge upon the public of 45,000*l.* per annum at starting. But the fact is, that the sales of stock would be gradually made as the work proceeded, and would be spread over a period of from five to seven years, during the whole of which time the dropping in of the lives of annuitants would year by year diminish the amount of the charge.

But, in the next place, there is no just ground for the assumption that, even if the whole stock were sold at once, the demand on the public would be 45,000*l.* per annum, even for a single year.

One year only has elapsed since the date of the Commissioners' Report, and in that year not 2,000*l.*, but 5,000*l.*, has been saved to the income of the fund by the falling in of compensation annuities, thus reducing the charge to 40,000*l.* per annum, being the same sum as that assumed by the Commissioners, on grounds somewhat different, but the validity of which, the results being the same, we need not stop to discuss.

From this sum of 40,000*l.* the Commissioners proposed to deduct the surplus fees received in the Courts of Common Law, the Court of Probate, and the High Court of Admiralty, amounting together to 24,000*l.* per annum, and which, as they were received by the public, they conceived might be fairly and properly set off against the new charge thrown on the public by means of the proposed scheme, and which would thereby be reduced to 16,000*l.* per annum.

The propriety of this deduction is challenged by the Treasury Minute, on grounds, the validity of which has already been discussed in a former part of this paper, when dealing with the question of the applicability of fund E. to the objects of this scheme. There are those who contend that no taxes or fees should be taken from suitors upon any pretext, or for any purposes; and this was the opinion expressed by the Master of the Rolls not many days since, in his evidence before the Select Committee of the House of Commons, on the pending Bill. His Honor on that occasion referred to "the very celebrated pamphlet of Mr. Jeremy Bentham on law taxes, which produced so great a sensation, and put an end to making the Courts of Law a source of revenue to the public;" and his Honor added, that the reasoning of the pamphlet "applied precisely to the taxes now levied, though essential to the maintenance of the courts as at present established."

Without adopting this opinion to its full extent, and admitting that fees may properly be levied on suitors, in order to aid in maintaining the courts whose aid they invoke, it is conceived that no one can be found at this time of day to assert that suitors, as such, should be taxed, whether by fees or otherwise, for the general purposes of the State. And yet this would be the obvious result if the propositions put forward in the Minute were to be carried into practical effect.

8 MEMORIAL:--COURTS OF JUSTICE BUILDING FUNDS.

If, then, the surplus fees, hereafter to be received in the Courts of Law and of Probate, are brought in aid of the scheme, the result to the public will be as follows:—

It appears from the Treasury Minute that the surplus for the last year was—

From Courts of Law	- - - - -	17,519
From Probate Court	- - - - -	29,000
	£.	46,519

There is no reason to anticipate any falling off from either source, the probability being the other way. But assuming that the fees remain stationary, it is manifest that there would be no demand on the public, even on the hypothesis that the whole stock, constituting funds B and D, were immediately sold, and the whole income of 45,000*l.* per annum now arising therefrom were at once to cease.

MANCHESTER DISTRICT.

The Commissioner of this Court, William Thomas Jemmett, Esq., has sat in this Court seventy days, since the 11th October 1861 to the 11th April 1862, and according to the best of my knowledge and belief, the average number of hours of each day's sitting has not been more than two.

27 May 1862.

Nicholas Simons,
Registrar.

NEWCASTLE-UPON-TYNE DISTRICT.

RETURN as to the Number of Days on which the Commissioner of the Newcastle-Upon-Tyne District Court of Bankruptcy has sat in his Court from 11th October 1861 to 11th April 1862.

From the 11th October 1861 to the 11th December 1861, Nathaniel Ellison, Esq., since deceased, was Commissioner of the said District Court, and was absent from his Court by reason of illness during all that period.

I, as Registrar, sat in Court and acted for Mr. Commissioner Ellison during his absence.

From the 13th December 1861 to the 11th April 1862, Theophilus Bennet Hoskyns-Abrahall, Esq., the Commissioner of the said Court, has sat in his Court on sixty-two (62) days, but no record has been kept of the number of hours of each day's sitting, and I am unable to state the average number of hours of each day's sitting.

31 May 1862.

W. S. Gibson,
Registrar.

BANKRUPTCY.

RETURN of the Number of Days on which the COMMISSIONERS of the several DISTRICT COURTS of BANKRUPTCY, acting in the County, have Sat in their Courts, since the 11th day of October 1861 to the 11th day of April 1862;
and of the Average Number of Hours of each Day's Sitting.

COPY of GENERAL ORDERS and RULES of the HIGH COURT of CHANCERY, issued by the LORD HIGH CHANCELLOR, Friday, 16 May 1862.

ORDER of COURT, Friday, 16 May 1862.

THE Right Honourable Richard Baron Westbury, Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain, by and with the advice and assistance of the Right Honourable Sir John Romilly, Master of the Rolls, the Honourable the Vice-Chancellor Sir Richard Torin Kindersley, the Honourable the Vice-Chancellor Sir John Stuart, and the Honourable the Vice-Chancellor Sir William Page Wood, doth hereby, in pursuance and execution of the powers given by the statute 15 & 16 Vict., c. 86, and of all other powers and authorities enabling him in that behalf, order and direct in manner following:—

I.—All affidavits and depositions which are to be used on the hearing of any cause in which issue shall be joined, or a notice of motion for a decree served after the eighteenth day of June, One thousand eight hundred and sixty-two, shall be printed, except as hereinafter mentioned.

II.—Such affidavits and depositions shall be printed under the direction and superintendence of the Clerks of Records and Writs, upon paper of such kind and dimensions and with such type as are prescribed by the General Order for the printing of Bills, and in all other respects in such form and manner as the Clerks of Records and Writs shall deem to be most convenient, and the expense of such printing shall be paid out of the same fund and in like manner as the expense of making office copies is now paid.

III.—Solicitors and parties on filing affidavits hereby required to be printed, are to leave with the Clerks of Records and Writs a fair copy of each affidavit filed, such copy to be written on draft paper, on one side only, and to be certified by the solicitor or party to be a correct copy of the affidavit filed.

IV.—In a cause in which issue is joined, the Clerks of Records and Writs shall, upon the application of any party to the suit, cause such affidavits and depositions (other than depositions taken on the oral cross-examination of witnesses who have made such affidavits) to be printed after the expiration of the time fixed for closing the evidence; and such last mentioned depositions after the expiration of the time allowed for the oral cross-examination of such witnesses.

V.—In a cause in which a notice of motion for a decree is served, the Clerks of Records and Writs shall, upon the application of any party to the suit, cause the affidavits filed on behalf of the plaintiffs, the affidavits filed on behalf of the defendants, and the affidavits of the plaintiffs in reply, to be printed after the times respectively allowed for filing each set of such affidavits; and the depositions taken on the oral cross-examination of the witnesses who have made such affidavits after such depositions shall have been filed.

VI.—Every party who files an affidavit, or causes depositions to be taken, is to take from the Clerks of Records and Writs a printed copy of every affidavit filed by him, and of all such depositions, for which he is to pay in stamps at the rate of two-pence per folio, and unless such copy is taken, he is not to be allowed anything in the taxation of costs in respect of such affidavit or depositions.

VII.—All parties are to be at liberty to take from the Clerks of Records and Writs as many other printed copies of their own and of their opponents' affidavits and depositions as they may require, on paying for the same in stamps at the rate of one penny per folio.

VIII.—Solicitors are to be allowed, on the taxation of costs, the same fees for printed copies of the affidavits and depositions used for the briefs of counsel as solicitors are now allowed for written copies; and in country agency causes they are also to be allowed at the rate of four-pence per folio for one other printed copy of the affidavits and depositions of the opposite party, but for all other printed copies which may be necessarily used in the progress of the cause, solicitors are to be allowed only the sums actually paid for the same.

IX.—Affidavits and depositions which shall have been filed for the purpose of any interlocutory application, and of which office copies shall have been taken for that purpose, are excepted from the operation of this Order.

The Masters in Lunacy have, in the above particulars, furnished so much of the information called for by the Order of the House of Commons, received on the 28th day of last month, as the books and papers in their office enable them to supply. Their books and papers do not enable them to furnish the other particulars mentioned in the Order.

H. Enfield,
Chief Clerk to the Masters in Lunacy.

29 July 1862.

THE following is a Statement of the Number of the Persons above-mentioned to have been certified by the Masters to be of Unsound Mind as to whom Orders for Supersedeas have been made on their recovery :—

The number of such Orders of Supersedeas is 10, and the cases in which the said Orders have been made are those above distinguished by the numbers 17, 46, 61, 93, 95, 126, 147, 283, 366.

It also appears from the books in the Office of the Registrar in Lunacy that Orders have been made superseding the proceedings on the recovery of two of the persons above-mentioned as reported to the Lord Chancellor to be Lunatic, in pursuance of the Act of 8 & 9 Vict. c. 100, s. 95.

Quality Court, 5 August 1862.

COPIES and EXTRACTS of further CORRESPONDENCE with the Authorities of the Island of Jersey, on the Subject of the REPORT of the ROYAL COMMISSION.

— No. 1. —

Sir,

Jersey, 17 September 1861.

I HAVE the honour to transmit, for the information of Secretary Sir George Grey, the accompanying petition which has been presented to me, on the part of 1,001 of the “Principaux” and “Propriétaires-fonciers” of this Island, having for object to hasten the progress of the measures now under the consideration of the local Legislature for carrying out the reforms in the institutions of this island which shall be considered necessary.

I consider this document to be of great significance and importance, as showing the feelings and the wishes of a very large portion of the more respectable inhabitants of Jersey upon this great subject, and as holding out the hope, that the engagements of the States towards Her Majesty’s Government to take into consideration the several recommendations, with one exception, of the late Royal Commissions in the order in which they are mentioned in their report, may be fulfilled within a reasonable period of time, without further external pressure from the Imperial Parliament, or otherwise.

I have intimated to the gentlemen who presented this document to me, that I consider it to be a mark of respect due to the influential body from which it emanates to afford them the usual acknowledgment in person, and I shall accordingly meet them on Saturday next for this purpose.

I have, &c.

Enclosure in No. 1.

A Son Excellence le Major Général Robert Percy Douglas, Lieutenant Gouverneur ; à Jean Hammond, Ecr., Bailli, Président ; et aux États de l’Ile de Jersey.

LES soussignés, principaux et propriétaires-fonciers de cette Ile, ayant à cœur le bien-être et la prospérité du pays, respectueusement remontrent :

Que dans le cours de la dernière Session du Parlement Britannique, un “bill” fut présenté à la Chambre des Communes, lequel, fut-il devenu loi, aurait ravi aux habitants de cette Ile leurs droits législatifs, et leurs privilèges les plus chers ;

Que, lorsque ce “bill” fut présenté pour être lu une deuxième fois, il fut retiré à la requête du Gouvernement de Sa Majesté, en conséquence des représentations de votre Honorable Assemblée et des sollicitations des habitants de cette Ile ;

Que vos Pétitionnaires considèrent que dans cette occasion, une promesse formelle fut faite, et un engagement contracté par votre Honorable Assemblée de prendre en considération et d'effectuer, dans le plus bref délai possible, les réformes nécessaires dans les Institutions de l'Ile ;

Que vos Pétitionnaires ont tout lieu de croire et de craindre que, si ces changements ne sont pas opérés, d'autres mesures, qui peut-être auront un résultat bien différent, seront soumises à la considération du Parlement Britannique,—mesures qu'il est très-probable que le Gouvernement de Sa Majesté jugera à propos de soutenir ;

Que, si les privilèges et immunités dont les habitants de cette Ile ont joui pendant des siècles,—privilèges accordés en récompense de leur loyauté et confirmés par tant de Chartes Royales,—venaient à être perdus par suite de l'insouciance et de la négligence de nos jours, tout le blâme en retomberait sur votre Honorable Assemblée ;

Que vos Pétitionnaires, étant mûs par ces considérations, et sentant par l'expérience de chaque jour combien les intérêts de l'Ile souffrent par le défaut de lois conformes aux besoins du temps actuel, voient avec regret que votre Honorable Assemblée ne s'assemble que rarement pour s'occuper des affaires publiques, et que peu de progrès n'a encore été fait dans l'adoption de mesures de réforme si nécessaires.

Vos Pétitionnaires donc, comme Electeurs de votre Honorable Assemblée,—laquelle est une Assemblée Représentative, et presque entièrement composés de membres élus par le peuple,—sentant combien les délais sont dangereux quand il s'agit de questions d'une telle importance, ont été portés humblement à vous soumettre cette représentation ; et vous prier d'adopter, sans autre délai, des mesures pour arrêter les grands maux résultant de lois défectueuses, et pour en éviter, avant qu'il ne soit trop tard, les conséquences funestes.

Et vos Pétitionnaires, selon que très-obligés, prieront, &c., &c., &c.

— No. 2. —

Sir,

Whitehall, 24 September 1861.

I AM directed by Secretary Sir George Grey, to acknowledge your letter of the 17th instant, transmitting a copy of a petition which has been presented to you, on the part of 1,001 of the "Principaux" and "Propriétaires-fonciers" of Jersey, praying for the adoption, without delay, of measures to arrest the evils resulting from defective laws.

I am, &c.

Major General Douglas,
Lieutenant Governor, Jersey.

— No. 3. —

Sir,

Whitehall, 4 October 1861.

SINCE the receipt of the copy of the petition which you transmitted to Secretary Sir George Grey on the 17th ultimo, he has referred to the correspondence which took place between yourself and his predecessor, on the subject of the recommendations contained in the able report of the late Commissioners of Inquiry into the law of Jersey, and as he observes that a committee of 24 members were nominated by the States six months ago, to consider those recommendations (with one exception), he will be glad to learn from you what has been the result of their deliberations up to the present time, and whether there is reason to believe that measures for the amendment of the insular law, and its adaptation to the present state of society, will be submitted by the States to the Queen in Council, before the expiration of the current year. The absolute necessity for such measures has been so repeatedly pointed out, and is so generally admitted, admitted, that it is needless now to enlarge upon the subject. Sir George Grey will only express his hope, that the States will apply themselves to the work with an earnestness of purpose, which will obviate the further discussion of the matter in the Imperial Parliament. It is his wish that you should place a copy of this letter in the hands of the bailiff, and request him to take an early opportunity of communicating its contents to the States.

I have, &c.
(signed) H. Waddington.

Major General Douglas,
&c. &c. &c.
Lieutenant Governor, Jersey.

— No. 4. —

Sir,

Jersey, 30 October 1861.

ON the 11th instant, the Bailiff, John Hammond, Esq., as President of the States, laid before that Assembly a copy of a letter from Mr. Waddington (written by your direction), dated the 4th October 1861, which had been transmitted to the Bailiff by the Lieutenant Governor Major General Douglas, whereby the Lieutenant Governor is directed to inform you of the result of the deliberations up to the present time of the Committee of 24, nominated to consider the recommendations (with one exception) contained in the Report of the late Commissioners of Inquiry into the Laws of Jersey, and whether there is reason to believe that measures for the amendment of the insular law, and its adaptation to the present state of society, will be submitted to the Queen in Council before the expiration of the current year.

Considering the importance of this communication, the States, upon the same being brought under their notice, deemed it expedient to name a Committee of their body for the purpose of replying to it.

After some delay, in consequence of the Lieutenant Governor having for several days retained in his hands the Acts of the States, the Committee met, and I now have the honour, by direction and on behalf of that Committee, to make to you the following observations :

Referring to the Commissioners' Report, you will perceive that the recommendations comprise 16 different subjects, all of more or less moment, but some of them requiring the most careful consideration.

The first of the recommendations was addressed to Her Majesty in Council rather than to the States, as it simply suggested that a project of law relating to seigniorial rights, which had already been passed by the States, should receive the Royal sanction. That law has since been approved by an order of Her Majesty in Council.

The subjects which immediately follow are—2. "The Law of Real Property;" 3. "Conveyances and Registration;" 4. "Wills and Successions;" 5. "Law of Guarantee, &c.;" 6. "Leases and Trusts;" 7. "The Law relating to Husband and Wife;" and, 8. "The Law relating to Persons under Disability."

It is not too much to say that most of these matters, several of which seriously affect the rights of property, demand the most mature reflection.

The Committee of the States has taken the whole of these recommendations into consideration; and with reference to the 3d and 4th, has not thought it advisable to report in favour of the changes suggested by the Commissioners.

The Committee has, however, approved of, or has in course of preparation, bills on the several subjects, 2, 5, 6, 7 and 8, some of which have been adopted by the States.

The 9th head mentioned in the summary of recommendations, relates to the constitution of the Court, and is the exception alluded to in Mr. Waddington's letter.

The 10th is entitled "Procedure," and embraces "A. Arrest on Mesne Process and Habeas Corpus;" and "B. Trial. The Law of Evidence."

On a perusal of the articles suggested by the Commissioners, it will be seen that some of the provisions affect the practice of the Courts at Westminster and of the Judicial Committee of Her Majesty's Privy Council.

The Committee is now engaged in the consideration of the details of Bills for effecting amendments in the procedure, one of which has already been presented to the States.

The 11th recommendation, entitled, "Execution," involving vested interest to satisfy which large compensations would be demanded; the 12th, "Insolvency;" the 13th, "Relief of the Poor and Rating," upon which a law had then been passed by the States, and has, since the Report, received the Royal sanction; the 14th, "Education;" the 15th, "Prison; Lunatic Asylum;" and the 16th, "Tithes."

The foregoing statement contains a brief narrative of the recommendations of the Commissioners, and of the progress made by the Committee in the consideration of them.

The list which I have the honour to enclose sets forth some of the most important of the laws which have been passed by the States since the beginning of the year 1860, as also of the Bills which have been lodged au greffe, and are now waiting for discussion.

To persons unaccustomed to the preparation of Bills intended to make large and intricate changes in the established laws and customs of a country, the advance which has been made may not seem considerable; but to you, who have seen bills upon some of the questions referred to in the recommendations from year to year brought before Parliament, and only after long and repeated discussions finally passed into laws, it will be manifest that neither the Committee nor the States have been unmindful of the duty imposed on them, or dilatory in the prosecution of their labours.

As soon as the various measures which have been or may be prepared by the Committee, or by any private member of the States, have been passed by the States, the same will, with all expedition, be transmitted for the approval of Her Majesty in Council; but it is quite impossible for the States, having regard to the vastness and importance of the labours imposed upon that Assembly, and their duty as a deliberative body, to take into consideration the whole of the measures in question within the time prescribed.

I believe the Committee, of which I have the honour to be the organ, truly states the fact, when it declares that the States are applying themselves with "earnestness of purpose" to carry out such changes as they deem beneficial, and likely to produce the amendment of the insular law. At the same time, the States would protest against, and by all constitutional means resist, any attempt to override or coerce them to pass any measure which they might deem uncalled for, or which should interfere with their independence of action; and notwithstanding the misrepresentations of which the States have cause to complain, that body will confidently rely upon your using the interest of your office in preserving to them the due exercise of the rights, liberties, and franchises they at present enjoy as a Legislative Assembly, and which they hope may never be impaired.

I have, &c.

The Right Hon.
Sir George Grey, Bart. M.P.
&c. &c. &c.
Home Office.

— No. 5. —

Sir,

Whitehall, 12 November 1861.

I AM directed, by Secretary Sir George Grey, to acknowledge your letter of the 30th ultimo, enclosing a list of some of the most important laws passed by the States of Jersey, since the commencement of the year 1860, and of the "Projets" lodged au greffe. And I am to request that you will be so good as to communicate copies of your letter and of its enclosure to the Lieutenant Governor of Jersey, as it is desirable that he should be aware of all communications which take place on the subject of the amendment of the insular law.

I am, &c.

David de Quetteville, Esq. Jersey.

(signed) G. Clive.

Sir,

— No. 6. —

Sir,

Government House, Jersey, 16 December 1861.

In reply to your letter of the 4th October last, I have now the honour to forward to you a statement (embodied in the form of a letter to Sir George Grey) drawn up by a Committee of the States of this Island, in answer to your letter before mentioned, which I communicated without delay to the States.

30 October 1861.

I am glad that Mr. De Quetteville, the President of that Committee, had been directed to transmit to me a copy of this communication, since I am of opinion that in forwarding his letter without previously submitting it for the approval of the States as a body direct to Sir George Grey, and this in the face of the instructions from the Home Office, with regard to the mode of carrying on correspondence between the local authorities and the Secretary of State, Mr. De Quetteville has acted without due authority, and in disregard of the ordinary powers of a mere Committee.

Mr. De Quetteville's report of the labours of the States in regard to the particular business which formed the subject of Sir George Grey's inquiry, is simply, in many respects, entirely irrelevant, as indicated in the accompanying enclosure to his report, wherein I have marked * the particular Acts which have literally nothing to do with the matter. The best comment I can make on Mr. De Quetteville's letter, is to transmit to you the printed summary of recommendations, extracted from the report of the Royal Commission; to which is appended a marginal reference, showing what the States have done, and what they have not done, in fulfilment of their engagement, to take into early consideration, and to prepare laws in accordance with all these recommendations, with one most important exception.

* 1, 2, 3, 4 & 5, in margin of Enclsure 1 of this letter.

I must not fail to point out for Sir George Grey's consideration, one, and perhaps the most important among the many ameliorations of the law, to the consideration of which the States have pledged themselves, but to which, however, the letter of Mr. De Quetteville makes no reference. I allude to their engagement to prepare an Act for the amelioration of the criminal procedure, in consequence of the urgent instances of the Secretary of State upon becoming acquainted with the almost incredible case of P. Renouf, charged with the violation of a child nine years of age, which case, in spite of all the efforts of the Chief Magistrate and of the Attorney General (such are the defects of the existing criminal procedure) was spread over a period of twenty months.

With respect to the last paragraph of Mr. De Quetteville's letter, I would merely remark, that the only pressure brought upon the States, of which I am aware, is that which is brought to bear with so much force, and with so much truth, by public opinion in this Island, the expression of which has been wrung from the electors by the apprehension of Parliamentary interference, and by the sense of the necessity of the reforms recommended by the Royal Commissioners.

In conclusion, I do not think there is reason to believe that measures for the amendment of the insular law, and its adaptation to the present state of society, will be submitted by the States to the Queen in Council, before the expiration of the current year, nor do I think that the States will apply themselves to the work, with an earnestness of purpose, which will obviate the further discussion of the matter in the Imperial Parliament.

Enclosure 2, in No. 6.

RECOMMENDATIONS of the ROYAL COMMISSIONERS appointed to inquire into the CIVIL, &c., LAWS of Jersey.

SUMMARY OF RECOMMENDATIONS.

I. SEIGNORIAL RIGHTS.

1. That the Projet de Loi, passed by the States of Jersey on the 18th of October 1859, for authorising a commutation or redemption of seigniorial rights, be sanctioned by Your Majesty in Council.

This projet has been confirmed by Her Majesty in Council.

II. THE LAW OF REAL PROPERTY.

1. That the costs of a partage amongst heirs be defrayed out of the estate of the deceased.

2. That the period allowed to co-heirs for claiming from the principal heir a partage of the inheritance, be reduced from 40 to 15 years, with an alternative period, in cases of infancy or absence from Jersey, of five years from the attainment of majority or return to the Island.

A Bill has been passed in the States, on the 2d Clause of this recommendation, and is sent up for sanction. The Committee of the States do not deem the 1st Clause necessary or useful.

III. CONVEYANCES AND REGISTRATION.

1. That the parties to a contract be required to sign it before it is passed by the Court.

2. That a safe registry for contracts, wills, and other public documents be at once provided.

1. The Committee have not approved this clause.

2. This has been provided.

3. That

3. This

3. That in every case of collateral succession, the principal or sole heir be obliged to appear before the Court, and declare that he assumes the succession; and that his declaration be inserted in the Register of Contracts.

4. That the debts of a deceased person, in order to become charges on his real estate in the hands of his heirs or devisees, or of persons deriving title from them, be registered within a year of his death; and that, unless so registered, they shall not affect his property in the hands of purchasers or alienees.

5. That a proper index to the register of Décrets, calculated to facilitate the discovery of the cancellation of rentes and other obligations, be prepared and regularly kept.

IV. WILLS AND SUCCESSIONS.

1. That persons dying without issue be empowered to dispose by will of the whole of their real estate, subject to the rights of their widows to dower.

2. That the rights of the principal heir to any profit, during the first year, and before partage, arising out of the personal estate to which he succeeds in his representative character, be accurately defined by law.

3. That no person be competent to make a will of real or personal estate until he attains the age of 21.

4. That the marriage of a testator shall operate as a revocation of his will made before marriage.

5. That the formalities for making wills of real and of personal estate be the same, and that they be assimilated to those required for wills in England.

6. That the provision in the law of wills of 1851, rendering void in general wills of real estate made within 40 days before the deviser's death, be repealed.

V. LAW OF GUARANTEE, &c.

1. That all property which a guarantor may, after the passing of a law for the purpose, acquire, shall be exempt from liability in respect of his guarantee, after it shall have been conveyed by him or by his representatives to a purchaser for valuable consideration.

2. That in all future contracts, the guarantee to be given therewith shall be construed to affect the property of the grantor, only whilst in his own hands or in the hands of his heirs, but not in the hands of his assigns for valuable consideration, except property specifically mentioned and described.

3. That no rente to be hereafter created shall be irredeemable, except by an express stipulation mentioned in the contract creating it, but in no case for more than five years; and that any stipulation making a rente irredeemable for a longer period shall be void for the excess; that such stipulation may be waived by the mutual consent of the parties; and that, subject to such period, the grantor, his heirs, and assigns, shall be entitled, on giving six months' notice in writing to the rentier, to redeem the whole or any part of the rentes, not being less than a certain amount at any one time, at the same price at which they were granted.

VI. USES AND TRUSTS.

1. That power be given to convey, by a contract inter vivos, real estate upon trust for such objects of a public nature as the Royal Court may approve.

2. That the Court be expressly empowered to enforce the trusts declared in such a conveyance.

3. That the property so conveyed be exempt from the private debts and engagements of the trustees, and from the claims of their widows in respect of dower.

4. That the lord of the manor in which such property is situated, or his tuteur, with the approbation of the Court, be

3. This clause has been rejected by the Committee.

4. A law has been passed by the States embodying this recommendation, and is sent up for the Royal sanction.

5. A Bill is before the States to that effect.

IV.

None of the clauses of this recommendation have met with the concurrence of the Committee. In their opinion, the law as it now stands is more consonant with the feelings of the community. It may be considered, therefore, as set aside for the present.

V.

This is a very complicated question, and requires careful handling. The Advocate-General is engaged in preparing a Bill on the subject, conformable to the decision to which the Committee have come, and it cannot be in better hands.

VI.

The law passed by the States, and which has been for some time before the Privy Council, embodies all the recommendations of the Royal Commissioners.

empowered to sell his seignorial rights; and that, in case of disagreement as to the price, a provision similar to that now in force for assessing, with a view to the extinguishing of seignorial rights over lands taken in mortmain, be made for assessing such rights; and that the lord be compelled to accept such assessment.

5. That Your Majesty's Procureur General should be a party to the proceedings, and should be allowed to urge objections to the proposed trust, or to the form of the proposed contract, before the Court signifies its approbation.

6. That in case of the total or partial failure of the objects, or the occurrence of circumstances which would authorise a modification of the original trust, the Court should have power, on the application of proper parties, with due notice to the trustees and the public, and after hearing the Crown officer, to authorise the application of the trust property and funds to kindred objects, due regard being had to the intentions of the founder.

7. That a measure of this kind should also be applied to joint-stock companies, consisting of not less than a certain number of shareholders, associated for useful purposes of profit.

8. That in lieu of appointing trustees with provisions for supplying vacancies in their number, the Court be empowered to confer on companies formed in conformity with the last preceding recommendation, a corporate capacity, with a limited power to take and hold real estate under a corporate name, and to be represented by a public officer belonging to their own body; but in all other respects to be regulated by the general conditions above suggested.

9. That the measure suggested in the last eight recommendations should embrace donations or purchases of real property by acts inter vivos only, and not by will.

VII. THE LAW RELATING TO HUSBAND AND WIFE.

That the law permitting separation quant aux biens be modified in the following particulars, viz. :—

1. It should be inoperative as a protection, not only against existing creditors, but also against all those to whom there is an accruing liability under any existing obligation, unless by express consent, or by order of the Court, against which the party liable to be affected has had the opportunity of being heard, and of examining the other parties.

2. It ought not to cover property over which the husband has any control in a trade not carried on by the wife exclusively of him.

3. Before it is allowed by the Court, adequate time and publicity should be afforded to enable any persons who may be affected to show cause against it.

VIII.—THE LAW RELATING TO PERSONS UNDER DISABILITY.

1. That where, by reason of the domicile of the deceased in any part of Your Majesty's dominions, in which the power to appoint a testamentary guardian exists, the distribution of the personal estate is different from that fixed by the law of Jersey, the appointment of such a guardian should be allowed to take effect.

2. That every guardian should be bound, on his appointment, to prepare and file in the Royal Court a schedule or inventory of all the property of the minor.

3. That provision be made for an official audit of the guardian's accounts half-yearly during the minority and for the passing of his final account within six months after the majority.

4. That the guardian's accounts, though closed, should be liable to be re-opened at any time within five years, either by the ward himself, by his heirs, or by those entitled on his insolvency.

5. That

VII.

A Bill on this subject is prepared, and will be brought before the Committee at its next meeting; when debated there, it will be laid before the States.

VIII.

I believe that no decision has been come to on the first clause under this head. With respect to the remaining clauses, two Bills have been laid before the States, one relating to persons placed under the guardianship of a curator, the other relating to minors.

5. That the nature and extent of the responsibility of the tutelle be defined.

6. That in inquisitions of lunacy before the Royal Court, there be no restriction as to the number and qualifications of the witnesses; that the actual presence of the lunatic (in all cases requiring it) be imperative; that medical evidence be always required in the first instance; that the alleged lunatic be allowed to contradict the case against him by evidence; and that he be allowed to traverse the inquisition.

7. That persons supposed, by reason of lunacy, to be dangerous to themselves and others, be submitted by the police to medical examination; that authority be given to magistrates, after seeing such lunatics, and on the written report of the medical examiners that restraint is necessary, to direct them to be placed in proper custody; and that restraint by private authority, beyond what is necessary before such proceedings as are here recommended can be taken, be disallowed.

8. The the recommendations submitted with regard to tutelle be extended to curatelle, so far as they are practicable,

9. That a summary method be provided of compelling a procureur to resign his trust, produce and pass his accounts.

IX. THE CONSTITUTION OF THE COURT.

1. That in order to secure regularity of sittings, promote consistency of decision, and distinguish between the political and judicial character, the Royal Court be no longer dependent on the precarious and fluctuating attendance of jurats, but should hereafter consist of three paid judges, of whom the bailiff shall be, ex officio, the president.

2. That such Court shall have large powers to frame rules for the regulation of its sitting and procedure. Such rules, however, to be sanctioned by Your Majesty in Council.

3. That the sittings of the Royal Court during the year be so arranged as that there may be regular vacations of a definite length; one of the three judges, however, being in attendance during such vacations to discharge the duties of the small debts' and police courts, and to deal with such other business as it may be necessary to dispose of without delay.

4. That solicitors and officers of the Court be amenable to its summary jurisdiction for their conduct and accountability.

5. That every bill for professional business be subject to taxation, as a necessary preliminary to its recovery.

6. That the improved Court review the scale of professional fees, in order, among other things, to make it adequate to the fair claims of the legal profession, after needless proceedings have been largely abolished.

7. That it be empowered to punish for contempt without the conclusions of the Crown officer, whose presence should no longer be necessary to constitute a Court.

X. PROCEDURE.

A.—Arrest on Mesne Process and Habeas Corpus.

1. That arrest on mesne process be unlawful, except on proof of cause of action for a demand which will be endangered by defendant's intended departure from the island.

2. That such proof be given either before or (in case of necessity only) immediately after the arrest.

3. That rules for enforcing this be not subject to modification by judicial discretion.

4. That excuses for not bringing up the prisoner at the next sitting of the Court be disallowed.

5. That the propriety of the detention be inquired into without prejudice to plaintiff's right of action.

76. B 6. That

IX.

This has been set aside, the States having decided against the changes recommended.

X.

A.

A law, approved by the Committee, has been laid before the States, and will be discussed at their next meeting; it concurs in effect with the recommendation of the Commissioners, though differing in some of the details.

6. That discharge on security be facilitated.

7. That the rule for the issue of a writ of habeas corpus should not be absolute in the first instance, unless the Court or judge should specially so order.

8. That the certificate of the chief magistrate as to the law and practice of Jersey be admissible on showing cause or otherwise.

B.--Trial.—The Law of Evidence, &c.

1. That parties be allowed (by consent) to resort to trial by jury.

2. That the Court have full power to allow in any part of the particular case the use of such language as it may deem conducive to justice. That parties may claim of right the interpretation of legal instruments and of evidence.

3. That no objection to the evidence of a witness because he has not been summoned be allowed :

4. Nor because he was not present at an assembly of the witnesses to be sworn :

5. Nor on account of kindred or affinity to one of the parties ; if any exception be allowed to this, it should not go beyond the relation of husband and wife :

6. Nor that he is interested in the suit or the question.

7. That in the taxation of costs, encouragement should be given to inquiry by the solicitor previously to trial, as to the materiality of a witness's evidence.

8. That the principle of the English Act, 17 & 18 Vict. c. 125, as regards exemptions from the necessity of taking oaths, be embodied in a legislative measure in the island.

9. That a measure be adopted enabling the Jersey courts to take advantage of the facilities for taking evidence afforded by the English Act, 22 Vict. c. 20.

10. That interlocutory applications be disposed of summarily, on affidavit, unless the Court find it necessary to send them to proof.

11. That no evidence otherwise admissible be excluded, because it was not before the Court below.

12. That no appeal be necessary where the Court shall think fit to reserve a point, in any cause of whatever amount for the consideration of the Appellate Tribunal.

13. That if any appeal to a fuller Court be allowed, it be not barred, in any instance, by the loss of evidence ; but that the parties be at liberty to sustain their respective cases by the best evidence they can adduce, whether formerly adduced, or not.

14. That a copy of evidence taken in the Court below by a sworn short-hand writer, be admitted, both on any intermediate appeal, and before the Judicial Committee of Council.

15. That a motion for an appeal for the revision of a judgment of the Jersey Court, on specific error alleged, be entertained by the Judicial Committee of Council.

16. That interlocutory applications to the Judicial Committee of Council by Doléance (petition in the nature of an appeal), be facilitated.

XI. EXECUTION.

1. That, in order to prevent the recurrence of the scandals and abuses which have arisen from the conflict of executive officers, all compulsory executive process, whether preliminary to or consequent upon orders of Court, be in future performed by the Vicomte or his deputies.

2. That the Denunciateur be merely a summoning officer, except in a case where the Vicomte is personally interested.

B.

None of these recommendations have been adopted by the Committee, except No. 14, as regards the use of a short-hand writer. As regards No. 1, the Commissioners had in view a change in the composition of the Court. As regards No. 2, there is an aversion in the language used in the Royal Court. The law of evidence, as established lately in England, is not deemed applicable to the condition of the island.

With respect to the other points, the present procedure is deemed preferable to that recommended by the Commission.

XI.

The Committee reject the whole of these clauses. They consider that, placing the processes in the hands of the Vicomte and his deputies would be injurious to public interest, and that a recent decision of the Court defines clearly the respective functions and duties of these officers, and is sufficient to avoid in future the conflicts alluded to.

The

3. That neither the Vicomte nor his deputies be allowed to engage in private practice.

The Committee, at the same time, express an opinion that on future appointments that officer ought to discharge the duties of his office in person, and only appoint a deputy to replace him, in case of absence from the island, or illness. But this, I apprehend, could only be effected by the Crown, when granting Letters Patent, as in the case of the Attorney and Solicitor General, who formerly had the power to appoint deputies.

XII. INSOLVENCY.

1. That one arrest only, on behalf of all creditors, be made on the property declared en désastre.

2. As to cession:—

(1.) That proof should be required that the cessionnaire has lain in prison during the prescribed time, before the Court grants his discharge.

(2.) That provision be made for more complete notice to the creditors, including those who may be resident elsewhere than in Jersey.

(3.) That the cessionnaire be required to furnish, on oath, a full and complete schedule or balance sheet, showing in detail, and with full particulars, all his assets and liabilities; and that no debt be barred which is not inserted in such schedule, or omitted by collusion.

(4.) That he be subjected to examination by the Court.

(5.) That rules be established for conducting the proceedings with due publicity.

Nos. XII., XIII., and XIV., have not as yet been taken into consideration by the Committee.

XIII. RELIEF OF THE POOR AND RATING.

1. That an effective periodical audit, by some person unconnected with the parish, be established for all parochial accounts; such officer to be appointed by some independent authority.

2. That the report of such officer be published, and distributed in the parish at the expense of the rate.

3. That such officer also audit the accounts of the Prison Board.

4. That all property be hereafter rated at its full annual value, as ascertained by fresh valuation, subject only to those deductions which may be fairly made for the expenses necessary to maintain that value.

5. That, in order to provide as far as may be for a uniform basis for local taxation and other public objects, a general valuation of all the property in the island be made as early as possible by some disinterested person or persons appointed by some competent authority, such valuation to be periodically revised.

6. That a prompt, inexpensive, and conclusive appeal from assessment be provided to some competent tribunal, on which the fairness and equality of the rate, and not merely the question whether the appellant has been rated on too high an estimate of his estate, may be put in issue.

7. That no poor person be liable to be removed from the Island on the ground of his not being a native, who has resided there without receiving relief for more than a certain number of years.

8. That some legal regulations be adopted for the trade of pawnbrokers, based upon principles similar to those of the English Acts.

XIV. EDUCATION.

A majority of us recommend that steps be taken for the sale of the two endowed schools, and the application of the proceeds (after making due compensation for existing interests) in the promotion of parochial education.

XV.—PRISON.—LUNATIC ASYLUM.

Nos. XV., and XVI. Nothing has been done on these subjects.

1. That steps be taken for the enlargement and improved classification of the gaol.
2. That the respective functions and responsibility of the Vicomte and the Prison Board be defined, and no unwarranted interference with the custody of prisoners be allowed.
3. That measures be adopted with the least practicable delay, for the purpose of making due provision for lunatics, either criminal or others, and that due provision be made for the care of all persons under disability, and of their property.
4. That the establishment of an industrial reformatory school be again taken into consideration.

XVI.—TITHES.

That a commutation of all tithes be effected, with the aid of the general valuation proposed above.

All which we humbly submit to Your Majesty's most gracious consideration.

— No. 7. —

Sir,

Government House, Jersey, 17 January 1862.

WITH reference to and in continuation of my letter of the 16th of December last, in reply to your letter of the previous 4th of October, wherein I stated that I did not think that measures for the amendment of the insular law, and its adaptation to the present state of society, would be submitted by the States to the Queen in Council before the expiration of the current year, nor that the local Legislature would apply itself to the work with an earnestness of purpose which would obviate the further discussion of this matter in the Imperial Parliament, I have now the pleasure to transmit, for Secretary Sir George Grey's information, copies of three important Acts, enumerated in the margin, passed by the States of this island upon the 3d instant, and which have been transmitted for the confirmation of Her Majesty in Council.

"Loi sur les Tuteurs."
 "Loi sur les Curateurs."
 "Loi sur les Saisies."

I have delayed the transmission of these Acts to you until I had obtained from the law officers of the Crown an opinion as to their provisions; and I am happy to state their opinion to be that, though these Acts do not, in all respects, carry out all the recommendations of the Royal Commissioners of 1859-60, they consider them to be, on the whole, an improvement, and that it is desirable that they should be confirmed by Her Majesty in Council.

It is right that I should express to Sir George Grey my opinion, that the adoption of these Acts is a very valuable addition to the previous labours of the States, in fulfilment of their promise to take into early consideration the recommendations of the Criminal and Civil Royal Commissions, with one important exception; but I still consider that a vast deal remains to be effected by the States in order to satisfy public opinion here, and to obviate further discussion of the matter in the Imperial Parliament.

With respect to the chief recommendation of the Civil Royal Commission (namely, the reconstruction of the Royal Court), it is unnecessary that I should here enlarge, since the local Legislature has refused even to entertain such a proposition; but with regard to those recommendations of the two Royal Commissions which the States have pledged themselves to take into consideration, I would remark, that that which relates to the amendment of the criminal procedure is, in my estimation, of the utmost importance, and one which in the interests of a very large English, as well as Jersey population, should be legislated upon without any further delay. I would beg to remark, that this important matter was again brought under the consideration of the States by direction of the Home Office, in consequence of the case of P. Renouf, charged with the violation of a child nine years of age, a case which, in spite of all the efforts of the Bailiff and the Crown officers (such are the defects of the present criminal procedure), spread over a period of 20 months.

I cannot

I cannot better exhibit the moral evils of such protracted proceedings in a criminal case of this sort, than by stating that the father of the child in question assured me that, in consequence of this delay of justice to his infant daughter, it was all he could do to prevent his son, a fine lad of about 19 years of age, from taking the law into his own hands. For my part, I cannot refrain from giving expression to the earnest hope that, through the intervention of the Secretary of State, means may be adopted for the realisation of those amendments in the criminal law and procedure, which have from time to time been fruitlessly brought under the consideration of the local Legislature for the last 13 years.

Act No. 1.

LOI SUR LES TUTEURS.

CONSIDÉRANT qu'il est nécessaire de régler les droits, le pouvoir, et les devoirs des tuteurs, les Etats ont résolu, moyennant la sanction de Sa Très Excellente Majesté en Conseil, d'établir la loi suivante :—

ART. I.—Lorsque le père ne sera pas tuteur de ses enfans, il en aura néanmoins la garde et le soin, à moins que la Cour ne juge que par sa conduite il en doit être privé.

ART. II.—Si la mère, étant veuve, n'est pas tutrice de ses enfans, ils seront confiés à sa garde, et elle en aura le soin, à moins que la Cour ne juge qu'à cause de sa conduite on ne doive pas les lui confier. Les enfans pourront néanmoins être séparés de la mère, si cela devient nécessaire pour leur éducation ou leur établissement. S'il y a différence d'opinion sur ces questions entre la mère d'une part et le tuteur et la majorité des électeurs de l'autre, l'une ou l'autre des parties pourra faire régler le différend par la Cour Royale.

ART. III.—Le tuteur devra, dans les trois semaines de son admission en charge, faire un inventaire de tous les bien-meubles de sa pupille, et dresser un état de la propriété immobilière qui leur appartient. Cet inventaire sera entré dans un livre tenu à cet effet, et il devra être daté et signé par le tuteur et les électeurs. Une copie du dit inventaire et du dit état, dûment signée par le tuteur et les électeurs, sera remise à un des électeurs désigné à cet effet par la tutelle, et il devra appartenir à l'autre ligne que le tuteur, si ce dernier est parent.

ART. IV.—Le tuteur sera tenu de passer annuellement ses comptes de la tutelle avec ses électeurs ; les dits comptes, après qu'ils auront été approuvés par les électeurs, seront datés et signés par le tuteur et les électeurs, et insérés dans le livre où l'inventaire aura été inscrit, et une copie, dûment signée par eux, sera remise à l'électeur désigné en vertu de l'Article III.

Si cet électeur est décédé, les comptes seront remis à un autre électeur, choisi par la tutelle, ainsi qu'il est statué à l'Article III.

Le livre contenant l'inventaire et les comptes sera la propriété de la tutelle.

ART. V.—Si le tuteur omit de remplir ces formalités, il subira une amende de dix livres sterling au moins, et de cent livres sterling au plus.

Il sera également passible de dommages et intérêts, s'il y a lieu, et pourra être destitué par la Cour Royale.

ART. VI. Le tuteur devra, dans les trois mois après l'expiration de sa gestion, passer ses comptes de tutelle ; s'il est remplacé par un autre tuteur, avec le nouveau tuteur et ses électeurs ; et si le mineur est devenu en âge, ou est décédé, avec les électeurs, en présence du ci-devant mineur ou de son héritier. Le tuteur qui refusera de le faire, sera sujet à une amende de dix livres sterling au moins et de cent livres sterling au plus, et sera en outre passible de dommages et intérêts, si la Cour juge qu'il y a lieu.

ART. VII.—Le tuteur sera tenu de payer immédiatement après la passation de ses comptes, au ci-devant mineur ou à son héritier, la balance dont il se reconnoitra redevable. Le ci-devant mineur aura six mois, après la passation des comptes, pour les examiner et faire rectifier les erreurs qui pourraient s'y trouver.

ART. VIII.—Les amendes encourues en vertu du présent règlement seront applicables un tiers à Sa Majesté et deux tiers à l'Hôpital Général.

Act No. 2.

L'an mil huit cent soixante-deux, le troisième jour de Janvier.

LOI SUR LES CURATEURS.

LES Etats, considérant qu'il est nécessaire de protéger les biens appartenant à une personne sous curatelle, et d'assurer la comptabilité des curateurs, ont résolu, moyennant la sanction de Sa Très Excellente Majesté en Conseil, d'établir la loi suivante :—

ART. I.—Un curateur devra, dans les trois semaines de son admission en charge, faire un inventaire exact de tous les biens-meubles de l'interdit, et de dresser un état de sa propriété immobilière.

Cet inventaire et cet état devront être inscrits dans un livre tenu à cet effet; ils seront datés et signés par le curateur et ses électeurs. Une copie, signée par le curateur et ses électeurs, sera remise à un des électeurs choisi par la curatelle; lequel devra appartenir à l'autre ligne que le curateur, si ce dernier est parent.

ART. II.—Le curateur devra passer ses comptes annuellement avec ses électeurs. Ces comptes, après avoir été approuvés, seront datés et signés par le curateur et les électeurs. Une copie dûment signée en sera remise à l'électeur désigné ci-dessus; et s'il est décédé à un autre électeur, choisi comme il est prescrit à l'Article I.

Le livre contenant l'inventaire et les comptes sera la propriété de la curatelle.

ART. III.—Le curateur qui ne remplira pas les formalités exigées par les Articles I. et II., subira une amende de dix livres sterling au moins et de cent livres sterling au plus.

Il sera en outre passible de dommages et intérêts s'il y a lieu, et pourra être destitué par la Cour Royale.

ART. IV.—Le Curateur devra, dans les trois mois après l'expiration de sa gestion, passer ses comptes: s'il est remplacé par un autre curateur, avec ses électeurs en présence du nouveau curateur; si l'interdit a été réhabilité, ou s'il est décédé, le curateur passera ses comptes avec les électeurs en présence de la personne qui était sous curatelle, ou de son héritier.

Les comptes, après avoir été approuvés, seront datés et signés par les électeurs et le nouveau curateur.

Le curateur qui refusera de le faire, sera sujet à une amende de dix livres sterling au moins, et de cent livres sterling au plus; il sera en outre passible de dommages et intérêts, s'il y a lieu.

ART. V.—Le curateur sera tenu, immédiatement après la passation de ses comptes, de payer au nouveau curateur, à celui qui était sous curatelle, ou à son héritier, selon le cas, la balance dont il se reconnaîtra redevable.

Le ci-devant interdit aura six mois après l'approbation des dits comptes, pour les examiner et faire rectifier les erreurs qui pourraient s'y trouver.

ART. VI.—Les amendes encourues en vertu du présent règlement seront applicable un tiers à Sa Majesté et deux tiers à l'Hôpital Général.

AUX ETATS DE L'ILE DE JERSEY.

Act No. 2.

L'an mil huit cent soixante deux, le troisième jour de Janvier.

LOI SUR LES SAISIES.

CONSIDÉRANT les abus qui peuvent résulter du droit qu'a un créancier de faire saisir la personne d'un prétendu débiteur expatriable, les Etats ont résolu, moyennant la sanction de Sa Très Excellente Majesté en Conseil, d'établir la loi suivante :—

ART. I.—Un créancier ne pourra, en vertu d'un ordre provisoire, faire saisir par l'officier de justice la personne de son débiteur expatriable sur une demande non signée par le débiteur, sans avoir fait une déclaration, sous la foi du serment par devant un des magistrats de la Cour Royale que sa demande est bien fondée du meilleur de sa connaissance.

Le compte ou détail de la demande devra être annexé à cette déclaration, qui sera signée par le déclarant et par le magistrat, lequel attestera par sa signature le compte ou la réclamation.

ART. II.—L'officier de justice, lorsqu'il saisira une personne expatriable, sera tenu de délivrer au défendeur une copie du compte en détail de la demande ou réclamation.

Si le défendeur le demande ou l'exige, l'officier sera tenu également de lui délivrer une copie de la déclaration faite devant le magistrat, et l'officier recevra du défendeur trois chélins pour cette copie.

ART. III.—L'acteur sera tenu de produire à la Cour la déclaration avec le record de l'officier lorsque la cause sera traitée.

ART. IV.

ART. IV.—Lorsque l'officier saisira un débiteur, signataire, ou endorser d'un billet à ordre, lettre de change, ou autre effet ou soussigné portant la signature du débiteur, il sera tenu d'en fournir copie au défendeur attestée par ledit officier.

ART. V.—Lorsque la demande, sur laquelle un débiteur expatriable aura été saisi, sera au nom d'une société, un des associés ou gérant de la société pourra faire la déclaration requise par l'Article I.

Un tuteur ou curateur pourra faire la déclaration au nom de son pupille ou de l'interdit, pourvu que la légitime de la réclamation soit à sa connaissance.

Un procureur pourra faire la déclaration pour son constituant si la légitimité du compte ou de la réclamation est à sa connaissance. Si le créancier demeure hors l'île, ou ne pourra, en vertu d'un ordre provisoire, faire arrêter la personne du prétendu débiteur par l'officier de justice, à moins que le créancier n'ait fait un affidavit devant une personne dûment autorisé à administrer serment, dont la signature sera legalisé par une autorité compétente.

Dans tous les cas de saisie à l'instance d'une partie absente du pays de la personne d'un prétendu débiteur, en vertu d'un ordre provisoire, le représentant de l'acteur sera personnellement responsable des frais judiciaires auxquels celui qu'il représente sera condamné.

ART. VI.—Si un créancier a une juste raison de croire que son débiteur va quitter le pays, et qu'il n'y aurait pas le temps de faire la déclaration devant un magistrat de la Cour Royale, l'officier de justice pourra recevoir la déclaration par serment du créancier.

Le créancier et l'officier signeront la dite déclaration; en ce cas, l'officier de justice sera tenu de remettre une copie de cette déclaration au défendeur, et il ne sera nécessaire de délivrer ce détail de la demande que dans les vingt-quatre heures de la saisie.

ART. VII.—Lorsque le chef magistrat signera un ordre de justice autorisant l'officier à saisir la personne d'un débiteur, il pourra exiger que le rémontrant prête serment qu'il croit dans sa conscience que les allégations contenues dans le dit ordre sont fondées.

Le chef magistrat fixera le montant de cautionnement qui devra être fourni.

ART. VIII.—Lorsque la Cour ordonnera, sur la présentation d'une rémontrance, la saisie de la personne du défendeur, elle pourra ordonner que l'acteur prête serment qu'il croit dans sa conscience que les faits contenus dans la dite rémontrance sont fondés.

La Cour fixera le montant du cautionnement que le défendeur devra fournir.

ART. IX.—L'acteur ne pourra faire usage de sa déclaration passée devant le magistrat ou l'officier de justice que pour justifier la saisie de la personne du défendeur; on ne pourra en faire usage pour justifier la réclamation de l'acteur.

ART. X.—Lorsqu'une personne sera saisi en vertu d'un ordre provisoire ou d'un ordre de justice, et incarcérée, elle devra être présentée devant la Cour le premier jour de la Cour du Samedi ensuivant.

Le défendeur pourra obtenir de la Cour un délai de quatre jours au moins pour préparer ses moyens de défense.

ART. XI.—Lorsqu'une personne saisie donnera caution, l'officier de justice constatera par écrit des termes du cautionnement ce qui sera signé par la personne saisie et par la caution.

ART. XII.—Celui qui fera devant un magistrat ou l'officier de justice une déclaration exigée en vertu de la présente loi, sachant qu'elle est fausse, sera coupable de parjure, et puni par amende ou emprisonnement, à la discrétion de justice.

— No. 8. —

Sir,

Whitehall, 24 January 1862.

SECRETARY Sir George Grey has had under his consideration the letter which I addressed to you on the 27th December 1860, relative to the great delay which had taken place in the hearing of the charge of rape against Philip Renouf, and in which I requested you to take an early opportunity of calling the attention of the States to the administration of criminal justice in Jersey, and to the recommendations contained in the Report made by the Commissioners in 1847. A system which admits of the hearing of a criminal case being protracted for a period of 20 months, notwithstanding all the efforts of the Bailiff and the law officers of the Crown to obtain an early decision, is manifestly defective, and ought not to be allowed to continue; and Sir George Grey requests that you will again urge upon the States the immediate fulfilment of their engagement to prepare a law to amend the criminal procedure in the island.

I am, &c.

Major-Gen. Sir R. P. Douglas, Bart.,
&c. &c. &c.

Lieut. Governor, Jersey.

— No. 9. —

EXTRACT from a LETTER of Major General Sir R. P. Douglas Bart., Lieutenant Governor of Jersey, to Mr. Waddington, dated Government House Jersey, 10 March 1862.

Sir George Grey will be gratified with the information contained in the last paragraph of Mr. Dupré's letter, to the effect that there is an immediate prospect of at length attaining the realization of those amendments in the criminal procedure, which are so essential to the due administration of justice in Jersey.

Enclosure in No. 9.

EXTRACT from a LETTER of J. W. Dupré, Esq., Attorney General of Jersey, to the Lieutenant Governor, dated Jersey, 25 February 1862.

Both your Excellency and the Secretary of State are fully aware of the dilatory nature of our criminal proceedings, and how readily they lend themselves to delay and abuses. I have, however, the satisfaction of informing you that the Committee of the States, appointed to consider the reforms in that respect recommended by the Commissioners of 1846, have taken up the subject; that the principles laid down in the Projet de Loi, set forth in the Appendix to the Report, have (with the exception of one, which is still under consideration) been adopted; and that I have every reason to believe that a complete Bill on that important subject will shortly be laid before the States.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Sir,

Dublin, 15 January 1862.

I HAVE the honour to acquaint you, for the information of the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty’s Treasury, that Edward Tandy, Esq., one of the Taxing Masters of the Court of Chancery in Ireland, has departed this life. It devolves on me, as Lord Chancellor, to appoint a duly qualified person in his room, under the provisions to that effect contained in the Statute 11 & 12 Vict. c. 132, s. 2, and I have to ask the consent of their Lordships, according to the terms of that section, to the making of such appointment, there being two Taxing Masters, Messrs. O’Dwyer and Reilly, still continuing in office. I have had a conference with those gentlemen as to the state of business in the office, and they have assured me that it will be totally impossible to carry it on with only two Masters without serious detriment to the public, from the delays and accumulation of untaxed bills of costs, which, in their apprehension, must necessarily ensue. I believe their statement to be perfectly reliable. Mr. Tandy was the youngest and most active of the Masters, and discharged a very large portion of the business of the office. He has left a number of bills still untaxed, which had been lodged in his department in the course of last year, and new bills are being daily lodged in the office. Under these circumstances, I am satisfied that the public service urgently requires the immediate appointment of a successor to Mr. Tandy, and I request the sanction of their Lordships thereto accordingly.

George Alexander Hamilton, Esq.

I have, &c.

My Lord,

Treasury Chambers, 24 January 1862.

I HAVE laid before the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty’s Treasury your Lordship’s letter of the 15th instant, notifying the death of Mr. Tandy, and I am commanded to acquaint you, that, having reference to the Commission recently appointed by Her Majesty, and now engaged in making inquiries respecting the courts of law and equity in Ireland, my Lords hesitate to consent to the appointment of a successor to Mr. Tandy in the office of Taxing Master of the Court of Chancery.

My Lords have to remark, that by the 11 & 12 Vict. c. 132, it is enacted, that each Taxing Master shall hold his office during good behaviour, and my Lords doubt whether it would be consistent with that provision to sanction, as perhaps otherwise they might have sanctioned, an appointment subject to any recommendation that might be made regarding it by the Commissioners, or to any reduction which might be decided upon as the result of their inquiry.

CORRESPONDENCE RELATING TO THE OFFICE OF

My Lords therefore suggest, that any present difficulty might be met by the employment of clerks, under the 30th clause of the Act.

I am to add that, with a view to the further consideration of this matter, my Lords request that your Lordship will cause them to be furnished with copies of the several returns to the 31st December last, presented to your Lordship under the 7th clause of the Act.

I am, &c.
(signed) Geo. A. Hamilton.

The Lord Chancellor of Ireland.

Sir,

Dublin, 29 January 1862.

IN reference to your letter of the 24th instant, on the subject of the vacancy in the office of one of the Taxing Masters of the Court of Chancery in Ireland, I have the honour to transmit herewith, for the information of the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, a letter from John O'Dwyer, Esq., the Senior Taxing Master, to whom I referred your letter, for his observations thereon, and a continuation to the 25th instant of the office business returns already transmitted.

I entirely concur in the opinions of Masters O'Dwyer and Reilly as to the inutility of any attempt to endeavour to supply the place of Master Tandy by the temporary appointment of additional clerks. I am satisfied that I could not find fitly qualified persons to accept such temporary offices, and I could not take upon myself the responsibility of placing in the office such inferior persons as possibly might be found willing to take an employment so uncertain.

Their Lordships will perceive, from the returns, that a large proportion of the chief business of the department was discharged by Master Tandy; and I am very apprehensive that the lodgment of fresh bills for taxation, a matter of daily occurrence, will speedily lead, in the present state of the office, to an increasing accumulation of untaxed costs, to the great delay and detriment of the suitors and officers of the court.

I must therefore solicit the early consideration of this matter by their Lordships, as one which cannot safely wait the report of the pending Commission (a report which possibly may not be completed in the current year), being convinced that the two continuing Taxing Masters will not be able to dispose of the existing and accruing business of the offices, and that it is useless to seek assistance in the employment of temporary clerks.

I have, &c.
(signed) Maziere Brady.

George Alexander Hamilton, Esq.

Taxing Master's Office, Four Courts, Dublin,
27 January 1862.

My Lord,

IN reference to your letter of this day, referring to the letter of Mr. George Alexander Hamilton, Secretary to the Treasury, dated the 24th instant, I beg leave to inform you that I have conferred with Master Reilly, who agrees with me in opinion that there is no possibility of our deriving any assistance from the employment of additional clerks, suggested in Mr. Hamilton's letter.

I think it necessary to state to your Lordship some circumstances relative to this subject.

When I was appointed Taxing Master, under the 8 & 9 Vict. c. 115, Sir Edward Sugden recommended to the Lords of the Treasury that I should have the assistance of two clerks, one as vouching clerk, at 450 l. a year, and the other at 200 l.

I believe Sir Edward gave me the assistance of a vouching clerk because I had been a barrister, and he thought that I should only decide principles, and leave the measuring of documents, and such like matters, to the vouching clerk, subject to my direction and control.

Accordingly, pursuant to the 6th section of that Act, I appointed an experienced solicitor, the late Master Tandy, to be my vouching clerk, and business was carried carried on in that manner from 1845 to 1848; but that mode of doing business proving unsatisfactory, the solicitors induced the then Government to procure the passing of the Act of the 11 & 12 Vict. c. 132, which took away my vouching clerk, and appointed two additional Taxing Masters, Mr. Tandy being named as one in the Act.

The change was, no doubt, very irksome to me; but I am bound to confess that, although two Taxing Masters, with two vouching clerks, could do more business than three Taxing Masters without vouching clerks, yet that the business would not be done as well. It was the opinion of the late Master Tandy, and is the opinion of Master Reilly, that the entire duty of taxation should be done by the Taxing Master himself. If the old system of a vouching clerk were to be resorted to, the expense would be equal to the expense of a third Taxing Master, as the class of persons to be appointed vouching clerks, upon whom great responsibility would rest, and who should be solicitors, should receive, at the least, 400*l.* a year (Master Tandy had 450*l.*, as I said before), so that the expense would be the same.

We do not see how we could get on with temporary clerks, who might be employed pendente the present Commission; persons properly qualified would not accept such temporary employment, and if solicitors, as they ought to be, should discontinue practice altogether, and perhaps be struck off the roll.

Under these circumstances, I trust the Lords of the Treasury will not any longer withhold their assent to the appointment of a third Taxing Master, which Master Reilly and I are convinced the public service requires.

I send herewith a continuation of the Return already furnished to the 31st December 1861 of the business of the three offices, up to and including the 25th instant.

I have, &c.
(signed) John O'Dwyer, Taxing Master.

Right Honourable the Lord Chancellor.

My Lord, Treasury Chambers, 12 February 1862.

I am commanded, by the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, to acquaint your Lordship, that they reluctantly withhold their sanction as regards the appointment of a third Taxing Master of the Court of Chancery, after the expression of opinion contained in your letter of 29th ultimo.

Your Lordship, however, will bear in mind, that the Legislature has imposed upon this Board the duty of exercising a judgment upon the necessity of such appointment, and that, as a Royal Commission is now sitting, whose recommendations may possibly affect the office in question, it behoves this Board to protect the public against a possible claim for compensation in respect of an office held during good behaviour, unless the necessity of the appointment be fully established.

My Lords have caused a statement to be made out of the number of bills taxed, and the amount of those bills, during each year since 1849; and, as appears to their Lordships, whether the business of the Taxing Masters be regarded with reference to the number of bills of costs, or their amount, the diminution is so considerable, as to lead to the inference that the business might be performed by the two Taxing Masters without much inconvenience to suitors until the Commission shall have had the opportunity of considering the branch of the legal establishments in Ireland.

I am to transmit copy of the statement so made out, and I am to request that your Lordship will favour my Lords with any observations you may have to make regarding it.

My Lords will be prepared to sanction any temporary arrangement which your Lordship may recommend for affording clerical assistance to the two Taxing Masters, so as to obviate, as far as possible, any delay or inconvenience in the taxation of costs.

I am, &c.
(signed) Geo. A. Hamilton.

The Lord Chancellor of Ireland.

Sir,

Dublin, 15 February 1862.

I HAVE the honour to transmit herewith, for the information of the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, a communication made to me by the Taxing Masters of the Court of Chancery in Ireland, in reference to your letter of the 12th instant, which I referred to them for their consideration and report. Once more expressing my opinion, that the appointment of a third Taxing Master is indispensable to the due discharge of the business of the office, and that the consequences of the present vacancy cannot be met by any appointment of temporary clerks.

George Alexander Hamilton, Esq.
&c., &c.,

I have, &c.,
(signed) Maziere Brady.

Taxing Master's Office, Four Courts, Dublin,
15 February 1862.

My Lord,

In reference to Mr. George Alexander Hamilton's letter of the 12th instant, we respectfully beg leave to inform your Lordship, that, in obedience to your Lordship's suggestion, we have considered the subject, and are of opinion that no "temporary arrangement" can be made for "affording clerical assistance" to us.

Ordinary clerks are incompetent to discharge the duty of vouching costs, the only way in which we could receive assistance.

That duty would require solicitors of experience and character, who neither could nor would accept of temporary employment; and, in reference to this point, we beg leave to refer to Master O'Dwyer's letter to your Lordship of the 27th ultimo.

We beg to add, that even a slight acquaintance with the process of taxation would show not only the inability of clerical assistance, but its highly injurious effects on the interests of the suitors of the court. By the process of vouching by clerks or assistants, the duty of the Taxing Masters would be to read, in the first instance, the bill of costs, and disallow all those items which are palpably erroneously charged, which is comparatively a very meagre portion of the taxation, leaving it to the assistant to deal with all the rest of the costs, infinitely the most important and essential.

This portion of the costs constitutes and involves the real matter of taxation, for it is only by a thorough investigation and scrutiny of that portion of the costs that a taxation can be said to be effected.

It is only on perusal and scrutiny of the various documents, orders, and proceedings, before the Master and the Court, that it can be ascertained what particular charges, or classes of costs, can be properly chargeable against the suitor or the fund. And this course requires the most serious attention and consideration of the Taxing Master; so that, in point of practice, only one party can tax the costs; every other suggested by the appointment of clerks or assistants would not only be irregular, but, as we have said, highly injurious to the suitors and the funds in court.

We know from experience that it is not possible for two Taxing Masters to discharge the duties of three, even for a short period; and we apprehend, and have reason to believe, that a very long period will elapse before the Commission now sitting shall consider "this branch of the legal establishments in Ireland;" and we feel persuaded that the Commissioners cannot report that a third Taxing Master is unnecessary, or can be dispensed with.

We have further to state, that the late Master Tandy contrived to certify, during the year 1861, so many as 461 bills, amounting to 53,571 l. 3 s. 3 d. If therefore this, or anything like it, be taken as the proportion of costs belonging to his office for the present year, and that it be divided between us two, it would increase our business by, say 200 Bills, amounting to, say 25,000 l. to each of us. Besides it appears, from a small return which I recently furnished to your Lordship, that there was then pending in that office 65 bills, amounting to 8,859 l. 19 s. 6 d. waiting taxation, besides the current business coming in.

With

With regard to the diminution of the business of these offices, as estimated from the returns referred to in Mr. Hamilton's letter, we beg to say that the diminution in the amount of money is by no means a proof of an equal diminution in the amount of labour, for, up to the year 1857, old bills in plenary suits continued to pour in for taxation, and formed a considerable portion of the costs taxed in that and the previous years.

Your Lordship is aware that, in plenary suits, by bill and answer, and proofs on examination by depositions, each item of a bill of costs exceeded greatly in amount corresponding items in cause-petition-matter costs.

Also in a plenary suit, three briefs were allowed on a hearing, and these briefs (included in one item, and composed of all the lengthy pleadings in the cause) amounted to a large sum, while in cause-petition-matters, under the recent practice, only two briefs are allowed, all of small extent and compass, and the amount in money comparatively very small.

The true way to estimate the time consumed and the labour of taxation, would be by reference to the number of items, and the number of pages, and in this view, the diminution of labour of late years would not appear so considerable; but in estimating the diminution of business the document furnished to your Lordship by the Treasury does us, as to one period, a great injustice; in fact, there is a great error in that document as to the year 1861, for it gives credit only for business done that year, as follows:

Master O'Dwyer	-	-	405 Bills	-	-	18,907
Master Tandy	-	-	611 „	-	-	33,917
Master Reilly	-	-	447 „	-	-	20,794
						} including costs of accounting.
						No. 1.

Whereas, in addition to the foregoing:

				£.	s.	d.
Master O'Dwyer's Return contained	137 Bills	-	-	13,398	7	9
Master Tandy's	128 „	-	-	22,406	19	9	No. 2.
Master Reilly's	83 „	-	-	11,481	16	-

So that the business actually done in the year 1861 was,

				£.	s.	d.
By Master O'Dwyer	-	-	542 Bills	-	-	32,305	7 9
By Master Tandy	-	-	739 „	-	-	56,323	19 9
By Master Reilly	-	-	530 „	-	-	32,275	16 -
							No. 3.

The way in which this mistake in the Treasury document occurred was this: Our Return for the year 1861 was framed in a somewhat different manner from the returns of former years; for the prior returns gave in one gross sum the costs taxed by each Master in the year, whereas the Return of 1861 divided the business done by each Master into two parts; the first part stating what amount of costs lodged within the year had been taxed by each Master within that year, that is No. 1, to which we beg leave to refer, in the foregoing table in this letter, including the costs of accounting.

The second part of that return set out the number and amount of bills which had been lodged in former years remaining untaxed, but which were taxed by each Master within the year 1861, and this is No. 2 of the foregoing Table.

We send a copy of the Return for 1861, in which are marked the parts referred to, in red ink, A. and B., and your Lordship will see that B. No. 2, is omitted altogether in the Treasury document.

Note—The words and figures written with red ink in the original are printed in italics.

In conclusion, we beg leave to say that we would be most happy and anxious to do everything in our power to lessen the inconvenience to suitors caused by the delay in appointing a successor to the late Master Tandy, but we feel satisfied that it is impossible, which we greatly regret.

We have, &c.

and Master Reilly,

John O'Dwyer.

The Right Hon. the Lord Chancellor,
&c. &c.

My Lord, Treasury Chambers, 21 February 1862.

I have laid before the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, your Lordship's letter of the 15th instant, transmitting a communication from the Taxing Masters of the Court of Chancery, Ireland, further relative to the appointment of a third Taxing Master; and I am commanded to acquaint you, that my Lords regret the error which was inadvertently made in the figures, with regard to the amount of business in 1861.

Their Lordships however have to observe, that, even with the return corrected, the average number and amount of the bills taxed since 1858 yearly, is very nearly less, by one-third, than the averages for nine years before 1858.

At the same time, after the reiterated expression of your Lordship's opinion with regard to the necessity of filling up the present vacancy in the office of Taxing Master, my Lords will no longer object to an appointment being made on the present occasion, and they give their sanction accordingly, under the 11th and 12th Vict. c. 132.

My Lords, however, desire it may be understood that they reserve the power of examining fully into the amount of business done in the Taxing Masters' offices, with a view to a future reduction; and that the sanction now given, with reference to the present vacancy, is not to be taken as any admission on the part of this Board, that the number of Taxing Masters is to be retained at three on the occasion of a future vacancy.

I am, &c.

MINUTES of Proceedings of the Board of Governors of the Limerick District Lunatic Asylum at Monthly Meeting held 4 January 1862.

Right Worshipful William L. Joynt, Mayor, in the Chair.

THE Honourable S. E. Spring Rice having stated to the Board that he had applied to the Board of Control on behalf of the committee of this Board, for reconsidering the books and the regulations of the asylum, for a copy of the draft rules now under consideration of Her Majesty's Privy Council, and deeming the same to be essential to the further proceedings of the committee; but he regretted to add that his application had not been attended with success:

Proposed by Henry Maunsell, Esq., seconded by Michael R. Ryan, Esq., and—

Resolved,—That this Board do apply to the Board of Control for a copy of the intended regulations for lunatic asylums now under the consideration of Her Majesty's Privy Council, in order that the same may be considered by this Board, and such representations or suggestions made as may appear desirable, and that Mr. Mayor, as chairman, do write therefor.

Sir,

Dublin Castle, 25 January 1862.

In reply to yours of the 4th inst., enclosing copy of a resolution of the Board of Governors of the Asylum, I am directed by the Commissioners of Control to inform you that the new rules referred to have only now passed the Privy Council, and that copies of them will shortly be sent to all the district asylums in Ireland.

I am, &c.
To the Mayor of Limerick. (signed) R. M. Ardagh, Secretary.

Sir,

Mount Trenchard, Foynes, 28 February 1862.

I HAVE to request you to lay before his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant the resignation of my seat as a Governor of the Limerick District Lunatic Asylum.

Within the last few months an application was made by the Board of Governors requesting to be furnished with a copy of the rules then under consideration, which it was proposed to issue for their guidance. With this request the Irish Government did not comply, and a similar refusal to a similar request was, I am told, given to the Board of Governors of the Cork Asylum.

Upon this point I will only here remark that, in England, the rules of the local institutions are framed by the local governors, subject to the approval of the Secretary of State, and that I am at a loss to understand why the Irish gentlemen of similar position are insulted by being refused all information until a body of rules is thus made imperative upon them by his Excellency in Council. I have now had an opportunity of examining the new rules and the system they establish. They contain matter which I strongly disapprove, and omit matter which I think of essential consequence. But if not of more ultimate importance, it is of more primary necessity that I should consider the position in which I find myself placed in common with all other Governors of Asylums in Ireland. Our position is, that having been pronounced unfit to be consulted as to the rules to be imposed, we are, for the administration of those rules, placed practically under the control of the inspectors. Now, I am of opinion that if the State needs clerks to carry out the instructions of Drs. Nugent and Hatchell, and make reports and returns to them, the State can afford to pay clerks for the performance of that drudgery; and I consider it simply absurd to expect its execution by the peers, bishops, privy councillors, and principal gentlemen of the district, whose position entails on them many duties, and who in many cases reside at such a distance from the asylum as makes their attendance at Board meetings most inconvenient.

I have, &c.

(signed) Stephen Spring Rice.

Major General Sir Thomas Larcom, R.E., K.C.B.

Sir,

Dublin Castle, 4 March 1862.

HAVING laid before the Lord Lieutenant your letter of the 28th ultimo, resigning your seat as Governor of the Limerick District Lunatic Asylum, I am directed to acquaint you that his Excellency accepts with regret the resignation you have felt it necessary to tender.

His Excellency desires me to observe that, in declining to send the rules to the Board of Governors prior to their approval, he stated the reasons on which he was advised to come to that conclusion, and his Excellency desires me to assure you that nothing could be further from his intention than to offer or imply any slight on the Board of Governors.

I have, &c.

(signed) Thos. A. Larcom.

The Honourable Stephen E. Spring Rice,
Mount Trenchard, Foynes.

Sir,

Limerick District Lunatic Asylum,
6 May 1862.

I HAVE the honour to transmit to you, for the information of his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, the accompanying Minute, and Report of the Committee, of the Board of Governors of the Limerick District Lunatic Asylum, referring to the Privy Council rules and regulations for management of the institution, having been directed to do so by the Board.

I have, &c.

(signed) James Bodkin,

To the Chief or Under Secretary,
The Castle, Dublin.

Clerk and Storekeeper.

MINUTES of Proceedings of the Board of Governors of the Limerick District Lunatic Asylum at Monthly Meeting held Saturday, 3 May 1862.

PRESENT:

Heffernan Considine, Esq., in the Chair.

Henry Maunsell, Esq.
Sir Vere de Vere, Bart.

Stephen E. de Vere, Esq.
Michael R. Ryan, Esq.

THE following resolutions were proposed by H. Considine, Esq., seconded by S. E. de Vere, Esq.:—

1st. Resolved, That the report of the Committee of this Board on the new Code of Rules and Regulations be approved, adopted, and entered on the minutes of our proceedings.

2d. Resolved, That the Board having carefully considered the report of the Committee, cannot but perceive that the governors of lunatic asylums, men selected by the Crown for experience in business, and for that responsibility which arises from their social position, are collectively placed by the new rules in a situation unsuited to their office, and detrimental to their powers of usefulness.

The governors are placed in subordination to a single Government officer, who under the former code was specifically placed "under the direction of the Board."

The responsibility of this officer is no longer to the governors; it is to the inspectors, and to them alone.

At the same time that the due authority of the governors has been diminished, alterations have been made in the rules defining the duties of the resident superintendent, which diminish the wholesome checks previously in force for securing the due performance of his functions.

The functions of Boards of Gaol Superintendence, and of Boards of Guardians, are in many respects analogous to those of Boards of Governors of Lunatic Asylums, and the Legislature has wisely confided to gaol and Poor Law Boards the selection and appointment of officers, the absolute power of concluding contracts, and, in a word, that free exercise of their powers, which proves that the State looks upon men entrusted with local administration as worthy to be trusted, whilst the "new code" breathes throughout a spirit of unwise and derogatory distrust. This has been so keenly felt by a most valued member of our Board as to induce his retirement.

The Governors of the Limerick District Lunatic Asylum have no personal motive for retaining their seats at the Board. As a public duty they accepted them, and as a public duty are willing to retain them, so long, and so long only, as that position may enable them to be of use; but it is equally their public duty to protest, as they do, against regulations which limit their honourable independence in the administration of their own local funds, and which control the legitimate exercise of their judgment in the discharge of their functions.

3d. Resolved, That the Board think it desirable upon the present occasion to direct the attention of the Government mainly to the injurious tendency of the new rules and regulations; they think it right to declare their conviction that justice and sound policy require that the powers of the Boards of Governors should not be less than those of gaol superintendence and Boards of Guardians, and that the principles of self-government should be effectually and substantially carried out.

4th. Resolved, That the report of the Committee, adopted by this Board, be transmitted by our clerk to the chief secretary, to be by him submitted to his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, with the expression of the anxious desire of this Board that his Excellency will cause the new Code of Rules and Regulations to be carefully reconsidered, with a view to giving effect to the numerous suggestions embodied in the report of the committee; suggestions involving many important questions both of principle and of detail, for which the Board respectfully refers his Excellency to the report itself.

5th. Resolved, That no public duty appeals so strongly to our humanity as the due management of our lunatic poor. Our lunatic establishments are maintained at an enormous cost, and that cost is supplied by local taxation. Their administration has been confided to local Boards of the highest character and most eminent position.

It is the earnest hope of the governors that a change in the system, opposed to the spirit of modern legislation, will not be now made, which must have the effect of diminishing the interest which such local bodies feel in providing for the wants of their own lunatic poor, and may have the effect of ultimately transferring their functions to less worthy hands.

6th. Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be transmitted, together with the report, to his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant.

(signed) H. Considine, Chairman.

3 May 1862.

REPORT.

THE Committee appointed by the Board of Governors of the Limerick District Lunatic Asylum, for the purpose of examining the Revised Code of Rules and Regulations, and reporting to the Board how such rules might and ought to be amended, have considered the revised code, and compared the same with the rules heretofore in force.

Your Committee cannot but see with regret that the general tendency of the new general rules is to diminish the influence and discourage the exertions of local governors, to increase unduly the power of the resident superintendent, and to render it more irresponsible.

The rules heretofore in force were confessedly defective, and the governors of lunatic asylums might have expected that their errors would have been corrected and their deficiencies supplied in a new and revised code. Such, unfortunately, has not been the case. The new rules afford evidence of want of careful consideration, and many omissions, many errors of detail, and some most important errors of principle, are to be found in them, which your Committee proceed to lay before you.

1. The first general rule of the old code, 1843, reiterated by the order of 1844, and which provided for two general meetings for a general examination into the affairs of the establishment, and the revision of the accounts, has not been re-enacted. Such a periodic and deliberate examination appears to be usual, and in the opinion of the Committee advantageous.

2. Rule 1. New code provides for an inspection of the establishment by two or more governors on a certain day. Your Committee fear that this rule may be held to limit the power of the governors to visit and inspect the establishment at other times.

Rule 20 gives to the resident superintendent uncontrolled authority over the establishment, and he might refuse admission to the governors at any time, except that appointed by rule 1. Your Committee submit that it is most important that the governors' right to visit should be prescribed without limitation.

3. Rule 4. Your Committee do not object to their minutes being transmitted to the inspectors for their information, but they submit that the words "for their information" should be inserted after the word "inspectors" in the third line.

Your Committee are strongly convinced that the quarterly accounts and estimates should not be transmitted to the inspectors, but that an auditor should be sent down to audit the accounts of the establishment at certain fixed periods, a course which has worked satisfactorily in the administration of the poor laws.

4. Rule 5. Your Committee object, in the strongest manner, to this rule, which is not to be found in the former code. The Board of Governors are competent to examine tenders for contracts, and to accept or reject them upon their responsibility. This is a duty which they, and they alone, can properly perform, and it is highly derogatory to their character that they should be required to transmit to the inspectors, "for their information and approval," the tenders, whether accepted or rejected, which have been opened and signed by the Chairman. Your Committee protest strongly against the petty distrust, which has no precedent in the proceedings of Boards of Guardians or presentment sessions. The acceptance of a tender, and the completion of the contract thereon, ought, of course, to be entered on the minutes, as part of the proceedings of the day.

With regard to the portion of the rule which provides that receipts for disbursements duly authenticated by the Board shall be sent to the Commissioners of Audit in London, your Committee suggest that it should be the duty of the auditor, who should be periodically sent down to examine the accounts, to forward those vouchers when he had himself used them for verification of the accounts.

5. Rule 6. "The general dietary shall be regulated by the Board," &c.; your Committee think that the following words should be introduced after the word Board, "with the advice of the resident superintendent."

6. Rule 7. The description of the application papers is awkward, and not very intelligible. Instead of "in the prescribed form, to the satisfaction of the Board," your Committee propose to substitute the words, "in such form as the Board shall prescribe." No form is prescribed in the general rules.

7. Rule 8. Your Committee propose to add to this rule the following words: "But it shall be in the power of any three governors, in case of urgency, to order the admission of a lunatic, certified as such by a registered physician or surgeon, and for whom papers of application are filled up, who shall be provisionally admitted until next Board, unless the resident superintendent shall see good reason to refuse, in which case he shall lay the application, and his reason for refusing the same, before the next Board."

8. Rule 12. Your Committee propose to re-insert, at the end of this rule, the proviso contained in the analogous rule of the code 1843: "The physician is authorised to order deviations from this rule in individual and exceptional cases."

9. Rule 18. Your Committee recommend the insertion of a proviso enabling the resident superintendent to alter the hours in individual and exceptional cases.

10. Rule

10. Rule 14: This rule provides for the appropriate placing of the patient when admitted. The duty is imposed upon the resident superintendent, or, "if he shall be absent on leave, the consulting physician." Your Committee remark that rules 28 and 33 (post) are not sufficient to ensure the attendance of the latter officer in the absence of the resident superintendent.

11. Rule 15 properly gives the inspectors, between the meetings of the Board, a power to order the discharge of a patient. Your Committee propose to expunge the words, "except at the request of the resident superintendent," being of opinion that the inspectors should in no case discharge without a personal inspection; and your Committee further propose to append to the rules the following words: "And every such discharge, and the circumstance attending the same, shall be reported by the inspectors to the next Board."

12. Rule 18. Your Committee are of opinion that a removal from the central asylum to the district asylum should be reported to the governors 10 days before it is carried into effect.

13. Rule 20. Your Committee remark with the greatest regret that the wording of the old rule (16) has been here materially altered by the omission of the words, "under the direction of the Board."

The Committee feel that the rule as drawn frees, and was intended to free, the resident superintendent from all responsibility to the Board of Governors, and is founded on an entire misapprehension of their respective positions; and the Committee recommend that the words, "under the direction of the Board," be inserted after the word "shall" in the first line.

14. Rule 21. Your Committee had considerable doubt whether the servants ought not to be hired by the Board, but they are willing to vest that power in the hands of the resident superintendent, as more practically convenient; but the rule should be drawn as the analogous rule (66) of the code of 1843, beginning thus: "As the manager is responsible for the character, conduct, and qualifications of all servants of the asylum." These words have been omitted in the Revised Code, and should be restored. Your Committee are also of opinion that the resident superintendent shall not have any absolute power of dismissal without the sanction of the Board.

15. Rule 26. Your Committee are of opinion that the provisions of this rule respecting the absence of the resident superintendent are not satisfactory; an asylum for lunatics should never be without a head. Under rule 26 the resident superintendent may be absent at any time during the day, or for the whole day; nor is there anything in the other rules, or the duties prescribed by them, which would enforce his attendance.

Under the code of 1843 the manager was obliged to inspect the whole establishment daily, and to inspect every patient personally, before 12 o'clock. He was obliged to walk through the galleries every night, and to see that the patients were properly placed; and he was obliged to examine the dining-rooms during meal hours, and to observe the state of the provisions. Under the Revised Code he is similarly bound to make a morning and a night inspection, but the rule as to attendance at meal times not being re-enacted, the superintendent has it in his power to absent himself without leave, from an early hour in the morning to a late hour at night, without the positive neglect of any prescribed duty.

Your Committee remark that, as the rule is drawn, no substitute is provided in case of the superintendent's absence, except the matron. The superintendent, when about to be absent, must indeed inform the consulting physician; but by rule 33 (post) the consulting physician is only obliged to attend when required by the resident superintendent.

Your Committee cannot acquiesce in a state of things which may place the male lunatics, for many hours, under the insufficient charge of a female, nor can they advise that the resident superintendent should be empowered to require the consulting physician to occupy his place, and to perform his duties as often and as long as he chooses to absent himself, the consulting physician having no residence within the establishment.

Your Committee recommend the alteration of the rule to the following terms:—"He shall reside constantly in the asylum. He shall never be absent from the asylum at the same time as the matron, nor ever for more than four hours without special leave from the Board of Governors, who shall provide such temporary substitute as they shall think necessary; and upon every absence he shall enter in the book the date and period, and inform the consulting physician, who for the time shall exercise a general supervision over the establishment."

16. Rule 27.—Books of the establishment.—This rule prescribes the books to be kept, but not the forms in which they should be kept. Your Committee suggest that, to insure accuracy and simplicity in the books of each asylum, as well as uniformity, as between the books of the different district asylums, printed form books should be furnished to each establishment, and charged for at a fixed price, such forms being first revised, as those now in use are open to objections, and involving too much detail to be here discussed.

17. Rule 29. Your Committee conceive that contracts and bonds should be made in the name of the Board of Governors, unless there be some legal objection. At the end of the rule your Committee propose to insert the words, "reporting all such cases to the next Board."

18. Rule 30. The reports of the resident superintendent should be in writing, and should become matter of record. They should be prepared from an official journal, to be kept by him, and submitted to the Board, in which should be contemporaneously entered all matters which shall be a proper matter of report to the Board, and all occurrences connected with the discipline of the establishment.

In the code of 1843 such a book is clearly contemplated. Amongst the books enumerated is a "memorandum book, to be laid before each Board, in which an entry shall be made of all matters to be submitted for consideration, as well as a communication from the manager to the Board, in order that such communications may remain on record, with the decision of the Board thereon, to be noted in the margin by the chairman."

This description, though accounts and minutes, does not fully comprehend all that your Committee recommends, but in the Revised Code this book is omitted, and the following substituted:—"The memorandum book for such observations and reports as any of the governors or officers may think fit to insert in it;" and even this the resident superintendent is not enjoined to keep. He shall merely be careful that it be kept with regularity, and be at all times ready for inspection.

19. Rule 39. Your Committee submit that the rules defining the powers and duties of chaplains are not sufficient for securing due liberty for the performance of their functions. Certain supplementary rules were issued by the Lord Lieutenant and Privy Council in 1853, amongst which we find the following:—"That the respective Boards of Governors, the managers and matrons of district lunatic asylums in Ireland, do afford every facility to the admission of the several chaplains appointed thereto, in order to enable them to officiate according to their respective creeds, and to afford religious instruction and consolation to all patients, except such as shall be declared by the physician to be unfit and incapable of understanding the nature of the service and of appreciating the effects of religion."

Your Committee suggest that this rule be re-enacted, changing the word "managers" into "resident superintendents," and the word "physician" into "resident superintendent," and that the latter paragraph of rule 39 (New Code) should then stand thus:—"The chaplains are to attend on Sundays and holidays to officiate according to their respective creeds. They are to visit the institution once in the week at least. They are sedulously to avoid all occasions of controversy. In case of illness he shall attend when called on. Each chaplain is to keep a book at the asylum, giving the result of his religious ministrations, to be submitted to the Board at its meetings, and to be retained in the office."

20. Rule 50. Your Committee propose that the apothecary shall be enjoined to keep a stock-book, which he shall submit quarterly to the resident superintendent duly balanced, and the resident superintendent shall thereupon compare the book with the stock on hand, and sign it, if convinced of its being correct.

21. Rule 51. The corresponding rule of code 1843 (rule 58) places the clerk "under the control of the Board and direction of the manager," whereas the revised rule places him solely "under the directions of the resident superintendent." Your Committee conceive that this is not the relation in which the Board should be placed with their clerk, and suggest that the following words, "he shall perform his several duties under the control of the Board and under the directions of the resident superintendent," shall be prefixed to the rule, and that the words, "under the direction of the resident superintendent," be cancelled in the first and second lines.

22. Rule 57. The duty of observing the patients at their meals, and judging whether they have received their regular allowances, is by the Revised Code transferred from the manager (now resident superintendent) to the clerk. Your Committee cannot see this a judicious change. The duty is one which eventually belongs to the manager of an institution, who should attend daily at meals.

23. Rule 90. Your Committee can appreciate the propriety of that part of this rule which leaves to the inspectors the solving of any difficulty which may arise in the interpretation of these rules; but cannot perceive why misunderstandings between officers should be referred to the inspectors, and not to the Board of Governors, to whom they are primarily responsible.

24. Rule 91. The words, "or to any other subject of importance," are too vague, and should be either defined or omitted. The enactment, that no resolution of the Board affecting the discipline or management of an asylum, even though conformable with the rules now promulgated, shall take effect until submitted through the inspectors to the Chief Secretary, and approved by the Lord Lieutenant, is derogatory to the Board of Governors, and even takes away from them the power of enforcing and carrying out the rules themselves.

Your Committee have been unable to find any such rule in the code of 1843, or its subsequent revisions. Your Committee have to remark, in conclusion, that the foregoing criticisms and suggestions would have been made with much greater satisfaction, and a more sanguine hope of their leading to useful results, if they could have been offered before the promulgation of the Revised Code of Rules; and they must express their deep regret that the request of the Board of Governors, forwarded to the Board of Control on the 4th of

January,

January, asking that they shall be furnished with a copy of the contemplated alterations, was not complied with.

April 20. Committee met.

Right Rev. Dr. Butler, in the chair.

Michael R. Ryan, Esq.
Stephen E. de Vere, Esq.

The foregoing report, as amended, was unanimously adopted.

Adopted unanimously.

Sir,

Dublin Castle, 26 May 1862.

I AM directed by the Lord Lieutenant to acquaint you, for the information of the Governors of the Limerick District Lunatic Asylum, that the copy of minutes of proceedings at their monthly meeting held on the 3d instant, and copy of report therein referred to, transmitted by the clerk and storekeeper of the asylum by order of the Board, for his Excellency's information, on the 6th instant, have been referred to the Commissioners of Control of Lunatic Asylums, for their report on the objections made by the Board of Governors to the general rules and regulations issued by his Excellency in Council.

His Excellency finds that those objections are, in several instances, founded on misapprehensions of the meaning of the particular rules referred to, while the opinion expressed by the Board as to the general tendency of the rules, is altogether unsustained.

1. The governors complain that the rules do not provide for "two general meetings for a general examination into the affairs of the establishment, and the revision of the accounts." To this it is answered, that such a regulation would be useless. The 1st rule requires the Board to "examine into all fiscal details and the general management of the asylum," once in every month.

2. The governors fear that the first rule, requiring an inspection of the asylum by two governors on the day of their monthly meeting, "may be held to limit the power of the governors to visit and inspect the establishment at other times;" and that the 20th rule, "that the resident medical superintendent shall superintend and regulate the whole establishment," would enable that officer to "refuse admission to the governors at any time, except that appointed by Rule 1." For such an interpretation of these two rules there appears no ground whatever.

3. The governors desire the insertion of the words, "for their information," in Rule 4, requiring the minutes of proceedings of the Board to be transmitted to the inspectors. As the object of transmission of the minutes is obviously the information of the parties to whom they are transmitted, the words suggested appear superfluous.

The governors object to the transmission (required by the same rule) of the quarterly accounts and estimates to the inspectors, and suggest that an auditor should be sent down to audit the accounts at fixed periods, a course which they say "has worked satisfactorily in the administration of the Poor Laws."

On these points the governors appear to have overlooked the fact, that the expenditure of the asylums is provided for by quarterly issues from the Consolidated Fund, under the authority of orders of the Lord Lieutenant in Council. It is indispensable that estimates of such expenditure be received and examined previously to ordering the issue. Such an estimate, accompanied by a very general abstract of account on the same sheet of the expenditure of the past quarter, has been hitherto transmitted from every asylum either to the inspectors or to the clerk of the council, by whom it has been referred to the inspectors for examination; and the rule therefore requires nothing new. The question of auditing the accounts of the asylum is totally distinct. They are audited, like those of all departments and institutions receiving money from the Consolidated Fund, by the Commissioners of Audit in London.

4. The governors object to the 5th rule, requiring "all tenders for contracts, whether accepted or rejected," to be forwarded to the office of the inspectors for examination and approval. The practice has for many years been in accordance with this rule, the Commissioners of Audit requiring that the acceptance of tenders by the governors should be approved by the Privy Council, to whom they have been submitted by the inspectors.

The part of this rule which requires that "receipts for disbursements, duly authenticated by the Board, shall be sent to the Commissioners of Audit in London," merely recognises what is required (as already stated) from every department and institution receiving money from the Consolidated Fund.

5. In Rule 6, directing that "the general dietary shall be regulated by the Board," the governors desire to add, "with the advice of the resident superintendent." This addition appears quite unnecessary, as the governors would naturally take the advice of that officer on such a subject.

6. In Rule 7, the governors desire to substitute in regard to application papers, for the words, "in the prescribed form, to the satisfaction of the governors," the words, "in such form as the Board shall prescribe." There being a form already in use, which includes all the particulars necessary to be stated, this alteration appears unnecessary.

7. The governors propose that, in addition to the other provision made for the admission of patients, three governors should be empowered, in case of urgency, to order the admission of a lunatic certified, &c., who shall be provisionally admitted, unless the resident medical superintendent shall see good reason to refuse. The provision made in the rule for cases of urgency appears much more simple and suitable than that proposed, the signatures of three governors not being easily procurable in such cases, and the admission, when ordered by them, being proposed to be made ultimately dependent on the resident medical superintendent.

8. At the end of Rule 12, relating to the hours of rising and retiring, the governors propose to insert a sentence which is already inserted.

9. In the same rule, the governors recommend that the resident superintendent be empowered to alter the hours in individual and exceptional cases. As the resident medical superintendent is by Rule 20th "entrusted with the general medical treatment of the inmates, for whose well-being he is responsible," he must be understood to possess the power desired by the governors to be expressly given to him.

10. The governors remark in reference to Rule 14, that Rules 26 and 33 are not sufficient to insure the attendance of the consulting and visiting physician, in the absence of the resident medical superintendent. On this point, the opinion of the governor, it is hoped, will be found to be erroneous.

11. The governors object to the words, "except at the request of the resident medical superintendent," in the part of Rule 16, empowering the inspectors to order the discharge of a patient. There appears no reason to expect that this provision for a possible case of urgency will, in practice, be found objectionable. The governors also suggest that the inspectors should report to the Board of Governors every discharge ordered by them. The inspectors, not being officers of the Board of Governors, could not be required so to report. The report would be made by the resident medical superintendent.

12. Rule 18. The suggestion of the governors, that a removal from the central asylum to the district asylum should be reported to the governors 10 days before it is carried into effect, is impracticable, and, as the governors only meet once a month, would be useless. Such removals will, of course, take place only when there are vacancies.

13. The governors recommend that the words, "under the direction of the Board," be inserted in Rule 20, which directs that the resident medical superintendent shall superintend and regulate the whole establishment; and say, that the omission of those words frees, and was intended to free, that officer from all responsibility to the Board. A simple reference to Rules 26, 28, 30, and 31, may suffice suffice to show that the governors have altogether mistaken both the effect and the intention of Rule 20.

14. The governors complain of the omission in Rule 21 of the words in the analogous rule of 1843, "as the manager is responsible for the character, conduct, and qualification of all servants of the asylum." These words appear to have been properly omitted, as one person can scarcely be said to be responsible for the character and conduct of others.

15. The governors do not think the provisions of Rule 26, as to the absence of the resident medical superintendent, satisfactory, and propose to insert a provision that he shall never be absent for more than four hours without special leave from the Board of Governors. The present rule is quite as strict as the corresponding rule of 1843, to which no objection has ever been made by the Board of Governors, except in empowering the inspectors to give leave of absence in the interval of the meetings of the Board. To require the leave of the Board (which only meets monthly) for any absence of more than four hours, appears most objectionable.

16. On Rule 27, the governors observe that the books to be kept are prescribed, but not the forms, and that the forms at present in use should be revised. To this there appears no objection.

17. On Rule 29, the governors think that contracts should be made in the name of the Board of Governors. For all legal objects, it is better that they be made in the name of the head officer of the institution.

18. The governors desire that the reports of the resident medical superintendent should be in writing, should become matter of record, and be prepared from an official journal kept by him, and submitted to the Board. They refer in illustration to the memorandum book required to be kept by the rules of 1843. A similar book is required by the present rules.

19. The governors suggest alterations of Rule 39 with the view of securing to the chaplains due liberty for the performance of their functions. The rule as it now stands appears to secure to them all the liberty that can practically be required.

20. On Rule 50, the governors propose a stock book to be kept by the apothecary. It does not appear necessary to provide for this by a rule.

21. The governors think that the clerk and storekeeper, being required by Rule 51 to attend daily in the office under the direction of the resident medical superintendent, is withdrawn from the control of the Board. There appears no ground for this complaint. In the daily minute duties of the clerk and storekeeper it is impossible that he can be actually controlled by the members of the Board, who are necessarily seldom present in the asylum, but, in common with all the other officers, he is under the general authority of the Board.

22. The governors think that the duty of observing the patients at their meals, and judging whether they have received their regular allowances, should be performed by the resident medical superintendent, not (as by Rule 57) by the clerk and storekeeper. It is not anticipated that any injurious effects will result from this change.

23. On Rule 90, the governors "cannot understand why misunderstandings between officers should be referred to the inspectors and not to the governors."

It is to be observed that the "misunderstandings" which are to be so referred, relate "to their respective duties, and the mode of carrying them out, or to the meaning of the foregoing rules." The governors say that they can appreciate the propriety of that part of the rule which leaves to the inspectors the solving of any difficulty which may arise in the interpretation of the rules. The ground of their objection, therefore, is not quite apparent.

24. The governors object to that part of Rule 91 which requires that questions relating to any subject of importance shall not be taken into consideration without a month's previous notice.

This provision appears necessary, in order to secure due deliberation. The governors also object to resolutions affecting the discipline and management of the asylum asylum being suspended until they have been approved by the Lord Lieutenant. They state that this takes away from them the power of enforcing and carrying out the rules themselves. In this the governors appear to misapprehend the meaning of the rule, which could never be held to apply to the mere ordinary details of business of the asylum. The rule was framed in consequence of irregularities in the mode of procedure of some Boards of Governors, and will not, it is believed, be found in practice to work inconveniently.

In regard to the statements in the resolutions of the governors, that they "are placed in subordination to a single Government officer, who under the former code was specifically placed under the direction of the Board;" that "the responsibility of this officer is no longer to the governors; it is to the inspectors, and to them alone;" and that "the new code breathes throughout a spirit of unwise and derogatory distrust;" the Lord Lieutenant desires to assure the Board that nothing could be farther from the intentions of his Excellency and the Council than to diminish the respect justly due to the station and authority of the governors.

COPY of CORRESPONDENCE between the Chief or Under Secretary for Ireland and the Board of Works, since the removal of the Landed Estates Court to the Four Courts, Dublin, in 1660, with reference to an additional Court, or further accommodation for the JUDGES and OFFICERS of the LANDED ESTATES COURT.

The Commissioners of Public Works to the Under Secretary.

Sir, Office of Public Works, Dublin, 12 May 1860.

WITH reference to your letter of the 21st January 1860, directing the Board to communicate with Judge Keatinge on the plan proposed for providing him with a court at the Four Courts,—

I have the honour to state, for the information of his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, that the Board have submitted to him a plan for a court and offices on the two upper floors of the wing intended to be erected in connexion with the building erected for the Landed Estates Department, lately completed and occupied.

This plan Judge Keatinge generally approves of.

It was originally intended to have a very large court in this wing for the use of the Landed Estates Judges in carrying on sales by auction, but this intention was abandoned by Judge Martley.

At present there are three courts provided for the judge of the Landed Estates Department; two of superior description, and the third is a large room measuring 24 ft. 9 in. by 21 ft. 4½ in., and fitted up in the usual way as a court.

If these should suffice, there appears to be no difficulty in the way of the arrangement proposed for Judge Keatinge's accommodation, with a very little increase of expense beyond that estimated for accommodating the Landed Estates Department.

Major General Larcom, R. E.,

The following three letters are subjoined, in explanation of the reference in the foregoing letter, to the Under Secretary's letter of the 21st January 1860.

(11,445.)

The Under Secretary to Commissioners of Public Works.

Gentlemen,

Dublin Castle, 6 January 1860.

I AM directed by the Lords Justices to transmit to you copy of an application from the Judge of the Court of Probate, for the erection of a suitable building for the sittings of that Court; and I am to request that you will furnish me, for their Excellencies' information, with an estimate of the expense of providing the accommodation required; and also to state whether any one of the new Landed Estates Courts could be made use of for the purposes of the Court of Probate.

The letter referred related to the necessity of providing a new Probate Court.

Public Works.

CORRESPONDENCE RELATING TO THE

The Commissioners of Public Works to the Under Secretary.

Office of Public Works, Dublin,
18 January 1860.

Sir,

WITH reference to your letter of the 6th instant, respecting the necessity of providing a suitable building for the sittings of the Court of Probate, I am directed to state, for the information of his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, that the Board are unable to point out any means of affording the accommodation required at present; but, acting on the suggestion contained in your letter, as to making use of the buildings erected for the Landed Estates Court, the Board have been able to make a plan by which they consider the requirements, to a certain extent, may be met. It was intended, when the plans for the Incumbered Estates Court were prepared, to erect a very large court for the purpose of sales by auction, but it is now understood that such will not be required. By reference to accompanying plan (No. 1), it will be seen that the space to have been occupied by the court is available; and if the building be completed externally as intended, it would afford room for a court, with the necessary rooms for judges, jury, and officers on the middle and upper floors, and the lower floor can be filled up for any additional offices required in connexion with the Landed Estates Court. The cost will not be much increased beyond what it would have been if the original design had been followed.

The Landed Estates Judges have now three courts, the smallest of which is 24 ft. by 21 ft. 6 in., so that they probably would not object to the course now proposed and shown on plan.

The completion of this building, and fitting up the court for Judge Keatinge's use, would require 18 months from commencing, and in the meantime the Board could make the Landed Estates Court, in Henrietta-street, answer as a jury court for the Probate Department, by slight alterations, if the house to which it is attached be not surrendered on its being vacated by the Landed Estates Judges in April next. A plan of the court is sent herewith.

The Under Secretary to the Commissioners of Public Works.

Gentlemen,

Dublin Castle, 21 January 1860.

REFERRING to your letter of the 18th instant, I am directed by the Lord Lieutenant to request that you will communicate with the Right honourable Judge Keatinge, relative to providing a suitable building for the Court of Probate; that you will ascertain his views fully on the subject, meet them as far as possible, and report the result to me, that if approved of by his Excellency the subject may be brought before the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury for the provision of the necessary funds.

The Commissioners of Public Works.I am, &c.
(signed) Thos. A. Larcom.

The Under Secretary to the Registrar of the Landed Estates Court.

Sir,

Dublin Castle, 15 May 1860.

I AM directed by the Lords Justices to transmit to you, to be laid before the Judges of the Landed Estates Court, copies of a letter from Judge Keatinge, and Report from the Commissioners of Public Works, relative to providing a suitable building for the sittings of the Court of Probate, a plan for which is also herewith enclosed; and I am to request that you will favour me, for the information of their Excellencies, with any observations the judges desire to offer.

I am also to request that you will return the plan.

Henry Carey, Esq.
Registrar to the Landed Estates Court.I am, &c.
(signed) Thos. A. Larcom.

The Right Honourable Judge Keatinge to the Chief Secretary.

Sir,

21 Merrion-square, 30 December 1859.

I CONSIDER it to be my duty, as Judge of the Court of Probate, to call the attention of Her Majesty's Government to the serious inconvenience sustained by the suitors, bar, solicitors, and the public, generally, from want of suitable building for the sittings of that court.

Before the passing of the Probate Act, the business of the Prerogative Court was transacted in an apartment in the Record Buildings in Henrietta-street, of small dimensions, and scarcely sufficient for the very limited number of persons usually in attendance.

The place fixed for the sittings of the Court of Probate (by the Order in Council bearing date 8th December 1857) is, "in any of the courts or chambers, at the Four Courts, Dublin, which can be conveniently used for the purpose, or the present Prerogative Court, situate in the King's Inns, in Henrietta-street, in the city of Dublin."

The whole bar, and also all solicitors, attorneys, and proctors, being admitted to practise in the Court of Probate, and a more extended jurisdiction given to that court than belonged to the Prerogative Court, the number of professional persons, and others, present at its sittings, is very considerable increased, and even for the disposal of cases which are tried without juries, the Prerogative Court is inconveniently small.

All the important cases, however, are tried with juries, and it would not be possible to try a case with a jury in the Prerogative Court, nor is that Court capable of being so enlarged as to make it suitable for the purpose. The Prerogative Court has, therefore, since the Probate Act came into operation, been used only for the hearing of motions, and of causes which are heard without juries. The locality of the Prerogative Court, as the place for holding any of the sittings of the Court of Probate, is very generally (and as it appears to me most justly) complained of, as being most inconvenient to all the members of the Bar.

The jury business of the Court of Probate cannot properly be transacted in a building of smaller dimensions than one of the Common Law Courts; jurors and witnesses will require to be accommodated, and in all cases of importance the attendance of the bar and the public is very large.

The jury cases of the Court of Probate have heretofore been tried in "the Consolidated Nisi Prius Court," but that Court is, during the entire of the law terms, used either for the trial of the Nisi Prius causes of the Common Law Courts, or for the sittings of the Court of Exchequer Chamber, and also frequently in the vacations, for the latter purpose, as well as for meetings of the judges for other purposes.

Thus it will be seen that none of the most important business of the Court of Probate (trials by jury) can be disposed of in term; and even in vacations the judges cannot calculate on continuous sittings, and may be obliged to adjourn jury cases (at hearing) to some future day, by reason of the Nisi Prius Court being required by the other judges.

The inability to have jury cases tried in term leads to great delay, and is also productive of another serious disadvantage. There are several very eminent barristers who practise chiefly in jury cases, and whose services the suitors are desirous to have, and could obtain in term, when jury cases from all the common law courts are only tried in one court (viz., the Nisi Prius Court), with much greater facility than in vacation, when the three law courts are sitting at nisi prius. The difficulty of getting good juries for the trial of the cases in the Court of Probate is also much increased by their being tried only in vacations, when jurors are also required in three other courts.

The only remedy is to have a suitable building erected at the Four Courts for the Court of Probate, with proper accommodations for jurors, a public and private chamber for the judge, and one apartment for the use of his secretary and the clerk of the rules, whose duty it is to attend the judge at all his sittings, in court or chamber, and who, when the judge is not sitting, will attend in his present office at the Prerogative Court, Henrietta-street.

Connected with the Prerogative Court in Henrietta-street, there is a very superior depository for wills, and there are several excellent offices in which the common form business of the Court of Probate, and also all matters connected with litigated cases, with the exception of what comes before the judge, in court or in chamber, are now carried on. I not only see no objection to the continuance of the Henrietta-street establishment, but I think it of importance that it should be preserved.

There is one objection to it at present. Though the apartments are very good and the arrangements excellent, there is not now as much accommodation as might be desired; but if a new court and chambers were erected, the Prerogative Court, and judge's and secretary's chambers adjoining it, could be made available to supply all existing deficiencies, and thus the offices would be rendered most complete.

The Right Hon. Edward Cardwell, M. P., Chief Secretary.

I have, &c.
(signed) R. Keatinge.

The Registrar of the Landed Estates Court to the Under Secretary.

Sir,

Landed Estates Court, 22 May 1860.

I BEG to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 15th May instant, transmitting copy of the letter of Judge Keatinge, and Report of the Commissioners of Public Works, with a plan of the proposed Probate Court, which having submitted to the judges of this Court, I am directed by them to submit the following observations for the consideration of their Excellencies the Lords Justices :—

The plan of the present court was based on the supposition that there were to be only two judges, and consequently the accommodation provided was limited to that number, and the official staff attached to each judge.

The Government having thought fit to appoint a third judge, it became consequently necessary to provide additional accommodation, which could only be arranged by appropriating the apartments originally allotted to the Record Department of the court to the use of the third judge, and his official staff. This derangement of the original plan necessarily gave rise to much public inconvenience, the material features of which may be designated as follows :

The insufficiency of the judges' public court to accommodate the professional persons, suitors, and public, especially on the occasions when sales were held. The removal of an important branch of the establishment to which much resort is had to the upper storey of the building, at a distance from the other offices, and which has given rise to very great, and, it must be said, well founded complaints.

The curtailment of other portions of the establishment, the result of which is an inconvenient crowding of some of the offices, and more than one of the clerks being deprived of any accommodation whatever.

The judges, thoughtfully aware of the many inconveniences referred to, did not consider it necessary to call attention to them, in the expectation that the expressed intention of the Government to provide a court and offices for the third judge would be carried out with the least possible delay ; but as it would appear, from the correspondence referred to, that the abandonment of this intention is contemplated, I am directed to state that, under the present constitution of the court, the judges consider it positively essential to the due and satisfactory discharge of the public business, that the accommodation required for the third judge should be provided according to the arrangement heretofore contemplated.

Major General Larcom,
Under Secretary.

I am, &c.
(signed) Henry Carey.

The Chairman of the Board of Works to the Chief Secretary.

29 November 1861.

In reference to your note, enclosing a communication from Judge Dobbs, relative to the accommodation for him at the Landed Estates Court, I find on inquiry that Judge Dobbs has a court not quite as large, or as ornamentally fitted as those of the other judges, but quite sufficient for all business purposes, and with all the appliances and accommodation necessary.

It is also better than the courts occupied by the judges when the court was in Henrietta-street. There is no site for building a new court for Judge Dobbs at the Four Courts, even should another court be considered necessary, the only available space being allocated for the Court of Probate, which is very urgently required, and which will shortly be commenced.

Sir Robert Peel, Bart., M.P.

This arrear has arisen in consequence of the regular Clerks having been engaged upon other pressing and indispensable business of the office, and the Registrar being unable, from want of funds, to employ a sufficient number of temporary scriveners to reduce those arrears.

TRANSCRIPTS REQUIRING TO BE COMPARED.

By a Return, dated 25th July 1861, made to the Order of The House of Commons, it was mentioned :—“ It cannot be stated with certainty whether the Memorials were compared in earlier periods of the Registry, but from the correct state in which the first 300 volumes of Transcripts appear, it is presumed these were compared : they contain 249,254 Memorials, the last being registered 31st December 1785. From the latter date, down to 14th September 1814, the number of Memorials registered is 217,482, which would not appear to have been compared. The comparison was taken up from September 1814, down to 30th June 1858, when the pressure of other business interfered.”

Of the Transcripts from the above date (30th June 1858), the number requiring to be compared or examined with the originals on the 1st day of January 1862 was 31,711 ; the same pressure which occasioned the arrears of untranscribed Memorials has caused this arrear of comparisons.

REGISTRATION OF DEEDS (IRELAND) ACT.

RETURN to an Order of the Honourable The House of Commons, dated 18 July 1862 ;—for,

COPY “ of the MEMORIAL presented to the Lords of Her Majesty’s Treasury, signed by upwards of 400 Solicitors in Ireland, praying their Lordships to bring into immediate operation, and give effect to, the 49th section of the Act of the 13th & 14th years of Victoria, c. 72, relative to REGISTRATION of DEEDS in Ireland.”

Whitehall, Treasury Chambers, }
29 July 1862.

F. PEEL.

TO THE LORDS COMMISSIONERS OF HER MAJESTY’S TREASURY.

THE MEMORIAL of the undersigned, who are either professionally or personally interested in the reduction of the charges incidental to Registration of Deeds in Ireland, and likewise interested in the advantageous working of the Public Registry of Deeds Office.

Showeth,

THAT Memorialists and the public, using the Registry of Deeds Office, have been paying through three separate channels—stamp duties and fees, which, in the aggregate, amount to nearly 20,000 l. per annum.

1st. That the fees paid in cash amount to - - - -	12,000
2d. That the stamp duties paid in the offices on searches, attested copies, &c. amount to - - - -	5,000
3d. That there are annually registered about 12,000 deeds, and on the Memorials of which there is a stamp duty of 5 s. paid by the public previous to registry, which amount to about - - - -	3,000
Amounting in all to - - - -	£. 20,000
That it also appears that the working expenses amount annually to about - - - -	10,000
Leaving an annual surplus from these three sources of - -	10,000

The entire of the sum of 20,000 l. is thus paid by the public using the office, and is all incidental to Registration of Deeds in Ireland, and would otherwise have no existence.

That it appears the first of these sources, viz., the cash fees, are of so fluctuating a nature that they cannot be made available for any sustained permanent operation, tending to reduce arrears already existing, and the improvement of the system, so as to render it advantageous to the public.

That by an Act of the 13th & 14th Vict., c. 49, it is enacted,

“ That all Memorials and copies to be registered pursuant to this Act, and all copies and extracts of or from any of the documents to be deposited in the said Register Office, and all extracts from any of the indexes to be kept at the said Register Office, and all certificates of the result of searches in the said indexes, and all requisitions for such copies, extracts and searches respectively, shall be exempt from stamp duty."

That though this Act has not come into operation, yet it manifests the intention of the Legislature when it was passed, viz., that all stamp duties affecting the registration of assurances, copies of memorials, and searches, should cease; which would have remitted the 2d and 3d heads of revenue in this office.

That the 57th section of the Act of 13 & 14 Vict. c. 72, and the Act of 2 & 3 Wm. IV. c. 87, give your Lordships power to increase or diminish the fees payable "and to establish any other fees."

That Memorialists submit they are manifestly entitled to the remission of these stamp duties according to the spirit of the said Act of the 13 & 14 Vict. c. 72.

That Memorialists have heard it is intended to apply to Parliament, in order to improve the establishment.

That though it must be admitted that the arrears of the business require energetic measures to bring the office into a proper working condition, yet Memorialists submit it is in your Lordships' power to provide for the most enlarged operations and yet relieve Memorialists and the public from a portion of the very high expense of the Registry of Deeds Office, which acts as a great drawback in the transfer of property.

That the course Memorialists would recommend is, that your Lordships in the next financial arrangements should remit these stamp duties by bringing into immediate operation the 49th section of the 13 & 14 Vict. c. 72.

That the adoption of this suggestion will have the effect of reducing the aggregate charge of registry and materially facilitate the transfer of landed property, whilst it will not deprive your Lordships of sufficient funds for the due discharge of the public business, and benefit Memorialists and the public at large, and at the same time carry out the intention of the Legislature when they passed the Act of 13 & 14 Vict. c. 72.

Memorialists, therefore, pray your Lordships to bring into immediate operation and give effect to the 49th section of the Act of 13 & 14 Vict. c. 72, and thus at once decrease the charges attending the Registry of Deeds Office to the public, without in any way endangering the funds necessary for the ordinary expenses of the establishment.

THE OLD INDEXES AND ABSTRACT BOOKS.

ESTIMATE of Expense, Time, &c., requisite to complete the INDEXES and ABSTRACT BOOKS from 1708 to 1832, according to the Act 2 & 3 Will. 4, c. 87, and SUGGESTIONS, &c., respecting them.

THE ABSTRACT BOOKS.

The total number of memorials registered from 1708 to 31 December 1832, is	- - - - -	588,983
Of these, abstracts have been made, per Return presented to Parliament in 1839, from	- - -	50,100
And per Return presented in 1854, from additional	- 169,677	219,777
There remain to be abstracted therefore		- - - 369,206 memorials, which, at 300 memorials to each abstract book, would take 1,231 abstract books, in addition to 732 already done from the above 219,777 memorials, making in all 1,963 abstract books.

At the present rate of progress, it may be estimated that one person would make abstracts from 10,000 memorials in a year. Say that making abstracts from the above 369,206 memorials would be equal to the time of one person for - - - 35 years.

To make duplicates of the 1,963 abstract books, at the rate of a book and three-quarters per week, or, say 90 books a year, would occupy time of one person - - - - - 21 "

To check the 1,963 abstract books against the original memorials would occupy two clerks, at the rate of 120 books in the year, for at least 15 years, being equal to time of one, for - - - - - 30 "

To compare the duplicates when the originals should have been faithfully checked, would take the time of two clerks, at rate of, say 300 books per year, for about seven years, equal to time of one, for - - - - - 14 "

In all - - - - - 100 "

Say, in round numbers, that the completion of the original and duplicate sets of abstract books, down to 1832, would require an amount of time equal to the time of one person for 100 years.

THE OLD INDEXES.

NAMES.

The making out of the current indexes on names, both original and duplicate, from the day book, with comparisons and checkings, occupied the time of one person fully, when the deeds were received at the rate of about 9,000 in the year. Latterly, when they have exceeded that number, he had to get help occasionally with the duplicate.

Suppose that the existing old names indexes should be taken as the basis for making new consolidated sets, down to 1832, the process would probably be to make out on paper, from the index books as they stand, a draft or alphabet of the surnames for each such consolidated set, observing dictionary arrangement throughout, and to count or calculate how many of each and every name would be contained in the period for consolidation. This being done, to proceed and "open," or write in the headings (i. e. the dictionary alphabet of surnames so made out) into parchment books provided for the purpose, leaving under each name the number of blank lines, to suit the number of names, so ascertained to be written or posted in, under their proper order, from the index books. It is possible that a very expert and experienced hand might be able to post the consolidated index directly from the books, without the delay of making out a draft alphabet or index.

Blank columns would of course have been left in the new books for the additional particulars (per 2 & 3 Will. 4, c. 87), not appearing upon the old indexes; and the next step would be to refer to the original memorials to supply these particulars. It is difficult to estimate what time this might take, but there is no doubt it would be tedious and troublesome work, taking down, opening, and examining old and obscure records. We might fairly estimate that, on the whole, the process of reconstruction would take rather more time to complete it than is employed by the present method in entering from the day book (i. e. 9,000 memorials in the year, equal to 65 years' time of one person). And say that, with time of an assistant to compare and check, 15 or 20 years, the time required to complete the reconstruction of the old names indexes, 1708 to 1832, would be equal to the time of one person for about 85 years.

LANDS.

Down to 1828 the entries in the lands indexes were in this form :

Book for County
of Cork.

Denominations.	Baronies or Parishes.	Parties' Names and References.
Cosane - - -	By Barrymore - -	Evans to Clarke. B. 645. Page 78. No. 442,163.

1828 to 1832 the county books were arranged in baronies, the form being thus :

(A.)

Book for County of Longford.

Barony of Moydow.				—
Annaghbeg - -	Bond - - -	Jackson - -	846, 325, 566,825.

The form at present in use since the year 1832 is :

Barony of _____ Book for County.

Lands.	Parish.	Grantors.	Grantees.	Year of Registry.	Number of File and Volume of Transcript and Abstract Books.	Number of Memorial, and Page of Transcript Book.	Page of Day Book.
Greaghadoe -	Killankear -	Smith, Patrick, and others.	Adams, Samuel	1833.	1	167	12

If it were considered necessary to reconstruct the old lands indexes, and supply the particulars according to the last form of entry from the 588,983 original memorials down to 1832, 1832, estimating that they could be done at the rate of the current work, that is, about 9,000 per year, original and duplicate, it would take the time of one person for - 65 years.

And would occupy time of one person to check both sets, original and duplicate - - - - - 50 „

Therefore to reconstruct the Lands' Indexes 1708 to 1832, one person - - 115 „

RESULT.

To complete the abstract books 1708 to 1832, would take time equal to time of one person - - - - - 100 years.

To complete ditto indexes on Names - - - - - 85 „

Ditto ditto Lands - - - - - 115 „

Time of one person, say - - - - - 300 „

From the above data the cost of the work, or any portion of it, and the time in which it might be done, can be easily determined according to the number of persons employed, and the pay given. The entire cost would probably not be less than from 50,000*l.* to 60,000*l.* for labour, with the cost of books, all of parchment; viz.—

1,231 Abstract books for originals yet to be done.

1,964 Duplicates of the whole set.

3,195 Abstract books.

Parties Names' Indexes, about 1,000 books originals and duplicates.

Lands' Indexes, say 400 books, all of parchment

SUGGESTIONS.

THE heavy cost, exclusive of the time required, would seem to be a serious obstacle in the way of carrying out a complete reconstruction of the old indexes, with accompanying abstract books down to 1832 to the full extent contemplated by the Act 2 & 3 Will. 4, c. 87, sect. 33. It is then to be considered what portion of the work might be usefully done in the first instance, postponing consideration of a reconstruction on the complete scale.

THE OLD LANDS' INDEXES.

As there is but one set of the old Lands Indexes, 1708 to 1832, and many of these are, as the Act expresses it, "in a dilapidated state," it would be very important to have them renewed. The mode of doing this may be considered in two ways: either to make a fair copy from the Lands' Index Books as they stand, or to reconstruct them, for the interval 1800 to 1832, in the first instance, and hereafter when convenient, to complete the reconstruction back to the commencement; and meanwhile to restore and recopy the injured pages in the old set.

Sec. 33.

And first, as to Copying.

There are about 130 heavy parchment volumes of the old Lands' Indexes; say, that upon the average each volume would take the time of one person four months to copy, the time requisite to re-engross the entire would be for one person - - - - - 43 years.

It is hard to estimate what time would be required, in referring to the original memorials, to supply the obliterations. Say time of one person - - 5 „

And to compare the set, time of two persons, seven years=time of one - 14 „

TOTAL, one Person - - - 62 „

Next, as to Re-constructing.

For the period above mentioned 1800 to 1832, we have the facility of abstract books already compiled, as the 732 abstract books form a consecutive series from 1 January 1800 to 14 August 1828 (except 22 of them which relate to the earlier period of the registry); and from thence down to 31 December 1832 there is a further set of abstract books made under a former Act of Parliament, somewhat different in form, but suitable for being indexed from.

The 710 abstract books (originals) from 1800 to 1828, containing 221,599 memorials, should be all most carefully checked, which would take time of two persons six years, equal to time of one person - - - - -	12 years
Next, to compile the Lands' Indexes from these, say 10,000 per year, would take one person - - - - -	22 „
And to check them, two-thirds of that time - - - - -	14 „
TOTAL, one Person - - - - -	48 „

In the first case we should have one fair copy of the entire set of Lands' Indexes, 1708 to 1832, with time of one person - - - - - 62 years.

But without abstract books, down to 1800.

In the second case, we should have two complete sets of Consolidated Lands' Indexes, 1800 to 1832, with abstract books by time of one person - - - 48 years.

And these joined to the Indexes since 1832, would give a consecutive series of Lands' Indexes, originals and duplicates, and abstract books for the last 58 years.

We should then have to deal with the remaining 342,979 memorials, 1708 to 1800.

To make the original set of abstract books - - - - -	1,144
Less 22 already done - - - - -	22
	1,122

Would take time of one person - - - - -	34 years
To check them (two per 10 years) one - - - 20 „	54 years
To compile original and duplicate Lands' Index from them - - - - -	34 years
To check, two-thirds of that time, say - - - 22 „	56 „
Say, Total, one Person - - - - -	110 years.

Supposing that the whole period, 1708 to 1800 would be divided into four consolidated sections, giving between 80,000 and 90,000 memorials (the present rate) for each, the average time to complete the Lands' Indexes, with one set of abstract books, for any one such period, might be 18 or 20 years' time of one person.

And thus, say that 10 persons might complete one section in about two years, and could complete the three series, 1800 to 1832, in about four years (the abstracts being done).

The cost of parchment books is to be added.

The plan should be to take the series backward, in point of time; the most recent section to be the first done.

The torn and obliterated pages of the old Lands' Indexes should be restored, which would probably take five years' time of one person.

THE OLD NAMES' INDEXES.

There are two sets of Parties Names' Indexes, in dictionary order, some on paper, some on parchment, from 1708 to 1832; some for irregular periods of years, down to 1785, and thence in annual arrangement (one section consolidated 1800-1809).

Instead of attempting to make out new sets of names, indexes with accompanying abstract books, at such an expense as above estimated, it is suggested merely to collate the indexes anew with the original memorials, and fill into the books as they are, such of the particulars required by the Act as are deficient.

It would appear that the best way of doing this would be by placing sets of two clerks together, one to hold the original memorials, and the original index books, and to call out, or "dictate" from the memorials to the other (who should hold the duplicate books) the particulars to be supplied, and which particulars they should both accordingly write simultaneously into the respective sets of books, carefully, and in exact connexion with the entries; and they should check and cross check each entry according as made.

There would then be two dictionary copies of Parties Names' Indexes, each having all the particulars pointed out by the Act, and only different from the consolidated indexes in regard to the periods of time included.

Estimate that to complete and check the Names' Indexes down to 1832 in this manner, for the entire 588,983 memorials would be equal to the time of two clerks, 20 years each; that is, allowing something over the time that would be taken to do nearly similar work in checking the abstract books, which that number of memorials would occupy; or one clerk's time, 40 years.

The following entries from the old indexes, will more fully explain my meaning. (The additions to be supplied from the original memorials as shown in red ink). Note.—The words written with red ink in the original are printed in italics.

Keenan Anne and others to Hostler, James 328. 573. 222980
Co. Tipperary.

Kehoe Denis to Walsh, George 323. 178. 213337
x G. Kilkenny, Patrick, St.

x G. meaning "General Charge."

It would give little if any, additional trouble, while the pen was in hand, and the document under view, to make the entries still more complete by adding any further particulars which might be considered useful (as barony, parish, &c.)

Or, one set only of the indexes might be so amended, leaving the other set untouched for the present, which would reduce the expense.

Or, as another alternative, if time or funds could not be spared for either object, the torn and damaged papers alone might be recopied for the present.

Whatever is determined upon with regard to these old indexes, both names and lands, whether to reconstruct them, or to amend them, the plan advisable would be to take them backward, say in periods of 10 years; for instance, first from January 1822 to December 1831; next from January 1812 to December 1821, and so on. By this means the indexes most required, would be the first completed.

December 1858.

No. 2.

SUGGESTIONS as to the FUTURE INDEXES.

NAMES.

THAT, keeping one set in the manner at present in use,* the other set (called the duplicate) should in future be made out as follows:—

A set of suitable books, paper or parchment, to be procured, and each letter, of the alphabet to have a separate book (or books).

Ascertain which set of the former consolidated names' indexes has the largest number of different surnames, and use this set as a guide for the alphabet of surnames in the new books. Let these names be written as headings into the new books, in plain large hand, leaving ample space after each surname for the number of entries that may be expected to come under it in the time embraced, and as may best be judged from the space occupied in former indexes, or from other circumstances; and in addition to this, as a matter of precaution, leave in connexion with each name such additional space as may be judged enough to answer for new-coming names within the proper dictionary order, and so as to avoid "transfers" as far as possible. The extra space if not required would only have the inconvenience of making the books a little more bulky; but this would be well repaid in their convenience for reference, having fewer transfers.

Into this dictionary set the current entries should be made simultaneously with the other set; the only difference being, that in one case the entries would be by the two initial letters; in the other, they would be in the dictionary order.

These two sets of books to be kept up constantly compared, and strictly checked so as to be ready for daily use, the dictionary set for the searching clerks, the other for the public.

At end of each 10 years there would thus be two dictionary indexes ready in five-year periods, and to consolidate these into one set, would be only the work of any intelligent persons who could write well.

I mention the five-year periods, as corresponding with the present practice under the Act, and also as preferable to yearly periods, in which the indexes were made out for some years prior to 1832, as more easy to be consolidated into the decennial periods, also as much more convenient in use.

But there is no sound reason why the dictionary set might not be arranged to comprise the entire period of 10 years. This is what I would recommend as being more convenient still,

See Registrar's letter herewith, 14 October 1861.

* If thought advisable to do so, there ought not to be any practical difficulty in carrying on both sets together in the same dictionary order.

still, for then the decennial consolidation would be actually effected complete, without further trouble or loss of time, and to copy the set would be but simple scrivenery work.

With the arrangement here proposed, one fair copy of that dictionary index would suffice; that is, to have in all three sets: 1st, the two quinquennial indexes by the two initial letters (to be regarded as one set for the 10 years); 2d, the dictionary 10 years' set made out along with these; and 3d, the fair copy of this latter set. The time and expense of making the fourth set, i. e. the duplicate of the quinquennial set, would so be saved.

Under the Act 2 & 3 Will. 4, there are to be—

Sec. 14.—1st. Two quinquennial indexes of names by the two initial letters.

Sec. 16.—2d. Duplicates of these.

Sec. 15.—3d. Consolidated index of both the quinquennial sets in dictionary order.

Sec. 15.—4th. Duplicate of this consolidation for each period of 10 years.

LANDS.

2 & 3 Will. 4, c. 87,
sec. 17.

The consolidation of the lands' indexes from two periods of five to one of 10 years, is merely copying the same matter over again; because a dictionary arrangement of the denominations of land has here been found impracticable, and the consolidation is like collating two sections of the same book into one. There are here, as in the names' indexes, therefore, to be four copies, where two, or at most three, would suffice.

The improvement I would suggest, is to give up the quinquennial sets of lands' indexes, and start the future lands' indexes, for the full decennial periods at once; it would only be requisite to have two or three volumes for each county instead of one, and would make no practical difference in the work; but the plan would have the advantage of giving the consolidated index at once both original and duplicate; a third copy might be made; there would here likewise be the saving in cost of one set of indexes, each 10 years, allowing a third copy to be made.

Improvements might be effected in both names and lands' indexes, by taking additional particulars from the memorial, which would give no additional trouble to the compiler, while the document was under his view, and the pen in hand.

Another improvement I would suggest, is to discontinue the subdivisions into parishes and baronies in the counties' indexes (since it has been found impossible to enforce the insertion of parishes and baronies in the memorials), and to index simply in alphabetical order by the initial letter of the denomination, in each county, &c. A vast amount of useless labour would be spared, in saving entries, two, three, or four times over, into several baronies, where such language is used in the memorial as "all which said lands, &c., are situate, &c., in the several baronies of A. B. C. & D., in the said county of " or, "are situate in the several counties of ", &c.

In these cases, which are frequent, the entries must be repeated into each of the counties, or the baronies (though manifestly wrong), because the document does not specify in which county or barony each and every denomination is situated.

Within the present year, the memorials having unusual quantities of denominations necessitated the duplication of no less than 1,852 entries in this way, from want of precision in the descriptions. I believe the alterations mentioned can, if approved of, be carried out by Treasury Minute, without further legislation, under 11th & 12th Victoria, c. 120, s. 7.

December 1858.

T. M. R.

Sir,

Registrar of Deeds Office, Dublin,
29 November 1859.

As I understand, it is likely that some legislative measures for the regulation of this Department may be introduced in the coming session, I take the liberty of offering for consideration of the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury the following suggestions for improvement in the transaction of the office business; in addition to those contained in the papers handed to Mr. Seton, on his visit to this office in December 1858, and which papers, I presume, accompanied his report to their Lordships:

1st. That in future a certified copy of the memorial should be presented and lodged together with each memorial registered, such copy to be fairly engrossed or written on parchment of a regulated size, shape, and form; such as should be prescribed by the Registrar, and so adapted as to admit of being bound into books, the affidavit of registry to state, that the copy was a true copy of the original memorial, so presented for registry. The copies so lodged to be bound up in books, and to answer in every respect instead of the transcripts as now made in the office.

This would effect a considerable saving in the transcribing work, and narrow it principally to the making of attested copies of registered memorials, as required by the public, and would leave several of the hands available for the more important operations, as after-mentioned.

2d. That instead of the present Day Book and Abstract Book, which repeat much of the same matter, one book only should be used, viz., an Abstract Book; and be so arranged as to contain all the particulars of both books; a saving of the time of two or three clerks, skilful hands, would thus arise.

3d. That the form of Certificate of Registry endorsed upon the deeds should be shortened and simplified. The time of one person is occupied writing these certificates on the deeds, sometimes two persons. A saving of more than half this time would be made by this alteration.

4th. The 29th section of the Act 2 & 3 William IV., chap. 87, directs that "every memorial brought into the said office to be registered shall be there compared with the instrument of which it purports to be a memorial; and if the several particulars required by law to be in the memorial shall be contained therein, or such of the particulars by this Act required to be set forth in the Abstract Book, hereinbefore mentioned, as shall be contained therein, shall be found to be truly stated from the instrument, then the memorial shall be registered, but not otherwise."

The want of precision in this clause, in not stating the exact particulars to be investigated, has led to much difficulty in deciding whether a deed should be registered or not.

I would suggest that the particulars to which we should look for correspondence between deed and memorial should not be left in doubt, but distinctly defined, and limited to such alone as are necessary for the purposes of the registry.

5th. Similar to the foregoing objection is another, frequently arising from the affidavits of perfection of the memorials, as presented by parties registering, and from irregularities in the "setting out" of the executing parties, and the witnesses to the deed in the body of the memorial.

There is no general form of affidavit to verify memorials prescribed by law, except those sworn in England; and the wording of the affidavit being at the discretion of the party, is constantly found to be defective in several essentials.

It would not be possible, in the routine of receiving the documents for registry, and the necessity of taking them without delay in the order they are presented, to make any critical inspection of the affidavits; they must therefore be taken as offered, and the defects cannot be known until found by the process of comparison, as above stated. I would, therefore, suggest that a proper form of affidavit of perfection should be embodied in any intended Act.

The 7th clause of the 6th Anne, cap. 2, requires, that every memorial shall contain, among other things, "the names and additions of all the witnesses to such deed," &c., "in such manner as same are expressed or mentioned in such deed."

The usual practice is to write out a description of the witnesses after the conclusion of the memorial, and above where the signature of the executing party is affixed to the memorial, in some such language as this:—

"Which said deed as to the execution thereof by the said A. B. is witnessed by C. D., of and E. F. of And this memorial as to the execution thereof by the said A. B. is witnessed by the said C. D. and E. F." &c.

The signature of A. B., the executing party to the memorial, would thus appear as verifying the facts so stated regarding the witnesses; but it frequently happens, especially where there are several parties to a deed, that the memorial has been executed by one or more of the parties, before the others have executed the deed, and is so presented for registry; or the descriptions of the witnesses to the parties executing subsequently are added to the memorial (on the space left for that purpose) above the signature of the party who has already executed the memorial. These are irregularities, perhaps, impossible to avoid as the law stands; it strikes me they might be prevented by requiring the person making the affidavit of registry to add, "that it appears by said deed of which this is a memorial, that at this the time of its registry, the same as to the execution thereof by the said A. B. is witnessed by C. D. of and E. F. of and as to its execution by," &c. so setting out all the witnesses to the deed.

The 8th George, the 1st, ch. 15, requires that "in all memorials hereafter to be signed and sealed, the place of abode of the subscribing witness or witnesses to such memorial who is not a subscribing witness to such deed or deeds, conveyance or conveyances, will or wills, shall be inserted in the said memorial."

In my letter to their Lordships, dated 2d December 1857, I suggested that the recording of negative searches in parchment books should be relinquished, as incurring heavy expense without adequate object or return; and I am still of opinion this expense might be saved, as reference to these records is hardly ever made.

It is very likely that the business of this department is approaching to a condition which may be taken for its average rate hereafter; and if their Lordships agree in the plans I have stated, I think the saving of time and expense which might be expected to arise, would enable us, when the incoming hands shall have acquired experience, so to allocate the clerks as to keep pace with any demands upon the searching and indexing branches; and, moreover, allow of our transferring some of the more skilled to the bringing up of the recent consolidated indexes which are in arrear, as pointed out to their Lordships in my former correspondence and returns; as well as the new series of consolidated indexes for the 10 years which will end 31st December next, and form a massive amount of work.

I think if a provision that the fees of this office should be paid by stamps to be affixed to the several documents passing through it, and its outgoings provided for by the estimates, were introduced into any measure for the regulation of this department, considerable facility would be gained in the transaction of the public business.

The accompanying documents will exhibit the alterations proposed to be made in the Day Book and Abstract Book, Form of Registry Certificate, Affidavit, &c.

No. 3.

Registrar of Deeds Office, Dublin,
14 October 1861.

Sir,

I PRESUME that consequent upon the inquiries which have been instituted regarding this office, its circumstances will soon be considered with a view to legislation or arrangement. I am not aware whether a series of papers which were handed to the late Mr. Seton, upon his visit to this office in December 1858, and referred to in my letter to their lordships, dated 29th November 1859, came sufficiently under their Lordships' notice, as I was applied to for them by the Crown solicitor, and furnished copies to him in March 1860. They relate principally to the indexes, old and recent, and abstract books, &c.; and contain suggestions in detail for reconstruction or improvement, as might be found most desirable.

In addition to these papers, the suggestions contained in my letter to their Lordships, dated 29th November 1859, embodied those other improvements which appeared to me to be necessary. After further consideration and experience, I still incline to the opinion that the suggestions pointed out, viz.,

- To alter Forms and mode of keeping Indexes.
- To oblige Copy Memorial to be lodged at time of registry.
- To combine Day Book and Abstract Book.
- To shorten Certificate of Registry.
- To regulate form of Memorial and Affidavit of Perfection.
- To discontinue Negative Search Record Books.
- To convert Fees to Stamp Duties.
- To provide for Outgoings of the office.

To work up Arrears and remodel or restore such of the Old Indexes and Books as might be found necessary, in the manner pointed out in the papers referred to—

would be sufficient to meet the chief requirements for placing the office in proper and satisfactory working condition, subject to any modifications of details which may suggest themselves; and I believe with these improvements there would be so great a saving of the current work, that in course of some time after the arrears should have been brought up, a large reduction of the junior class would be effected.

In recommending these improvements I assume, however, that there is not to be any important change made in the fundamental principle of the registry, which it should be remembered has withstood the test of experience for a century and a half.

I therefore think it right now, to forward transcripts of the documents referred to, along with copy of my letter of the 29th November 1859, so that all may be together under review, when their Lordships come to consider the subject; and how far it may be necessary or possible to reconstruct the old indexes and books; as the quantity of work and cost required to carry out the reconstruction to its entire extent, as contemplated by the Act 2 & 3 Will. 4, chap. 87, sec. 33, would be very great.

As the making of searches is the chief function of the office in its intercourse with the public, and that in which the principal difficulties have been of late years experienced, in consequence of the extraordinary amount of business thrown upon the establishment through the Incumbered Estates and Landed Estates Courts, the consideration presses strongly upon attention as to how that function can be best facilitated in the future operations of the office.

I wish then, to explain to their Lordships, why I feel satisfied that nothing can be devised that will be found in practice more facile or more satisfactory towards attaining the end desired, than the institution of improved indexes, to be carried forward prospectively, according to the plans we have proposed. (See Paper No. 2.)

We find that reference is afforded by the new Dictionary Indexes so immediately to the abstracts, transcripts, and original memorials together, that nothing more in fact can be desired; while at the same time these indexes have the great advantage of being simple, convenient, and intelligible to all capacities, and are free from the risk and additional expense which must attend the introduction of any new untried scheme.

At the time the papers were given to Mr. Seaton, the practicability of carrying forward a dictionary index prospectively, for a full period of 10 years, had not been shown by actual experiment. It has been recently tested with complete success, by the posting of the entire of letter (M) 1850-1859, containing 21,031 entries, into books previously spaced, and headed with the different names; and we have also a model book in progress, (section "Mc"), arranged on the same plan for the current 10 years, 1860-1869, as an experiment, into which the entries are made daily with perfect ease and certainty, according as the memorials are received into the office.

I have now no doubt, but that the sectional indexes might be safely relinquished, and the dictionary index, to be entered in duplicate, substituted at once. I feel justified, therefore, in recommending the adoption of these dictionary indexes, for the future transactions of this office (provided, as I have said, that the principle of the registry be not changed). The indexes to be carried on in books, having the names previously headed in, after the method of the paper, No. 2, sent herewith.

The public, as well as the office, would then have the advantage of the dictionary index, whereby searches or names could be made in the same number of minutes, as they now take hours; and the consolidation would be always complete without further trouble or delay. [Opinion seems latterly to incline to fixing five years as the best period for a consolidated index, at the present rate of business.]

As an example of the manner in which the proposed dictionary indexes would be carried on for 10 years, in "skeleton books" as they are called, I transmit the pattern marked (A), assumed to be portion of section "Mc", 1850-1859. The books might in the first instance be of paper, as the pattern, to be afterwards engrossed or printed upon parchment, whenever the period became closed. The cost of such books could not be significant. The pattern marked (B), is sent to show the form of the consolidated dictionary index as engrossed on parchment complete.

For their Lordships' better information, also, I transmit herewith as examples, a copy marked (C), of a few pages of the sectional index 1850-1859, section "Mc." (the form now in use under 2 & 3 Will. 4, c. 87, s. 14). The entire of that section, contains 249 pages having 6,082 entries; and to make a search for any name in it, for the 10 years, will will occupy from two to three hours, as the whole must be gone through most carefully, there being no more immediate direction than the two first letters of the surname. Whereas, when search is made in the dictionary form of that index (patterns marked A. or B.), it will be seen, that the name is found in one instant, in its exact position by surname and christian name, with all the registries under it chronologically. The abstract is then turned to with equal facility, in a moment, by means of the reference number obtained from the index, merely by opening the abstract book arranged on the shelf at hand; and the transcript can be referred to with ease in like manner when necessary, as is constantly the case. Each abstract book contains abstracts of 300 memorials, and corresponds to the transcript book and file of original memorials; the reference numbers to all three are identical.

A copy of portion of one of the abstract books, No. 25 of 1856, is sent herewith, marked (D). The abstracts relating to some of the names in the index marked (A.) or (B.) will be found in it, viz:

M ^c Aleese	-	-	-	Helena	-	-	-	} Abstract No. 26.
				Isabella	-	-	-
				Margaret	-	-	-
				Mary	-	-	-
				Patrick	-	-	-
M ^c Alister	-	-	-	Charles, J.	-	-	-	Abstract No. 7 and 8.
M ^c Birney	-	-	-	Susanna	-	-	-	Abstract No. 73.
M ^c Blain	-	-	-	James	-	-	-	Abstract No. 8.

Any of which may be referred to, for example. And it will be observed that the same abstract, No. 26, is common to the five names of M^cAleese, as above, and to eight others, as in the abstract; they being all grantors in the same deed (but which eight come into different letters of the index). The abstract No. 8 is common to the names of M^cAlister, Charles, and M^cBlain, James, along with two others in like manner. The case is similar throughout; the one entry of the abstract answering for all the grantors in a deed by the same reference number.

It is due to Mr. Ray, the chief clerk in this department, to state, that the plans proposed in the Papers No. 1 and No. 2 regarding the old and new indexes, &c., were suggested and drawn up by him, and that he has also devised a very ingenious method by which, with the aid of some of the junior clerks only, the Names Indexes, 1850-1859, are being rapidly consolidated and arranged into complete dictionary order.

With respect to the Lands Indexes, assuming the same condition as alluded to above, viz.: that the principle of the registry will not be disturbed, any material alteration towards facilitating these latter indexes will depend upon the possibility of enforcing by law that the names of the baronies in which the premises affected are situated shall be inserted in the memorials. And further, if alias spellings of townlands could be dispensed with the indexing work would be much reduced.

But, if it should be ultimately found that the insertion of the baronies cannot be enforced, and the alias spellings got rid of, in that case, I see no way more simple than to index the lands by their alphabetical order alone in each county, as suggested in Paper No. 2, which indeed was the mode in use in the early periods of the registry; and although more tedious than desirable, it is on the whole, perhaps not much more tedious than the reference to the plurality of indexes at present necessitated by the omission of the baronies.

No. 4.

Registry of Deeds Office, Dublin,
29 November 1861.

Sir,

A VERY general opinion appears to prevail that the Registry of Deeds should be put in connexion with the Ordnance Survey, or based upon it, in any future regulation of the Registry Office.

In course of much thought, devising plans and suggestions for improving the indexes and facilitating the business details, as already brought under notice of my Lords, I have turned my attention to see how the Lands Indexes might be modified, and arrangements made to meet the above requirement. I have drawn up a plan which would, as I believe, answer the purpose in a complete and simple way. I forward a model of it herewith, marked (M.) founded upon the actual registries in the Barony of Moyearn, County Roscommon, for the 10 years 1850-59, supposed to commence at page 100 of the county book. I have selected that barony as being of small extent, at same time that it gives average entries; larger baronies would make the documents too voluminous as examples.

I assume that the fundamental principle of the registry which has stood for a century and a half will not be changed.

The plan is then subject to these conditions :

1st. That for registry purposes the name of each townland shall be the one upon the Ordnance Survey only; no "alias" names, nor sub-denominations, to be dealt with on the registry index books.

2d. That the barony in which each townland is situate shall be inserted in the memorial.

[In strictness the parish also should be stated, since townlands are frequently repeated by name in adjoining parishes.]

I propose, then, that there shall be a book for each county, as at present; in case of large counties additional volumes, if necessary.

That each county book be subdivided into baronies, as at present. I keep the baronial division, as the one most in conformity with usage.

For cities and large towns the index to be as at present by streets, in their alphabetical order. The numbers and condition of houses are changed so frequently that I fear an arrangement of entry by number in each street could not be effected.

The entries in the baronies are carried on now by the initial letters only of the lands; they could not be brought into dictionary order, from the uncertainty of the spellings, these constantly varying in successive deeds.

I propose instead, that the Ordnance Survey names of the townlands in each barony shall be printed in exact dictionary order, upon the sheets which will form the index books, the sheets being first suitably ruled in columns, and faint cross ruled for the entries. (In the model I have omitted the Day Book page, as it is useless.)

That the number of the Ordnance sheet or sheets upon which the land will be found on the map, be printed opposite each townland, and the parish also, and probably the acreable contents.

That in printing the names of the townlands, a space of about 10 ruled lines be left between each, to receive the entries which may occur in a period of 10 years, supposing the index to be designed for 10 years; if for a less or a greater period, the spaces should be in proportion, say at the rate of a line per year.

That the opposite pages should be left blank (the same way as in the Names Indexes which I have designed), as precaution to admit of additional entries in cases where the spaces left might not be sufficient; this would not often happen, as experience shows that the entries seldom exceed six or seven per townland in 10 years; but the provision is indispensable for the proper working of the index.

I propose that the sheets should be arranged and printed under authority of the Ordnance Survey Office, be bound into requisite books, and so delivered to the Registrar for use.

That the books being, in the first instance, speculative as to space, as all such indexes must be, they should be of paper, to save cost of parchment; but when the series became completed the indexes should be permanently engrossed or printed upon parchment, as many copies as might be thought necessary.

Such an index as I propose would have these advantages :

It would not interfere with the fundamental principle of the registry.

It would not create any disturbance of the known and practised methods in use in the office, and familiar to the public, but would greatly facilitate them.

It would effect a great saving of time in the entering of the indexes. One person would keep them entered up to the day, both original and duplicate; and it would hardly take the entire time of another to check them; instead of three or four being required as now, at these duties, sometimes more.

The time and trouble of making a consolidation would be saved, as the indexes would not require to be consolidated.

It would reduce the work of making lands searches to a minimum, as the registries affecting each land would be found at a glance together, instead of being to be looked for through several pages, in large baronies especially, with no better clue than their first letter.

No matter how many lands are affected by the same deed, the one abstract only has to be looked to. The abstract books can be consulted at the rate of about half a minute per abstract. So that a land search for 10 years could not take more than a few minutes, except where the original memorials have to be examined for particulars not in the abstract books.

If an addition were made of all the grantors and grantees, when more than one in a deed, the Lands Index without being incumbered, would be a deal more convenient for searching; because, on all entries having "and another," or "and others," in Grantors' Column the abstracts must be examined to see if they include the name searched against, which would not then be necessary. This improvement, and such like, were alluded to in the "Suggestions for the future Indexes," which I drew up in 1858. The average number of grantors per deed is about 1.9; of grantees, 1.3; so that only two or three additional words would have to be put to these occasional entries.

On the usual form of requisition the search could be made then on the names very nearly as easily as on the lands, by looking down the grantors' column through the barony. And more more, the index would then even answer for an index of grantees, within each barony, by looking down the grantee's column.

The proposed index would effect a large saving in bulk and cost of books. The Lands' Indexes, 1850-59, took nearly 32,000 single pages for one copy. The cities and large towns occupied 4,600 pages of the above 32,000. Say there are 63,000 townlands, allow 10 lines to each townland, and seven townlands to each page, the number of pages required for a 10 years' index of the form which I propose, would be about 9,000 single pages for the counties; then leaving the opposite pages blank, would take the same number = 18,000 single pages, or about one-third less than the quantity of the index 1850-1859.

But these pages being in speculative spaces, much of which would not be written upon, when the index came to be engrossed permanently, or printed on parchment on both sides, without loss of space, the whole would be contained in a far less quantity; there is no doubt but a saving of several hundred pounds would be effected on each set of indexes.

Neither will the form I propose, as above, necessitate any alteration of the Ordnance maps; nor will it involve any double, treble, or quadruple entries for the same townland, which are always so inconvenient and confusing.

I doubt if it would even be indispensable to have the Ordnance maps in the Registry Office, when the names and references of the townlands would be printed in the index sheets, under the authority of the Ordnance Survey Office; but, if maps were required, I would recommend that they should be by baronies of the six-inch scale, strained on canvas, and mounted on rollers, in such way that each could be separately accessible for reference. Such maps presenting the whole district of a barony together, would be far more convenient than the sheets bound in books, as done sometimes, but in which it takes much time and trouble to follow the location of the lands from sheet to sheet, except one be very familiar with the maps.

If such barony maps be used, my idea is that an apartment should be appropriated for them; call it "The Map Room;" and they should be hung in boxes with rollers and pullies; a box for each county. Maps of cities and towns to be arranged alphabetically in boxes for them. Suppose something in the way of this sketch.*

*See opposite.

A most important advantage, which I think I see in the form of index which I propose, is, that it would answer for an index of titles without further trouble, or any intricacies, such as made the Act of the 13 & 14 Vict. c. 72, inoperative.

Suppose, for instance, I require to know the condition of certain property in this barony of Moycarn. Knowing the names of the townlands, or one of them, say "Cameloon," I look to the townland column, and I find those entries opposite that townland—

1853 -	-	-	-	7	-	-	28
1853 -	-	-	-	19	-	-	220
1856 -	-	-	-	15	-	-	33

Following these figures through the barony, I see the same references opposite to the following lands, viz.—

Cappayuse, Cloonbeggann,
Clooniff,
Coolumber, Creggan, Curraghagower, Derrineel,
Derrylaghan, and Moore, N. & S.

I have then only to look to the three abstracts referred to, I find that—1853 - 7 - 28 is a conveyance of the above lands from the Incumbered Estates Commissioners to W. K.

1853 - 19 - 220 is a charge upon the same lands for a loan by Drainage Commission to said W. K.

1856 - 15 - 33 is a mortgage of them by said W. K. to S. K.

All which can be ascertained in a few minutes.

On the other hand, if I want to know the lands, a reference to the parties names' index will doubtless show some deed by W. K. affecting them, and the information can then be found on the lands' index as above explained.

To show more clearly the facility and saving which the form of index I propose would afford beyond the one in use, I beg to refer to the parchment document herewith; it is a transcript, page for page, of the Lands Registry Index of the Barony of Moycarn, County Roscommon, for 10 years, 1850-59 (i. e., two quinquennial series, 1850-54 and 1855-59 inclusive.)

I have drawn red ink lines through what appears to me to be alias and sub-denominations, and repetition entries. This may render the document of some use to show what might be the actual advantages from eliminating alias and sub-denomination names, as weighed against such objections and difficulties as may have to be encountered in the way of making such a change.

I have also marked variances of spellings from those on the Ordnance maps, which show how indispensable it is, if the Ordnance survey is to be referred to, that the land names should be accurately spelled in the memorials; the indexes could not otherwise be kept correctly.

If outline index maps of the townlands in each barony, such as the one I have annexed to the pattern index herewith, were placed in the county index books at commencement of each baronial division, they would be found very convenient for reference. I have not had time to draw the map with mathematical exactness, but it may serve as an example. I reduced it from the 6-inch scale to 2 inches, a size which shows the townlands very well. Maps of the larger baronies should go across two pages. If properly constructed under authority of the Ordnance, they might save the necessity for having the larger maps in this office. The plates would be only a first expense, as they would answer for subsequent indexes.

I wish to remark, that in devising the plans for the lands' indexes, as well as those for the names' indexes already submitted to my Lords, and any other improvements that occurred to me, I have had in view, not to interfere with the fundamental system of the registry which appears to be so plain, safe, and effective, that I doubt if anything that could be substituted for it would be found an advantage. I have tried only to improve and simplify the operations and cut off useless work, and in this way effect a real large saving of time, labour, and money.

The business processes of this department are in the main different from the usual kind; they can hardly be well understood without long and intimate acquaintance with all the branches of the office, such as my line of duties enabled me to acquire by more than 10 years of close inspection.

I have felt it my duty respectfully to submit the accompanying plan for the consideration of the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, showing that I do so with permission of Morgan O'Connell, Esq., Registrar. My sole motive is to endeavour to facilitate the public business, and thereby render a public service.

COPIES of the DEPOSITIONS taken at a Coroner's Inquest, held at Tullamore, in the King's County, on the 3d day of January 1862, on the Body of Alice Delin, who had been imprisoned in the County Gaol for Seven Days.

KING'S COUNTY to wit.

AN INQUISITION had, indented, and taken at Tullamore, in said County, on the 3d of January, in the 25th year of the reign of our Sovereign Lady the Queen, before William A. KING'S COUNTY to wit.

INFORMATIONS taken and acknowledged before me, at Tullamore, in said County, on the 3d day of January 1862, on view of the Body of Alicia Dillin, then lying dead at said place.

Informant, ELIZABETH DILLIN, of Newtown, in said county, servant, who being duly sworn, deposeth and saith:—That deceased, whose body was just now viewed by the jury, is that of Alicia Dillin, formerly of Killelany, in said county. On last Friday I came to Tullamore Gaol, to see the deceased. I saw at the gaol a turnkey, who told me I would not see her. I came again at seven o'clock the following morning, and remained at the gaol door until 10 o'clock. I heard a person saying, inside of the gaol gate, "The old woman is very bad." I saw the priest after attending my mother, and he told me she was purty feverish. A turnkey told me to get a car; that he would not let her out if I did not get a car. At either one or two I got the car, and went to the gaol. I was admitted, and there saw my mother as if she was half murdered. I asked her, "Do you know me?" She said, "Yes, you are Betty." I then lifted her on the car, assisted by three women. When I got up on the car with her, I asked her what happened to her; and she said, "she was murdered by severity and bad treatment from the wardsmaid that attended her;" and that the wardsmaid hit her on the shoulder with a poker; and that she (the wardsmaid) took 1 d. out of her pocket, which she had for tobacco. This conversation took place just in the street, after leaving the gaol. I then brought the deceased to Killelany, and minded her until she died. On Tuesday morning, about seven o'clock, she died. About a fortnight fortnight before she (the deceased) went to gaol, I saw her; she was then as well as any time I saw her, and appeared in the best of health. She is 40 years living in Killelany; she lived by dealing. She never begged any. She was one week in gaol, and was sent there for asking a grain of sugar (and did not get it) from Mrs. Carter. I am sure the deceased knew she was dying when she told me she received such bad treatment. I asked the deceased how she got the mark or cut that was over her eye. She said "she fell out of the bed in the gaol." Before she went to gaol she had good sight, and could see well. The deceased is 79 years old.

Elizabeth Dillin (her × mark).

The Rev. JOHN NOLAN, P. P., Killeigh and Geashill, saith:—I was called to see the deceased, Alicia Dillin, on Sunday the 29th December. I went to see her, and found her in a dying state. She told me she was dying; I asked her what did she believe caused her death; she said the journey to Tullamore gaol, and the treatment she received there. I repeated the question to her, in the presence of five or six persons, and her answer was again, "that she believed that the journey, and the treatment she received in the gaol, caused her death, and nothing else." She did not particularly state of any ill-treatment in the gaol, nor did I ask her.

Informant, Dr. JOHN RIDLEY, saith:—I was sent for by the Governor of the Tullamore gaol, on Saturday morning the 28th December, about half-past 10 o'clock in the morning, to see the deceased named to me as Dillin. I found her in a very debilitated state; the left arm and left leg paralyzed; she had a wound over the right eye, on which there was a piece of plaster. On inquiring from the attendants I was informed the deceased had fallen out of the bed; that her daughter was there for the purpose of bringing her home. I asked to see the daughter, to explain to her that I did not think she, the deceased, was equal to a journey in her state. I was told that the daughter had gone down street, and that she had told the nurse of the gaol that she purposed bringing her to the infirmary of the Tullamore workhouse. I was satisfied that such was to be the case, otherwise I would have endeavoured to induce her to leave her under my care in the infirmary of the gaol. Nurse Phillips, Mrs. Toomey, and Mr. Harding, the governor, were the persons I saw in attendance at the gaol. It appeared to me when I saw the old woman, that she had a sudden attack of paralysis; trouble or excitement might cause these attacks; any sudden shock to nervous system would cause such attacks. I believe the deceased was in a dangerous state, when I saw her. I am not in a position to say what was the cause of her death, but when I saw her she was bad enough to die in a couple of days. It is likely, carrying a woman of deceased's time of life, delicate, and poorly covered, in an asses' car, six Irish miles, and detaining her for some days in a gaol, would be likely to accelerate her death.

Sworn before me,

(signed) William A. Gowing, Coroner.

JOHN T. GLOVER, of Phillipstown, M. D., saith:—On Wednesday, the 1st January, I made an external examination of the body of the deceased, named Dillin; there was a mark of a recent injury over the right eye; she had a slight scrape on the elbow of the right arm; she had the remains of a large ulcer on the back, and slight ulcer on the left great toe; none of those injuries were sufficient to cause death. Coupled with the history I have heard, and knowing her to be an old woman, ailing for many years, I believe, so far as the examination I have made, her death was caused by congestion of the lungs. I heard the history from the daughter-in-law and daughter of the deceased; debility at deceased's time of life, exposure of cold, and a change from a warm habitation to a cold one, might cause congestion of the lungs. I have heard, since I came into Court, that deceased had an attack of paralysis shortly before her death; it is my opinion that deceased died of congestion of the lungs. It is also my opinion that travelling on a car to Tullamore gaol, would have very little effect on deceased, especially to a person of her habits of life. If deceased got a blow of a poker, a week previous to when I saw her, she would have the marks of it.

PATRICK PAYNE, Sub-constable of the Geashill District, saith :—I remember the 21st December. I was outside of the barrack-door, when Mr. Trench called me and told me to "take that woman into custody." I asked him was it Alicia Dillin? pointing to her (this was in Miss Carton's house at Geashill); he told me to take her into custody; and, at the same time, pulled a book out of his pocket and swore Miss Carton, and asked her was it alms she asked. She said it was. Mr. Trench then desired me to bring her to the police barrack, and said he would commit her for a week to Tullamore Gaol. I then brought her to the barrack. The constable was not in at the time, but Sub-constable Burke made out an information and took it to Mr. Trench, to his office. This information was taken in the barracks; this was Miss Carton's information, but she was not present. It was from me that Burke wrote out the information of Miss Carton. I and Sub-constable Burke then brought the two women to Tullamore gaol. I am sure the deceased and the other prisoner was in the police barrack when the informations were sworn. We then brought the prisoners to gaol, in an ass's carr, to Tullamore. We left Geashill about four o'clock. We arrived in Tullamore about 15 minutes after six o'clock. The deceased was very feeble, and complained along the way of being very cold. I took my coat off and put it around her. When I came to the gaol she was very feeble and not able to walk. When she was charged by Trench she was near falling with the anxiety of being taken, and would have fallen only for me. The deceased complained on the way, that she was afraid she would not leave the gaol alive. I knew she would not live long. The deceased had oats on her back, in a bag, and had a basket with rags in it. Miss Carton told me, after I arrested the deceased, that it was some sugar she asked. She (Miss Carton) said she was a decent poor woman, and was not annoying her. It was inside in the house she asked the sugar. I heard the deceased never asked alms, and was a decent woman. This I heard from the people of the neighbourhood.

JANE EGAN saith :—I am 72 years old. I live in the Queen's County. On Tuesday, the 24th, I was in gaol. I was there for asking one halfpenny from a gentleman; I don't know his name, but if I heard it I would remember it. It was Mr. Commins. This occurred in the street of Geashill. Mr. Trench was in his office, when he stepped out and asked Commins, "what did this woman want?" He said, "money." Mr. Trench asked, "was it in the line of charity?" "It was," said Commins. Mr. Trench then beckoned his hand to one of the police, who came smartly to his call, and brought me to the police barrack, and left me there until he hired a car, and brought me to Tullamore gaol. At the police barrack at Geashill we were put into a cell. Just as I was going into Mr. Trench's office I saw Commins kiss a book; after I saw Commins kiss the book, I did not hear him say anything. The two police were there all this time. There was no paper read for me at the office. Alicia Dillon was all this time with me, and took weakness inside in the cell, in the police barrack. I rapped the door, and the police brought her out to the fire. It was about half-past four o'clock when we were put in the ass's car and brought on to Tullamore. It was about eight o'clock when we arrived in Tullamore. I was cold, and the deceased was trembling with cold all the way. One of the policemen took off his coat and put it about the woman, as she was trembling with the cold. When we came to the gaol our clothes were taken off and the gaol clothes put on. When we arrived we did not get a toothful to eat, until nine o'clock next morning. I then got cold stirabout and good milk. Alicia Dillin got the same, but she was not able to eat it. From the time we were arrested in Geashill until the following morning we did not get one bit to eat. The deceased was a fellow-prisoner of mine, and she made no complaint of any one in the gaol, but said she would not live to see her time out. She did not make any complaint of being beaten in prison with a poker, nor was she. I never saw any one lift a hand to her in the gaol. She could not get any ill treatment in the gaol and I not to know it, for if she did she would tell me.

At this point of the proceedings, about 5 o'clock p. m., I asked the jury would they adjourn until morning to hear the evidence of the other witnesses; whereupon some of them said, "We want no more proof; we have agreed to our verdict." I asked them what it was? they said of natural causes: to wit, congestion of the lungs. I again advised them to hear the evidence of Miss Carton, and also the persons in whose charge the deceased was whilst in gaol; and to satisfy their minds sufficiently as to how she received the marks of violence she had on her, and which they saw. I then advised them generally, and distinctly told them that their refusing to hear the other witnesses which could be produced, would be illegal; and would give an opportunity, if sought for, to have the present inquisition which they were about to find quashed; finding they would not hear any more witnesses, I again advised them generally, desiring them if they were of opinion that the death of Alicia Dillin was hastened by cold, which brought on congestion of the lungs, they were to find so; if on the contrary they were of opinion that death resulted from natural causes alone, they were to find in accordance; upon this they retired to their room for about half an hour, when 15 of the 23 agreed to the verdict on the inquisition paper, and signed by them alone; eight were for finding that death was hastened by being arrested and conveyed in cold and hard weather, and with insufficient clothing, to Tullamore gaol from Geashill.

COPY of CORRESPONDENCE of Members of the Irish Government in relation to the case of Alice Delin.

The Lord Chancellor's Secretary to T. W. Trench, Esq.

Lord Chancellor's Secretary's Office, Four Courts, Dublin, 28 January 1862.

Sir,

I AM directed by the Lord Chancellor to transmit to you the enclosed papers, and to request that you will furnish his Lordship with any observations you may desire to make thereon.

T. W. Trench, Esq.

I have, &c.
(signed) Mark Perrin.

Thomas Weldon Trench, Esq., to the Lord Chancellor's Secretary.

Sir,

Essex Castle, Carrickmacross, 11 February 1862.

I BEG to enclose you a statement connected with the accompanying documents, which I shall be obliged by your laying before the Lord Chancellor. I regret extremely that I was not able to send you my reply ere this. I can only hope that my unavoidable absence from home may prove sufficient apology.

Mark Perrin, Esq.

I have, &c.
(signed) Thomas Weldon Trench.

Thomas Weldon Trench, Esq., to the Right Honourable the Lord Chancellor.

My Lord,

Essex Castle, Carrickmacross, 11 February 1862.

In returning the accompanying documents which your Lordship directed to be furnished to me for any observations I might think proper to make, I cannot refrain from expressing the deep concern with which I have read the observations of the Solicitor General on my conduct as a magistrate in the two cases therein referred to.

It would, perhaps, be considered presumptuous, in a magistrate of such small experience as I am, to enter into a discussion as to the correctness of the opinion expressed by the Solicitor General, which I should hope would not have been adverse to me, had the circumstances which I am about to state for your Lordship's information been brought under his notice.

For some time past urgent and repeated complaints have been made to me by the inhabitants of the village of Geashill, of their having been subjected to much annoyance from strolling beggars, and though I had the strongest reasons for knowing that such statements were well founded, I observed that those who made them preferred submitting to those grievances of which they complained so bitterly, to making themselves obnoxious by becoming prosecutors.

Under this state of facts, I certainly considered that it was my duty as a magistrate resident in the neighbourhood to put a stop to practices which I believed were injurious to the villagers, as well as contrary to law.

Being in the street of Geashill on the 21st of December last, I observed a woman whom I had not seen before, having the appearance of a strolling beggar, and whose name I subsequently learned was Jane Egan, addressing a person named John Comyns in such a way as left no doubt on my mind that she had been soliciting alms; under these circumstances, considering that the woman had committed the offence created by the 10 & 11 Vict. c. 84, s. 3, and that I had power under the 14 & 15 Vict. c. 93, c. 8, to adjudicate on the case summarily, and that it was my duty to do so, when the offence was in fact committed under my own eyes, I directed the arrest of the woman, and as I conceived myself authorised to do, proceeded to hear the case. Comyns was duly sworn in the presence of the woman, and deposed that she had solicited him to give her alms in the shape of money; she did not deny the charge, therefore I did commit and sentence her in the presence of Comyns to one week's imprisonment. After adjudication and conviction, the petty sessions clerk not living at Geashill, or within six or seven miles of it, and not being then aware that the police were forbidden by their code to draw up or prepare such documents, I directed them to prepare an information in writing, which they undertook, and brought to me. I again swore Comyns as to the truth of it, but did not consider it necessary that the woman should be then present, as she had already been convicted on the parol testimony of the witness, given in her presence. The information in writing being merely necessary for the committal, one of the constables subsequently prepared the committal, and I signed it; should there be any formal defect in these documents, it is not for me to say,
but

but your Lordship will bear in mind, I hope, that I had not and could not have the aid of the proper officers to prepare them.

I now proceed to detail the circumstances connected with Alice Dillon. I did not know the name of this person or her place of abode previous to the day in question, but I had seen her on two or three previous occasions occupied in a way which left no doubt on my mind, as to her being a professional beggar.

I have since learned that she lodged at a house, situate about two miles from Geashill, and I have since also been informed that she was in the habit of begging, and that on the morning of that day, she had begged and received money from a respectable woman at the residence of that person near Geashill.

Between the hours of 11 and one o'clock, I observed her entering, from the public street of Geashill, the open door of the public dispensary there. From her appearance, and the manner in which she was wandering about, I had no doubt she did so for the purpose of soliciting alms. I made inquiry of Miss Frances Carter (who with her father lives in and takes care of the dispensary) as to what this woman was about; she told me she had been soliciting alms. I have since learned that her first demand was for some sugar, and on being refused, she then asked Miss Carter for money; this request was made immediately on her crossing the threshold of the door, and as she was then standing in the public passage of the public dispensary, under these circumstances I swore and examined Frances Carter in the presence of Alice Dillon; and upon her evidence, deeming that the offence created by 10 & 11 Vict. c. 83, had been committed, I convicted her, and sentenced her to one week's imprisonment, and she was then removed to the police barrack.

In the subsequent proceedings with the written informations and committal, my acts were exactly similar to those already described in the case of Jane Egan, and therefore I do not deem it necessary to repeat them. I need hardly say, it is far from my intention to state my opinion on a legal question to your Lordship, but I may be allowed to observe that common sense would lead a plain man to suppose that the spirit of the act for the suppression of street begging was equally transgressed, whether the beggar, whilst soliciting alms, chose to stand six inches inside or six inches outside the threshold of an open door from the public street.

The two women being thus convicted and in custody, the police applied to me for an asses car for the removal of the women to Tullamore, which I gave; and they were taken there in the usual manner, the police barracks at Geashill not containing any proper accommodation for prisoners. I had not at the time the slightest idea that Alice Dillon laboured under any disease, nor did she make to me, nor did I hear of her making to any one, any statement or representation to any one that her health would be endangered by her transmission to gaol, and I deny the statement that the woman was near falling or showed any symptoms of weakness, when charged with the offence.

Subsequently both convictions were duly entered in the books of the petty sessions, pursuant to the provisions of the 14 & 15 Vict.

The proceedings at the inquest were conducted by the police, who state that it was attended by counsel, instructed by a solicitor; with this I had nothing to do, these gentlemen were not employed by me, or by any one on my behalf. If this had been, or if I had been represented there, I entertain a firm belief that this case, as it has come before your Lordship, would have assumed a very different aspect. But I venture to submit to your Lordship's candid judgment, that it would be most unjust to those whose duty it is to execute the laws and most destructive to the administration of them, to hold magistrates who have acted without any object or motive but a desire to do their duty, responsible for consequences which they could neither foresee or prevent. For myself, I most sincerely declare I had no indirect or unworthy object in either of these proceedings, and that I was solely actuated by a desire to perform a duty, which I believed to be an imperative one from the increase in the number of persons who publicly solicited alms in the street of Geashill.

Your Lordship may easily believe how deeply concerned I am to find that the Solicitor General should not merely have directed that my conduct should be brought under your Lordship's especial notice, but that he should have expressed an opinion that the proceedings were not creditable to me; if I understood that expression only in the sense that I had erred in some formal particular, or not shown a sufficient acquaintance with legal technicalities, I should have received with thankfulness, such caution as might prove useful for my future guidance, but fearing as I do that the expressions used are meant in a different sense, and intended to imply that I have been guilty not of an error of judgment, but of improper harshness or severity towards Alice Dillon, I must most firmly protest against that imputation, feeling as I do, that I neither had, nor could by any one who knows me, have been supposed to have had any object or motive other than an honest desire to execute the law, and promote the welfare of a neighbourhood, in which it is not too much to say that I have taken and manifested as deep an interest as any resident in it. It is unfortunate for me that all the representations of my conduct should come from members of the police force, as your Lordship will find on inquiry that, to say the least, several members of that body are at present not actuated by any friendly motives towards me.

I have, &c.

The Right Hon. the Lord Chancellor.

Dublin, 4 March 1862.

Sir,

I AM directed by the Lord Chancellor to write that his Lordship has read the statement transmitted with your letter of the 11th February, and on considering the whole of the proceedings to which his Lordship's attention had been directed by the several documents transmitted to him by desire of his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, and the explanations given by you, his Lordship feels bound to observe, that your conduct on the occasions alluded to appears to him to be open to grave animadversion. The clause of the statute 14 & 15 Vict. c. 93, to which you refer, no doubt reserves to a magistrate the power of adjudicating out of petty sessions in cases of vagrancy coming within the provisions of the 10 & 11 Vict. c. 84, and in that respect you had jurisdiction to proceed by way of summary conviction of offenders against those provisions when duly brought before you; you may also not unreasonably have thought it to be your duty as a magistrate to suppress the practice of vagrancy in the locality with which you are connected; but in the exercise of this summary jurisdiction the proceedings of a magistrate should be regular in form as well as substance, and founded on clear evidence of the commission of the offence against which the statute is directed. The first observation to which your conduct in both the cases of Jane Egan and Alice Dillon gives rise is, that in each of them you acted as magistrate, prosecutor, and judge; as a magistrate you directed the sub-constable to arrest the parties; as prosecutor, you sought out the evidence, and had the accused brought before yourself; and as judge, you adjudicated on the cases so got up; in neither case was there, in fact, any distinct complainant, the persons nominally stated as being complainants on the face of the proceedings, acting merely at your instance in giving evidence as witnesses; that evidence, however, appears to have been duly given on oath, in the presence of the accused, and upon evidence so verbally given, if sufficient in fact, convictions might have been sustained.

The subsequent informations in writing do not appear to his Lordship to have been necessary, and he, therefore, does not make any observation on the mode in which they were taken. As regards the evidence so given in each case, it would seem that an offence within the terms of the Vagrant Act was proved against Jane Egan; it is doubtful, however, whether the conviction in her case was legally sufficient in form. In the case of Alice Dillon, the conviction is plainly defective in not showing that she had committed such an act of vagrancy in a public place as would sustain it, and the evidence against her did not establish the fact. The Lord Chancellor cannot adopt the view which you appear to entertain, that the passage of the dispensary house was a public passage within the meaning of the Act, which evidently refers to public streets or passages in the ordinary sense. The conviction of Alice Dillon was on this account, in the opinion of the Lord Chancellor, illegal, both in form and substance. A very serious question is involved in these proceedings in consequence of this illegality—that of the extent to which you might be held responsible for the unfortunate event which subsequently happened, viz., the death of Alice Dillon. Upon that question the Lord Chancellor does not feel that he ought to pronounce any formal opinion, but he cannot avoid making some observations upon it. You observe that magistrates acting without any object or motive but a desire to do their duty ought not to be held responsible for consequences which they could neither foresee nor prevent. The observation is a just one, where the act of the magistrate is in itself free from illegality. It may also be said that you do not appear to have interfered in the actual removal of the prisoner to gaol, except in supplying the vehicle in which she was conveyed there. You deny that her apparent condition, as far as it came under your notice, was such as to lead you to apprehend any dangerous consequences from her committal to prison, nor does it appear that any remonstrance or suggestion was made to you on the subject. Still the whole proceeding was hasty and irregular; it had the appearance of great and unnecessary harshness, and the conviction and committal were both illegal. The verdict of the coroner's jury does not indeed find that the woman's death was the result of the arrest, removal, or imprisonment, or that it was accelerated by any of those acts; yet it would not have created much surprise had the case been otherwise, had these hurried and agitating proceedings led directly to the fatal result, and had the verdict of the jury in consequence been of a very serious character as against you and all parties concerned: such, in truth, appears to have been the opinion of eight of the jurors, an opinion borne out by some of the evidence, and in itself not very unwarranted by the probabilities of the case. All the considerations to which I have thus adverted have led the Lord Chancellor to entertain a very unfavourable opinion of your conduct in these proceedings, an opinion so strong that his Lordship has had much difficulty in coming to any other conclusion than that you ought not longer to be entrusted with magisterial functions which you appear to have exercised with so much irregularity and precipitancy, attended by so calamitous an event. His Lordship is, however, able to add, that you had no personal motive in those proceedings; that you were bonâ fide actuated by a zealous desire to put the law in force in what you considered to be the public benefit; that legally you had jurisdiction to deal with the offences charged against the convicted parties, and that any errors which you may have fallen into in the course of proceedings under a statute which admits of the most summary procedure, do not appear to have been other than errors of judgment; ment; a judgment prompted perhaps too hastily by your strong determination to protect the inhabitants of your vicinity from annoyance and imposition.

Viewing the case in this light, the Lord Chancellor hopes he may, without peril to the administration of justice, refrain from taking the extreme step of removing you from the commission of the peace. His Lordship will trust that in future you will act with more caution and consideration, and so as not to give occasion for any animadversion of your conduct as a magistrate of so grave a character as his Lordship has felt bound to make on the present occasion.

Thomas Weldon Trench, Esq.

I have, &c.

COURT of Oyer and Terminer and Gaol Delivery in and for the County of Tyrone.

THE QUEEN v. JOSEPH DONNELLY.

Challenge.

AND now at this day come as well the Right honourable Thomas O'Hagan, Her Majesty's Attorney General for Ireland, who for our said Lady the Queen now prosecutes in this behalf, as the said Joseph Donnelly in his own proper person, and the jury thereupon empanelled likewise come, and thereupon the said Joseph Donnelly challenges the array of the said panel, because he says that the said panel was arrayed and returned by Samuel Wensley Blackall, Esquire, now and at the time of the making of the array aforesaid, sheriff of the county of Tyrone, and that on the first day of January in the year of our Lord, One thousand Eight hundred and Sixty-two, there was and still is, a jurors' book in force in and for the county of Tyrone aforesaid, containing the names of all persons lawfully qualified to serve as jurors in and for the said county, for and during the year aforesaid, and which said book was made out and delivered to the said sheriff pursuant to the statutable enactments in that behalf, and that the said sheriff in the arraying and returning of the said panel, and in answer to the several precepts for the return of jurors contrary to the statutable enactments in that behalf, did array and return in said panel and said precepts severally, divers persons, to wit, Gilbert M'Hugh, of Castlederg, merchant; Francis O'Neill, of Mount Pleasant, gentleman; Hugh Quinn, of Creggan, gentleman; James Quinn, of Doneglass Bridge, gentleman; Francis M'Crossan, of Tullymuck, farmer; John Cunningham, of Lisnamallard, merchant; Neal Browne, of Killeter, merchant; John Garland, of Fivemiletown, merchant; Patrick Martin, of Fivemiletown, freeholder; Felix O'Neill, of Cosh Killyman, linendraper; Michael Quinn, of Cookstown, draper; Bernard Montague, Dungannon, draper; Charles M'Shane, merchant; John Owens, of Fivemiletown, merchant; Patrick Fitzpatrick, of Ballygawley, innkeeper; Felix O'Donnell, of Glenherdias, farmer; Alexander Mullen, of Ballygawley, merchant; James Graham, of Mountjoy, farmer; James Buchanan, of Mayne, farmer; George Buchanan, of Dervar, farmer; James Armstrong, of Fintona, merchant; John Graham, Strabane, merchant; John Stewart, of Lisky, farmer; John Brown, of Stragallion, farmer; William Hamilton, of Strabane, innkeeper; Thomas Agnew, of Dungannon; merchant; Andrew Jack, of Edergoll, farmer, and James Cluff, of Cookstown, cabinet-maker;

maker; whose names were not and are not contained in the said jurors' book, or in any other jurors' book lawfully in force in and for the said county, and which Gilbert M'Hugh, Francis O'Neill, Hugh Quinn, James Quinn, Francis M'Crossan, John Cunningham, Neal Brown, John Garland, Patrick Martin, Felix O'Neill, Michael Quinn, Michael Montague, Charles M'Shane, John Owens, Patrick Fitzpatrick, Felix O'Donnell, Alexander Mullen, James Graham, James Buchanan, George Buchanan, James Armstrong, John Graham, John Stewart, John Browne, William Hamilton, Thomas Agnew, Andrew Jack, and James Cluff, and which said parties are not, nor is any or either of them contained in the said or in any jurors' book for the said county, nor is any or either of them lawfully qualified to act as juror or jurors on the trial of any prisoner or prisoners at the said court of oyer and terminer and gaol delivery in and for the county aforesaid, and because the said sheriff did act with partiality in arraying the said panel, for that he did omit therefrom the names of certain persons lawfully qualified to serve as jurors in and for the said county, for and during the year aforesaid, because he the said sheriff deemed them more likely to acquit than to convict the said prisoner, and did insert and return thereon the names of the said Gilbert M'Hugh, Francis O'Neill, Hugh Quinn, James Quinn, Francis M'Crossan, John Cunningham, Neal Brown, John Garland, Patrick Martin, Felix O'Neill, Michael Quinn, Michael Montague, Charles M'Shane, John Owens, Patrick Fitzpatrick, Felix O'Donnell, Alexander Mullen, James Graham, James Buchanan, George Buchanan, James Armstrong, John Graham, John Stewart, John Browne, William Hamilton, Thomas Agnew, Andrew Jack, and James Cluff, because he deemed the said Gilbert M'Hugh, Francis O'Neill, Hugh Quinn, James Quinn, Francis M'Crossan, John Cunningham, Neal Brown, John Garland, Patrick Martin, Felix O'Neill, Michael Quinn, Michael Montague, Charles M'Shane, John Owens, Patrick Fitzpatrick, Felix O'Donnell, Alexander Mullen, James Graham, James Buchanan, George Buchanan, James Armstrong, John Graham, John Stewart, John Browne, William Hamilton, Thomas Agnew, Andrew Jack, and James Cluff, because he deemed them more likely to convict than to acquit the said prisoner, and because the said panel was so arrayed and returned by and through the agency of Charles M'Crossan, Esq., solicitor, sub-sheriff of the said county, John M'Crossan, Esq., the brother of the said Charles M'Crossan, being the attorney for the next of kin of the deceased Patrick Hillon, and actively assisting in the prosecution, and interested in the conviction of the said prisoner, to the manifest wrong and injury of the said prisoner, and this the said Joseph Donnelly is ready to verify. Whereupon he prays judgment, and that the said panel may be quashed.

C. C. Davidson,
Attorney for the Prisoner.

S. Yates Johnston.
J. P. Hamilton.

Demurrer.

AND the said Thomas O'Hagan, says, that the challenge of the said Joseph Donnelly to the array of the panel aforesaid is not sufficient in law to quash the array of the panel aforesaid; and that the said challenge is double and wants form, and that there is no necessity for him, the said Thomas O'Hagan, nor is he obliged by the law of the land, to answer to the said challenge in manner and form as it is above alleged; wherefore he prays judgment, and that the array of the said panel may be affirmed.

Joinder to Demurrer.

AND the said Joseph Donnelly says, that he hath above alleged sufficient matter in law in the said challenge by him above made to the array of the panel aforesaid to quash the array of the said panel, which he the said Joseph Donnelly

Donnelly is ready to verify, which said matter the said Attorney General does not deny, nor in any manner answer thereto; wherefore the said Joseph Donnelly prays judgment, and that the array of the said panel may be quashed.

S. Yates Johnston.

Ruling, Friday, 7th March 1862.

COUNSEL having been heard, as well for the traverser as for the Crown, the Honourable Judge Christian was pleased to overrule said demurrer.

Note.—Judgments pronounced in the course of a cause not finally exhausting the cause, but only disposing finally of part of it, have not been included in the foregoing return. Nor have petitions for the appointment of factors, &c., or under the Entail Acts, been included, even where answers have been lodged. These petitions form a considerable portion of the business performed by the Junior Lord Ordinary in the Court of Session.

Note.—It is necessary to explain that many of the cases embraced in the Return, after being finally decided, have been settled by the parties, without the costs being taxed, or the decree, either for principal or expenses, extracted or recorded; and as a considerable number of such causes have been borrowed up by the parties, and other cases have been carried to the superior courts, it has been impossible in some instances to supply certain of the items of the Return. All that the interlocutors contain often being merely "Decerns as libelled," or "Decerns in terms of the conclusions of the summons." The Return does not embrace cessios, fugees, lanburrows, bankruptcy cases, or appeals and applications under special statutes.

Note.—The foregoing Return only includes causes in which appearance was entered, a record made up and the case finally decided on the merits within the year 1860. A number of causes in which a good deal of litigation took place during the period of the Return were, after a decision on certain of the pleas of parties which did not exhaust the cause, either compromised, or allowed to fall asleep, and are therefore not embraced in this Return.

Both the clerk of the peace and the returning officer for the boroughs are unable to furnish the information in columns 10 and 11.

Note.—It is proper that the registers of voters in counties are arranged in townships, and that as many of the boroughs include portions only of townships and parishes, there is nothing upon the face of the register to show whether the residence of a voter or his qualification is situate within the limits of such borough or not.

Note.—Many of the Burghs in the foregoing Return are situated in other Counties than those against which they are placed. This has been found necessary, in order that the various groups of Burghs which return a Member might be kept together. But in these cases the details relating to such Burghs, in so far as situated without the County, are not included in the aggregate Return given for the County.

The number of Houses include unoccupied Dwelling-houses, as well as those occupied.

Crown Office,
Edinburgh, 27 January 1862.

And. Murray, jun.,
Crown Agent.

RETURN to an Address of the Honourable The House of Commons, dated 25 July 1861;—for,

A "RETURN of the POPULATION of England, Scotland, and Ireland, respectively, according to the Census of 1861, and the Total Amount of REVENUE derived from TAXATION of England, Scotland, and Ireland, respectively, for the Three Years ending the 31st day of December 1860, under the Departments of Inland Revenue (excluding therefrom Income Tax under Schedules (C.) and (E.)), on Public Funds, and on Public Salaries), Customs, and Post Office, respectively; showing, also, the Number of REPRESENTATIVES which each of these Divisions of the United Kingdom would have, if the 658 Members of the House of Commons were allotted to them:—1. Proportionately to such Population; 2. Proportionately to such Revenue; and 3. Proportionately to the mean of such Population and Revenue:—Also, the Number of Members which each of these Divisions now has, and the Excess or Short-coming of the Number of Members, as the case may be, as compared with the mean of such Population and Revenue (in continuation of, and in the same form as Parliamentary Paper, No. 159, of Session 1859)."
